Would vote to censure Nixon, says Ford

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Vice President Gerald Ford said Saturday that if he were still a member of the House of Representatives he would vote to censure President Nixon.

"Censure is less serious (than impeachment) and therefore if the alternative was presented and I were in the House, I would favor it," Ford said while campaigning for freshman Republican Congressman Dave Treen.

The vice president added, however, that he is convinced the President is innocent in the Watergate affair.

"I don't think the American people are going to blame every Republican just for the misdeeds of a few," Ford said. "I don't blame every Democrat just because some happen to make mistakes and I don't think the American people will either."

Earlier, campaigning for Republican congressional candidates in Hattiesburg, Miss., Ford said the President's position appeared to have "eroded in the House. I think the odds are that he may be impeached."

Ford made no mention of Watergate or impeachment during campaign stops at Columbus, Jackson and Hattiesburg. But he did field questions on the subject at a news conference at the Pine Belt Regional Airport north of Hattiesburg.

Asked whether he thought Nixon should be censured rather than impeached, Ford said, "If I had my druthers, I would rather have the House of Representatives vote as I think is justified —acquittal."

The vice president said he believes the President "is being attacked in a partisan way by segments of Congress."

Ford hit on the same theme at all three stops, warning that if Democrats are able to elect a "veto-proof" Congress this year, more taxpayers' money will be spent than ever before in history.

He began his tour at the Golden Triangle Airport in Columbus where he strongly endorsed the congressional candidacy of Republican Ben Hilburn before a turnout of about 500 persons. Later he was guest of honor at a $250-a-plate dinner at Jackson.

Ford also endorsed Mississippi's two freshmen GOP congressmen —Thad Cochran and Trent Lott. Lott, a member of the House Judiciary Committee, voted against the articles of impeachment.

Ford said America needs to pick a Congress made up of "savers, not spenders" to help curb inflation.

The vice president said there are forces in Washington and around the country who are predicting with glee that they are going to elect a "veto-proof Congress."

"If they do you'll have the biggest-spending Congress in the history of the United States," he said. "If they get what they want, in no way whatsoever will there be any checkrein on spending. I think people want an inflation-proof Congress, rather than a veto-proof Congress."

He said what Americans want in the future "as we have now is peace throughout the world and a strong viable economy at home."

Carrasco, 3 others die in shootout

Telephone strike looms tonight in last-ditch effort

Negotiators for the Bell Telephone system and union employes held informal talks Saturday in hopes of reaching a contract agreement before a nationwide strike deadline of midnight tonight. But there were no reports of progress or the lack of it.

A spokesman for the 500,000-member Communication Workers of America said "there is still probing" in the union's talks with Bell negotiators in Washington. But he declined to characterize the sessions as making progress.

"The fact that we're talking indicates positions have not hardened," a Bell spokesman said. "I would hate to say either there is or is not progress."

Another 75,000 Bell employes, represented by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, also faced a strike deadline at 12:01 a.m. Monday as did members of 35 smaller unions representing Bell employes.

A telephone company spokesman said a strike would delay repairs, installations and operator services, but should not affect ordinary calls that are dialed by the customer.

PRIEST WOUNDED IN SHOOTOUT

Father Joseph O'Brien, 46, is wheeled into Huntsville Hospital after he was wounded when inmate Fred Carrasco and two other inmates attempted to break out of the Huntsville State Prison Saturday.

Accomplice, two hostages killed; 3 hostages wounded

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Renegade convict Fred Gomez Carrasco was killed Saturday night in a shootout while trying to escape from the Texas State Prison where he held 13 hostages for 10 days. One accomplice and two hostages also died, and three other hostages were wounded.

Texas Department of Corrections chief W. J. Estelle Jr. said inmate Rudolpho Dominguez, who assisted Carrasco during the ordeal, had been killed along with hostages Julia Standley, 43, a Huntsville librarian, and Elizabeth Beseada, 47, a Huntsville teacher.

Estelle said three other hostages were wounded during the gunbattle which took place as Carrasco left his prison library fortress behind a human shield.

Those wounded were inmate hostage Martin Quiroz, 27, of Houston, the Rev. Joseph O'Brien, a Catholic chaplain, and inmate hostage Florencio Vera, 29, of Bexar County.

Estelle said Mrs. Standley and Mrs. Beseda were acting as human shields and "every hostage was handcuffed to the inmate gunmen."

Estelle said convict Ignacio Cuevas shot the Rev. O'Brien. Cuevas, uninjured, was placed in solitary confinement immediately.

"At no time was any thought given to the granting of any illegal freedom to any illegal captor," Estelle said. "No hostage taken through any gate of any prison can be considered anything but dead.

"This is one of the meanest days that anyone ever spent in public service," the TDC director said. "This has been 11 days of pure terror for the families."

Estelle said a blackboard with books taped to the outside served as a shield for the desperados as they walked from the prison.

Texas Ranger Peter Rogers led the assault team which met the hostages and convict gunmen as they descended a ramp, Estelle said.

Authorities used high pressure fire hoses mounted on the west wall to drive the hostages away from their captors and to knock down the shield.

Estelle said prison officials had agreed at 5 p.m. EDT to allow the convicts to leave the library building —surrounded by eight hostages on the outside of the shield and four hostages inside.

An armored truck was parked in the courtyard near the library fortress at 8:30 p.m. EDT. Forty five minutes later one of the inmate hostages was directed to start the vehicle and inspect it.

At 10:15 p.m. EDT, the gunmen —shielded by their hostages —left the library and were intercepted halfway down a ramp by heavily armed law officers wearing body armor.

Bursts of automatic gunfire rang out for about 25 seconds, and then the prison was silent.

FBI agent Robert Wyatt fired blasts of water from high pressure hoses to drive the hostages on the outside away from the blackboard shield.

"Most of the fire was coming from within the shield," said Wyatt.

FRED GOMEZ CARRASCO

Estelle said the officers' strategy was successful and the eight hostages on the outside were rescued.

"The response was gunfire," Estelle said. "Several officers received shots to body armor. Thank God none of them was hurt."

Continuing in a low voice, Estelle said, "The results, under the circumstances considered, were the best we could hope for."

The TDC director said those inside the shield were Novella Pollard, 46, an assistant principal from Huntsville, Bertha Davis, 54, a Huntsville teacher, Mrs. Standley and the Rev. O'Brien.

In Austin, Gov. Dolph Briscoe said, "Mrs. Brisco and I extended our deepest sympathy to the families and friends of Mrs. Beseda and Mrs. Standley. Their 11-day ordeal has ended in tragedy.

"We offer our prayers for the recovery of Father O'Brien. We thank the good Lord that the other hostages have been delivered safely."

Uninjured were:

Ann Fleming, 50, Huntsville librarian.

Novella Pollard, 46, assistant principal from Huntsville.

Anthony Branch, 36, Huntsville teacher.

Ron Robinson, 35, Conroe teacher.

Motorcyclist hurt in crash

A collision involving a motorcycle and an automobile at the intersection of Mountain and Chino Avenues in Chino resulted in the hospitalization of Randall J. DeJong, 20, Saturday afternoon.

DeJong, who lives at 6094 Chino Ave., Chino, suffered a fractured pelvis when his motorcycle skidded and struck broadside a car driven by Carolyn K. Davis, 21, of 6335 Alfonso Court, Chino.

According to the Officer Michael Jinks of the Chino Police Department, DeJong was thrown 20 feet from the point of impact. He was taken to Chino General Hospital where his condition was reported as fair Saturday night.

Storage building destroyed in fire

Three fire pump trucks extinguished a fire at a storage building in Chino Saturday evening.

The first destroyed an out-building on the property of Roy Halls at 11587 Ramona Ave. in Chino at about 5 p.m.

Two pump trucks from the Chino Fire Department and one from the Montclair Fire Department battled the fire, which also burned a fence and scorched a nearby barn.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Nixon secluded in hideaway with last of tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon secluded himself in his hideaway office in the Executive Office Building Saturday, working on final Watergate materials to be handed over by Wednesday to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

His aides, including Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, have said that the President was so busy listening to the tapes required by the Supreme Court order, and with other business, that he had no time to consider impeachment strategy.

But it was expected that Nixon would soon confer with his advisers on how to pursue what the White House now publicly concedes is an uphill political struggle to avoid impeachment by the House of Representatives.

The White House remained silent Saturday on what that strategy might turn out to be, but aides hinted that Nixon's lieutenants would be speaking out in a political vein in days ahead.

There also were indications that Nixon hoped to keep Vice President Gerald Ford in his corner during the struggle.

Nixon late Saturday gathered his family together and helicoptered to the Camp David presidential retreat near here.

White House aides would provide only sketchy information about the unscheduled trip but said the party included Nixon and his wife Pat, daughters Tricia Cox and Julie Eisenhower and their husbands, and Nixon's best friend, Florida banker Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

Men in shower room of girls college causes row

LENORE WALLACE
P-B Staff Writer

In years past, raccoon coats, panty raids and protest marches have been the rage on college campuses.

Now it's cleanliness.

Or so it would appear from all the fuss that has been caused by a letter written by two unidentified Scripps College students to a syndicated columnist.

The students complained to the "Dear Abby" column that men use shower facilities at the all-girl school and also protested the 24-hour visitation system in the dormitories.

"Not only are men allowed in the girls' rooms 24-hours a day, but they are also allowed to use our bathroom facilities. We find it particularly embarrassing to encounter men just outside the shower with only a towel wrapped around them. We also encounter couples showering together in the same stall," the letter read.

The article included a response from the Scripps College dean of students, Stephanie Adams, suggesting that if these conditions upset the students, college authorities would "make every effort to provide a living situation compatible with her particular life style."

Since the article appeared, Miss Adams is no longer with the college. Scripps President Mark Curtis said she was not reappointed to the position she had held since 1969, but this had no connection with the controversy over her reply to the Dear Abby letter.

The article, which appeared nationwide in mid-June, brought mixed reac-

Mansfield calls for return to wage, price controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Breaking with his own party's economic policy, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday the government should reimpose wage and price controls to help stem inflation.

The Monatana senator also said the nation is now "in a recession" and the slight rise in nationwide unemployment during the month of July was "only the precursor of other rises in that area."

Mansfield's position on wage-price controls, disclosed in an interview with reporters, put him in conflict both with President Nixon's economic programs and the Democratic response outlined three days ago.

Nixon has asked Congress to establish a Cost of Living Task Force to monitor wages and prices, but without enforcement powers. The Democrats suggested the same thing in their alternative policy statement Wednesday.

But Mansfield said he wanted a "real" Cost of Living Council reestablished, similar to the one abolished earlier this year, and "the resumption of wage and price controls.

"Otherwise things are going to get out of hand," the Montana senator said.

On another topic, Mansfield said all incumbent senators up for re-election this November "can anticipate a difficult campaign."

He said they "cannot afford to take any chances because the mood of the country is pretty much against the government.

"I think we stand a reasonably good chance of adding two or three seats to the Democratic majority," he said, but he would not identify the seats.

Mansfield said he opposes any break in a possible Senate trial of Nixon to allow senators to return to their states for campaigning. "I would think that the people would want their duly-elected representatives to stay here," he said.

Carrasco killed . . .

Bobby Heard, prison guard.

Steven Ray Robertson, Dallas County, inmate, sentenced to 16 years in prison for rape.

Glennon Johnson, 51, an educational consultant from Hunsville, and Aline House, 61, the prison's head librarian, were removed from the prison library last week because of heart trouble.

Inmate Enrique Escamilla, serving a five-year sentence for shoplifting, escaped from the library last Monday by diving through glass doors.

The teachers and instructors are employed by the Windham School District and work full time at the Texas Department of Corrections.

The gunfire, approximately 100 rounds, went off at 10:34 p.m. EDT, and a stray shot was heard at 10:45 p.m. EDT.

The first bursts came two hours after a prison spokemsan said, "an operation had begun," involving "some exchanges."

Before that, prison officials moved an armored truck into a countyard near Carrasco's lair.

A helicopter equipped with searchlights circled low over the prison administration building across the street.

"The operation has started," said prison spokesman Ron Taylor. "It's going a little bit slower than we anticipated.

"It involves some exchanges."

When asked if he meant an exchange of hostages, Taylor merely reported "The operation has started."

Prison officials beefed up the manpower around Carrasco's lair early in the evening, saying they were in a very critical period in negotiations for the freedom of the 12 hostages.

Fire trucks drove alongside the prison walls and firemen lowered hoses and sandbags over a wall.

Taylor asked reporters to cooperate with attempts to bargain with Carrasco.

"We're in a situation now where any kind of audio can kill 12 lives," Taylor told national television network reporters. I am going to have to ask you not to transmit for a few minutes.

"We are in a very critical period."

Texas Department of Corrections guards maintaining a roadblock at a corner near the prison were joined by helmeted Huntsville police officers in squad cars.

Musicians, film makers in pact

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Agreement on a new three-year contract between motion picture employers and the American Federation of Musicians was reached.

The new pact was announced jointly by Billy Hunt, spokesman or the Association of Motion Picture and Television Producers and Hal Davis, AFM president.

The contract was reached after two weeks talks and will take effect Aug. 1, the day after the present agreement expires.

Contracts for both theatrical and television films were negotiated.

Details were not disclosed pending approval by AFM members.

Turks resupply beachhead

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Turkey resupplied its invasion force on Cyprus Saturday with a beachhead shuttle of landing craft. Inland, commanders of the rival Turkish and Greek Cypriot armies met anew against a background of sporadic gunfire to work out ceasefire lines.

In Athens, Greek Foreign Minister George Mavros said Greece may boycott the second phase of the Geneva talks scheduled to start Aug. 8 "if the Turks continue their violations of the cease-fire."

Turkish Cypriot leader Raul Denktash, who will represent the minority Turkish Cypriot community at Geneva, arrived in Ankara Saturday for talks with the Turkish government on the latest diplomatic develcpments regarding Cyprus.

U.N. troops in the area around Lapithos, a village six miles west of Kyrenia on the northern coast, reported light artillery action from Turkish gunners. Machine gun and rifle fire crackled at intervals in the mountain south of Lapithos.

Landing craft shuttled thousands of tons of supplies from five Turkish freighters anchored off the invasion beach to the island where Turkey has landed about 30,000 men since the its troops first went ashore July 20.

Two frigates and a destroyer cruised slowly near the freighters to protect them from attack. Another Turkish cruiser was silhouetted on the horizon.

Turkish, Greek and British army officers met for three hours in the morning at U.N. headquarters near Nicosia Airport to map out permanent ceasefire lines and U.N. buffer zones on the war-divided island, a U.N. spokesman said.

"They discussed delineation of the cease-fire lines," the spokesman said.

The talks began Friday with all three officers appearing grim. The spokesman said no decision has been made on when to fly over the island in a helicopter to begin visual mapping of the cease-fire line.

The negotiations are an outgrowth of the cease-fire signed Tuesday in Geneva by Britain, Greece and Turkey, the three guarantors of the independence of Cyprus.

Scantily-clad bodies of 2 girls who vanished on walk found

SWANSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — The partially-clad bodies of two 15-year-old girls were found lying by a dirt road in the Bears Creek area near here, Onslow County authorities said Saturday.

The girls, Cindy Howard and Karen Mabile, lived across the street from each other in nearby Jacksonville. They vanished Friday evening as they walked home from the Post Office.

Police speculated the two were kidnaped, beaten, assaulted and strangled before being left on the rural road near this Outer Banks town about 17 miles east of Jacksonville.

State and local law enforcement officers were working on the case, but reported little progress.

The two vanished about 5:30 p.m. Friday, Marvin Arthur, Cindy's stepfather, said.

The bodies, clad only in panties, were discovered about five hours later by Onslow County Deputy Arthur Allen Marshburn as he drove his pickup truck along a dirt road near his vacation home. He told investigators he saw the bodies by the road, but at first drove past them, thinking they were manikins.

Congress planning funeral for aging Smokey the Bear

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Smokey the Bear is coming to the end of his life and Congress is planning his funeral.

The House is expected to pass a resolution Monday which would return Smokey, now 24 and a resident of the National Zoo, to his birthplace near Capitan, N.M., for "proper disposition and ... a permanent memorial." The life span of a bear in captivity is between 25 and 30 years.

The biggest disagreement came over the wording of the resolution, introduced by Rep. Harold Runnels, D-N.M., in the House Agriculture Committee. The original bill would have sent Smokey to "that big honey tree in the sky" since some Committee members felt that small children would be offended if they found out that bears die. The final version of the resolution, approved last week, said that Smokey would be sent west after his death.

Smokey was a black bear cub whose feet were burned by a fire in the El Capitan National Forest. Forest rangers found him and sent him to Washington. He has been the star of a wide public relations campaign aimed at preventing forest fires.

A cub from the same area has been brought to Washington to be Smokey Jr. after the old bear dies.

2 women jailed for violating antinudity law

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two 20-year-old Hollywood women Saturday became the first to be arrested for violating the new anti-nudity ordinance at city recreation areas, authorities said.

A 24-year-old Long Beach, Calif., man, Wayne O. Wilson, was arrested Friday after failing to heed several warnings to put his clothes on.

Arrested Saturday were Jamie Johnston, and Sandy St. James.

The watch commander for police at Venice beach, site of most of the nude sunbathing, said several hundred other people obeyed the warnings of officers and got into their swimsuits.

A restraining order which for two weeks had blocked enforcement of the law was lifted by a county judge Friday. During that period nudity had been legal at recreation areas.

Sgt. John Cizin, who heads the 15-man Venice beach patrol, said until Monday his men would give violators of the ordinance a number of warnings before arresting them, but after that they would be subject to arrest without warning.

Motorist wanted in rape attempt

Officers said the suspect picked up the girl at Holt and Lewis avenues in Pomona late Friday night, drove her to White and McKinley avenues, near the fairgrounds, and tried to rape her.

The suspect ripped off her blouse, police added, but she managed to free herself and jumped out of the car. The man, described as clean-shaven, about 21 years old, 5-foot-8 and 150 pounds, quickly sped away in his car.

Man shot in mouth is improved

A 20-year-old Claremont man, who was accidentally shot in the mouth Thursday, was reported in fair and improved condition Saturday at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

John M. Bittles of 932 Penn Court, has been taken out of the hospital's intensive care unit, officials said, and is recovering. He was in serious condition Thursday after being accidently shot by a friend, Steven Douglas Walker, 19, in the living room of the Walker residence at 947 Penn Court.

Police reported that Bittles was shot by Walker, after the victim and Walker began handling a .22 caliber semi-automatic rifle. Bittles tried to cock the rifle but couldn't, so Walker took it. He cocked it, and pulled the trigger after pointing it toward the ceiling. Then Walker pointed it at Bittles and it fired, hitting the victim in the mouth.

Vandals sought for break-in at girl scout camp

Police are looking for vandals who broke into a Claremont girl scout camp and ransacked the building and adjoining storage shed.

Officers said nothing was taken from La Casita Scout Camp, near the intersection of Pomello Street and Mills Avenue, but someone emptied a fire extinguisher on the floor of the shed and carved initials on some wooden tables.

The vandals gained entry to the building by prying off a window screen. Police said the break-in occurred sometime in the past week, but was just reported to them Friday.

CABAZON, Calif. (UPI) — A small army of 1,700 men chopped ground breaks Saturday around the northern end of a 4,000-acre timber-brush fire in the San Gorgonio Mountains after its advance was halted by a "bombing" of the area with more than 100 retardant drops from airplanes.

The blaze, first major outbreak od the fire season in Southern California, was located about 30 miles west of the resort of Palm Springs and smoke could be seen rising from Kitching Peak which soars 6,400 feet from the valley floor near sea level.

Ten aircraft, most of them converted B17 bombers, hit the inaccessible areas with 3,000-gallon drops throughout the day Friday while helicopters followed up by ferrying in ground crews carrying chainsaws, axes and razor sharp shovels to hew out ground lines.

The U.S. Forest Service and California Division of Forestry said the morning and night crews Saturday would total around 1,700 and that they expected the fire, already 70 per cent contained, to be under complete control today unless a high wind develops.

Available at record 9% interest rate

Treasury notes for John Q. Citizen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Inflation is nipping at the heels of the government's money managers and any John Q. Public, with extra cash on hand, can benefit.

The Treasury Department this week will sell two securities —a 33-month note and a six-year note —at a modern-day record 9 per cent interest rate. That's the highest return on a government security since the Civil War.

This juicy return, which is what the Treasury thinks it must offer in order to attract funds in the current sky-high money market, is availaible to anyone with a minumum $1,900 to invest.

The notes also come in $5,000 and $10,000 denominations and even in the $100,000 and $1 million million size for the unusually well-heeled.

The Treasury is seeking the securities at competitive auction as part of a $4.4 billion refinancing operation. This is one way the government raises cash to pay for its day-to-day operations.

A 24 ¾-year bond at 8 ½ per cent interest is part of the same refunding.

Compare these rates to the 6 per cent return on U.S. savings bonds and the 6 ¾ per cent return on $1,000 deposited at a savings and loan association for more than 2 ½ but less than four years.

Tenders can be submitted to any federal reserve dank. Most commercial banks will also buy government securities for their customers but they usually charge a commission.

If you buy a note in registered form, the government will send you an interest check twice a year. That means a $45 check every six months on a $1,000 note, or $225 semiannually on a $5,000 security.

On the maturity date, May 15, 1977 for the 33-month note and Aug. 15, 1980 for the 6-year note, you'll get the full face value back plus the final interest payement.

The bills also can be sold on the open market before they mature but you are likely to take a loss in the se selling price plus commission charges.

However, cashing in a bank of savings and loan certificate prior to naturity also means a penalty charge.

The bulges turned out to be $10,387 in tightly rolled bills shown being counted at a San Francisco bank, right.

Search called off for 2 missing sisters who ail

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Duval County police said Saturday they suspect "foul play" in the disappearance of two young, ailing sisters from their home here two days ago, but called off an extensive search after finding no trace of the girls.

Lillian Annette Anderson, 11, and her 7-year-old sister, Mylette Josephine, had been the object of a day and night search since they were discovered missing Thursday night.

Both girls suffer from serious ailments that require daily medical treatment.

A spokesman for the Duval County police said the older girl has a thyroid nervous condition and that Mylette suffers from asthma and a weak heart.

"We just hope they're still alive," he said.

The girls' parents, Elizabeth and Jack Anderson, said the two were left alone for less than an hour Thursday.

Mrs. Anderson said she went to visit a sick sister-in-law while her husband, a self-employed commercial fisherman, was away on a fishing trip. She said she telephoned the girls a short time later and everything seemed all right.

An aunt who phoned some time later received no answer.

When Anderson arrived home and found the girls missing, he joined nearly 300 volunteers and policemen in searching a 140-square mile area in the northeast part of the county.

"By the time the sweep covered 140 miles we decided we wouldn't find them in the area," a sheriff's office spokesman said. "We had four helicopters, horsemen from a local saddle club and several ham and citizen band radio operators in on the search.

$3 million reservoir plan eyed

The Upland City Council will consider Monday evening a $3 million proposal for the construction of two water reservoirs.

The proposal is one of the alternatives presented in a report by Engineering Services, Inc., a consulting firm retained by the city to develop plans for building the reservoirs. Funds for the reservoirs have been provided by Upland voters in a $2.5 million bond issue in March of this year.

The difference between the funds provided by the bond issue and the total estimated cost of the two reservoirs will be from existing funds.

Under the plan submitted by the consulting firm, Upland will have a 10-million-gallon water tank installed underground at San Antonio Park. Tennis courts or other recreational facilities may be built on top of the underground tank.

Another tank would be installed west of Benson Avenue near 17th Street. This second tank would hold 5 million gallons of water.

Lee Travers, acting city manager of Upland, has given his approval to the recommendation.

Budget expected to be adopted in final hearing

Walnut school trustees are expected to adopt a final 1974-75 budget after a public hearing Monday night.

The hearing is required by law, but is not figured to produce much controversy because the board has been discussing the budget for several months.

A $6.7 million tentative budget was approved in mid-June, with a prediction by school officials of a slight drop in the tax rate. George Hartnett, assistant superintendent for fiscal and facilities management, now indicates there will be little or no change in the rate.

Other items on Monday's agenda include possible discussion of the City of Walnut's proposed civic center plans, and status of housing for Del Paso Continuation School, which has been forced to relocate.

The meeting will get underway at 7:30 p.m. in Walnut High School's choral room.

Football player missing; ex-con a wanted man

SELMA, Ala. (UPI) — An exconvict was sought Saturday in the disappearance of Alabama football player Bobby Duke, who dropped from sight last Monday.

A coach at the school said the youth never arrived.

Police began a search for ex-convict Hayes Joseph Tooson, 30, Friday night when they spotted a car resembling Duke's and stopped it. The driver leaped out and fled, but a woman in the car —later definitely identified as Duke's —gave police Tooson's name.

A standout running back at Huffman, Duke missed the 1973 season at Alabama because of a broken shoulder he suffered in the first day of pre-season contact work. He ran at halfback during spring drills this year.

Birmingham Police Chief James Parsons said Tooson was sentenced to a year and a day in the Jefferson County Jail for burglary and grand larceny on June 14, 1961. On Jan. 15, 1963, he was convicted of assault with intent to murder.

Parsons said Tooson was apparently free on bond in two other cases. He was charged with robbery and grand larceny in January, 1973 and arrested again on a similar charge in June.

Duke's father, who also played football at Alabama, said his son was wearing shorts, a tee shirt and tennis shoes when he left home about 3 p.m. Monday. He said the youth was carrying no money.

A $1,000 reward was posted Friday by Gov. George C. Wallace for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those involved in the disappearance.

General not affected by phone strike

There should be no disruption of General Telephone service Monday morning should hourly workers at Pacific Telephone go out on strike over a contract dispute with Bell Telephone.

Employes at General Telephone and the Communication Workers of America recently agreed to a new wage contract that will run through March of 1977 and would not be involved in the strike.

However, residents, may have some trouble with placing direct distance dialing calls if switching equipment is not maintained by the Bell System during the strike. Also, local residents may experience some delay when placing operator-handled long distance calls from Pomona through Pacific Telephone if the walkout does occur.

Public hearing set on attendance costs

The Claremont school board, immediately before a publication budget hearing, Monday at 8:30 p.m. will hold a public hearing on the estimated costs to its taxpayers for the attendance of pupils from other districts.

The public hearing, recently required by a new state law, will include a statement concerning the estimated cost to the district of such attendance, with such cost expressed as an estimated tax rate equivalent.

Particularly from the alumnae of the pristine image college, the incident brought showers of protest to the college.

In fact, Curtis said he has had to hire three girls who work eight-hour days and on weekends opening and answering the response mail from the article.

Curtis feels the situation has been "exaggerated, misinterpreted and misunderstood."

"The college does not allow or condone male residency, cohabitation or indiscriminate use of bath facilities, as suggested in the letter to Dear Abby," Curtis said during an interview in his spacious office at Scripps College.

"Our policies are enforced by students with supervision of a resident adviser. Inevitably there will be attempts to violate some rules, but whenever regulations or enforcement are unchecked and infractions of rules and regulations are dictated, we will make every effort to take action.

"I don't know of incidents that have occurred. Abby hasn't disclosed the names of the students who wrote to her." Curtis explained that his staff tried to obtain the names of the authors of the letter, but was unsuccessful.

Curtis said he has received mail from all over the nation and including Canada and Mexico. The item also brought about newspaper editorials and replies from readers in the "letter to the editor" sections.

One such letter to the editor was written by Nackey Scripps Loeb, a former student at Scripps College and the great-niece of its founder, Ellen Browning Scripps. The letter was first printed in the Manchester, N. Hampshire Union Leader and was reprinted in papers across the nation. Mrs. Loeb was harsh with school authorities who she said have "given in to the demands of a large number of students, and the result is round-the-clock visiting hours."

But in defense of the open dormitory system in operation at Scripps and at many colleges in the valley and across the nation, Curtis said school officials feel that women students need no special parental protection of their conduct and behavior.

"Such protection would suggest they don't have proper moral judgment. Because of this, the college no longer serves in the role of local parents."

He said the policy was changed after a lengthy study in 1967. Students now decide each semester whether the dormitory they live in will have 24-hour visiting. At the present time all seven of the dormitories at Scripps College are operating with this system.

The reaction to the situation by Scripps students is also one of outrage, but for different reasons.

Claudia Beaty, a Scripps senior from Whittier, said that she "isn't certain that things like this didn't happen 50 years ago at the college."

"If anyone is to blame," Miss Beaty said, "it is the American Medical Association because of the promiscuity that has developed with the pill.

"I don't think Scripps is any oasis and what is happening here is happening worldwide. We find it degrading that the alumnae or whoever find us immoral.

Holly Gilbert, a senior from Barrington, Ill., said the dormitories don't have nude men running the halls, but also said Scripps College "is not Bob Jones University with 10-foot high walls, no music or dancing."

She thinks the situation is "too much of a big deal" and that it in no way reflects the quality of education or the student. She said what it does do is attack the students and their ubringing by their parents."

Liza Colton, Scripps student body president, and a senior from Salt Lake City, Utas, said she is infuriated by the "holy attitude of alumnae and some parents of students who have become upset.

"They should investigate and find out what really is going on before they jump to conclusions.

"For myself,I am not shocked when I see another pair of feet going in the other direction in the shower.

"I see nothing wrong with, say, a boyfriend who is hot and sweaty from playing baseball, being permitted to take a shower in the dormitory showers," Miss Colton said.

She explained that each dormitory votes each semester whether one bathroom in the dormitories will be coed or strictly for female use.

"A "female objects" sign is hung outside of the bath men aren't permitted to use. She said each dormitory has both coed and all female bathrooms and any student could easily avoid the chance of seeing a male visitor who might be using the bathroom facilities.

Three other Claremont colleges—Pitzer, Pomona and Harvey Mudd—all have similar dormitory policies with no specific hours for visitation. La Verne College also uses the same procedure.

But by contrast, Claremont Men's College doesn't have 24-hour visitation in the dormitories. Visiting hours are from noon to 2 a.m.

Sharon Agler, dean of students at La Verne College, said she was shocked at the controversy over Scripps College and that Scripps was singled out. "Most of the area colleges have similar dormitory systems," she said.

Like President Curtis, area college officials denied that men run the halls nude, that men and women are permitted to take showers together, that cohabitation is not permitted and most took particular concern to point out that students always escort visitors to dormitory rooms.

Ruth Coopersmith, director of housing at Cal Poly, said the state college will permit 24-nour vistation for the first time this fall.

Cal Poly has male, female and coed dormitories.

Mrs. Coopersmith said that a loosening of visitation restrictions this fall "doesn't mean that visitors can remain overnight."

Curtis said he isn't sure at this point what effect the controversy will be on alumane donations to the college this fall. He also isn't certain whether there will be any changes this fall in the present dormitory policies.

Summer school extended session starts Monday

An extended session of summer school at Upland High School will be held Aug. 5 through 27 from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Openings still remain in crafts, civics and co-Am, and in work experience.

Bus service will be provided with pick-up time at 7 a.m. at Shannon and Wilson avenues, 20th Street and Mountain Avenue, 20th Street and San Antonio Avenue, San Antonio Avenue and 22nd Street, Mountain Avenue and 24th Street, Mountain and Hillcrest Avenues, San Antonio Avenue and 24th Street, Euclid Avenue and 24th Street, Euclid Avenue and 22nd Street, Euclid Avenue and 20th Street, and Foothill Knolls.

At 7:25 a.m. buses will be at Monte Verde Avenue and 14th Street and at Ninth and 14th streets.

Budget adoption, site sale top agenda items

Adoption of the 1974-75 district budget and the sale of a Garey Avenue site are two topics for discussion Monday at 8:30 p.m. when the Claremont school board meets at the district education center.

The board will hold a public hearing before it adopts a $9,423,891 budget.

The district has tried several times to sell the Garey Avenue site, but has been unsuccessful.

The board in June received a bid on the 13.28-acre stie at Garey Avenue and Dartmouth Street, but the county counsel's office ruled it was an unacceptable bid because of conditions added by the bidder.

The board will review proposed additions to courses of study for the adult education program.

Bids for modification of the parking lot at Claremont High will be received.

The board will receive a progress report on construction of a cinder block wall separating the Claremont High School parking lot from Cahuilla Park.

Authorization to increase a la carte lunch prices at various schools will be sought from the board.

Ex-deputy district attorney named court commissioner

Former Deputy Dist. Atty. Thomas A. Peterson, 33, has been appointed a Municipal Court commissioner assigned to Pomona Municipal Court.

Peterson, who will make his home in Claremont, was with the district attorney's office for more than four years. He is married and he and his wife have two sons.

Peterson's assignments will include small claims, traffic cases and criminal arraignments.

The new commissioner was selected by Judges James H. Platt and Robert C. Gustaveson of the Pomona Municipal Court. The judges sought applications for the position and selected Peterson after studying the resumes and job experiences of those who applied.

Peterson was born in Downey, attended Downey High School and then the University of Notre Dame. He also is a graduate of the law school there. After graduation he served three years with the military police and was discharged a captain. Upon his discharge he joined the district attorney's office. Peterson will assume his duties around mid-August.

TELLING THE WORLD

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sanders of Upland wanted the whole neighborhood and any passerby to know the news of the birth of their first child, so they wrote it on the windows of their home at 625 N. Second Ave. Mrs. Sanders, above, holds Scott, born July 30 at 2:47 p.m. weighing 7 lbs., 1½ oz.

A new type of bus, hinged in the middle and capable of being steered from both ends, began service tests Saturday on the Southern California Rapid Transit District's regular commuter line from Pomona to downtown Los Angeles. The articulated bus, which bends in the middle to allow tighter turning, has a seating capacity about 50 per cent larger than regular buses.

Letter from Rome

Bad times for Italians; economic collapse close

PEGGY POLK

ROME (UPI) — It's a bad time for Italy. What used to be called "la dolce vita" is more like "la vita dura" today.

When people say Italy is on the verge of economic collapse they mean inflation, for one thing. Everything costs more. Spaghetti is 20 per cent higher than a year ago and one of those straw-covered fiascoes of chianti is almost twice as expensive as it was last summer. One pays 20 to 25 cents or a thimbleful of caffee expresso in a Rome bar. With new taxes the government is pushing, a pound of filet of beef will coet $4.65' a gallon of gasoline dollars $1.75.

Deterioration is all around. The city of Rome stopped paying interest on its debts in order to keep paying salaries. The Brera art gallery in Milan, one of the most important in Europe with a collection including Tintorettos, Raphaels and Titians, closed because there were no funds to buy uniforms for its guards. The mail system hasn't worked for more than a year.There are strikes, political kidnapings, terrorist bombings and three government crises in a year.

As a final blow to Italy's pride the once mighty national soccer team got knocked out in the first round of play for the World Cup.

But day to day life goes on.

A shopper complains that 1,000 lire ($1.55) is a lot to pay for a one-pound melon.

"Yes, but al you need is a bit of prosciutto and you have a meal," says the rosy-cheeked woman at the fruit stall.

Melon and prosciutto —a delicate, thin-sliced smoked ham —used to be considered only a first course, something to whet the appetite.

"We know how to survive," 77-year-old Prof.Giovanni Di Lucia tells a student during an Italian lesson. "We got alcng during the war. If we don't have meat we can eat fruit and vegetable and pasta." It was only with the postwar "economic miracle" that the Italian working man could afford to eat meat every day. Meat became Italy's second biggest import after oil. It is responsible in part for the country's balance of payments deficit and the country can't afford it any more.

There is plenty to fall back on in the Italian cuisine.

Spaghetti a l l a carboara takes some bacon but not much and the fattier the better. Fry the bacon, then pour the fat on the spaghetti. Toss in a raw egg and grated parmesan chesse and add bits of crisp bacon.

It is so good that it is a trademark of one of Rome's best restaurants, La Carbonara on Campo dei Fiori.

There are few signs of crisis in Rome. Even the bus and taxi strikes and a recent strike of garbage collectors can be taken in stride because they are brief.

"What you have here are strikes of attrition," a Roman explains. "They last a few hours or a few days. They don't last long but they never end."

There has been a drop in the number of private cars on the streets. During the height of the energy crisis last winter driving was banned on Sundays and holidays. Now it's the price of gasoline that makes driving a luxury. Always among the highest in Europe, it has almost doubled in the last year.

Happily for feminists the first drivers to fall victim to the cost of gasoline seem to have been the romeos cruising the streets after dark in search of a pickup.

In the spirit of the latin lover they considered any woman alone fair game and would trail her for blocks, honking their car horns, hissing and calling invitations.

But restaurants are as crowded as ever and so are beaches.

Excursions to "il mare" on summer weekends are a family tradition, and tradition dies hard here —even when the water itself is sometimes the sand along the Tyrrhenian is often littered with bottles, cans and ocean debris and too polluted for swimming.

Romans remain as fashion conscious as ever. It is a matter of "bella figura" — making a good appearance.

On the street Roman women are wearing tight, tight pants with matching shirt or t-shirt or long wraparound skirts with halters and clogs. They carry big patchwork or denim granny bags on round wooden handles that fit snugly over the shoulder, discouraging purse snatchers.

Startling to visiting Americans is the new fad for castoff American Boy Scout jackets. The blue denim jackets are skin tight because they're little boy size on big girls and they are still decorated with "Den 5, Cleveland, Ohio" shoulder patches.

On the beach the bikini still reigns.

That Latin american import called "the string" —a kind of ultra bare vertical bikini —has arrived but so far it has stayed in shop windows.

Senate prepares for TV camera

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With some trepidation, the Senate is about to admit that television is not just a passing phenomenon.

But it is going to take nothing short of President Nixon's impeachment trial to drag the Senate into the TV age.

It appears almost certain that if Nixon is impeached by the House, the historic Senate trial will be opened to live television and radio coverage.

That, in itself, will break down some hoary traditions.

Not only has the peering eye of television never focused on the Senate, only twice has any camera been permitted in the ornate chamber.

In 1963, and again in 1971, the Senate had its class picture taken with the senators stiffly posed in their seats.

Similar strictures have applied to radio broadcasting. No Senate session has ever been broadcast and tape recorders are not permitted in the chamber.

In this respect, the House has been more pliable, permitting live coverage of a President's state of the union address and some other joint sessions.

In the event of a Senate trial, the networks will not dictate coverage —the Senate will.

And if Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has his way, the coverage will be limited.

Mansfield wants the cameras to focus on the well of the Senate, the area just in front of the presiding officer's desk. That's where the defense lawyers, the prosecutors and the witnesses will sit.

According to Mansfield's plan, there will be no scanning around the chamber to focus on senators. Bright lights required for color television also will not be permitted.

One of the great fears cited by TV opponents is that the camera would turn the senate chamber into a circus.

But past live television coverage of Senate hearings — all the way from Kefauver crime hearings to the Watergate investigation —gave little support to that theory.

Certainly, the live coverage of the House Judiciary Committee's consideration of articles of impeachment did not.

The fear may be founded in other factors, none of them probably applicable to a televised trial.

But should the day ever come when the Senate opens its deliberations as a matter of course then some of its manners would suffer from the exposure.

There are times —many, many times —when the Senate chamber is virtually deserted, even when major legislation is being considered.

There are times —many, many times —when legislation is passed with no more than a handful of senators on the floor.

There are senators who do fall asleep. There are those who do scratch themselves. And there are some, from time to time, who are better served listening to the debate than slipping out for a drink.

Hanging candlebox

By DOROTHY HAMMOND

QUESTION: This old hanging candlebox with its sliding front is a family heirloom, having been in my husband's family for several generations. The box is made of quarter-sawed oak, is 16 inches high, and 5 inches wide. It has never been refinished, but is still in very fine condition. Could you give us an estimate of its value? Mrs. B.A.W.

ANSWER: Your interesting hanging candlebox is worth about $80. This type is scarce, hence prices are higher in many areas.

QUESTION: Recently I was very embarrassed to learn that several of my beautiful old coiled rye-straw baskets were infested with tiny arachnids — or mites. Our exterminator suggested I have the collection sprayed at least twice each year. What do other collectors do for this "buggy" problem? Mrs. A. McK.

ANSWER: Many protect their baskets from insects by using a commercial spary, while others prefer to use moth crystals in the wrappings when baskets are being stored, or in display cabinets. It is never wise to let the moth crystals come into actual contact with the basket fibers.

QUESTION: Since I have been unable to learn any information about the artist Samuel Simmons, can you give me the address of the American Art Reference Library in New York City? Mrs. W. T.

ANSWER: Because there is no reference library here known as "American," I believe you are referring to the Frick Art Reference Library, which is located at 10 East 71st Street, New York, N.Y. 10021

QUESTION: I would like to know the value of two old-fashioned round, one-pound butter molds? Both are maple. A deep carved daisy appears on one of the plungers, and on the other is the carved design of a milk cow. The latter butter mold belonged to my grandmother, and the other was used by my mother when she was first married. How valuable are these old kitchen tools? Mrs. F.M.

ANSWER: If in good condition, your cow butter mold is worth around $75, and the daisy, about $15.

QUESTION: I have a vase marked "Moorcroft, Made In England." I will appreciate anything you can tell me about this ware. Could my vase be an antique? Mrs. V.S.

The Moorcroft factory was established at Cobridge, England, in 1913 by William Moorcroft, founder of W. Moorcroft Limited, Potters. From 1913 to 1922, pottery made here was marked "MOORCROFT (signature in green) BURSLEM." From 1922 until 1928, the signature usually appeared in blue, and from 1928-1945, the mark changed to a small facsimile of the signature, followed by "POTTER TO HM THE QUEEN." After William Moorcroft's death in 1945, the mark was changed to "WM" in script, or showed only the impressed mark, "MOORCROFT, Made In England."

Moorcroft pottery is still being produced in England by Walter Moorcroft, son of the founder. New examples are marked with the letters "WM" in green script, with the name "MOORCROFT, Made In England," stamped on the base.

Nixon up 3% in popularity poll

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's popularity rating in a new Harris poll published recently showed a rise of 3 points to 29 per cent in July. The survey was taken among 1,447 persons July 17-21, prior to the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment debate.

The Louis Harris organization said Nixon received a negative rating from 68 per cent of persons questioned in the July poll. In June, he received a 26 per cent positive rating and 71 per cent negative. The most recent Gallup poll gave the President a 24 per cent positive rating.

Hong Kong's finest boasts an unusual sharpshooter

HONG KONG (UPI) — Mark Godfrey was on his way to the beach late one afternoon in May when the battery powered paging device in his pocket began its piercing "beep, beep, beep."

Minutes later Godfrey, clad in a yellow Snoopy T-shirt, bathing trunks and white knee socks, was checking over his high-powered rifle outside a bank where 11 hostages were being held by a robber demanding two getaway cars.

Throughout the night Godfrey and other Royal Hong Kong police department sharpshooters, stationed in apartments overlooking the bank, trained their rifle sights on the bank's closed steel door, waiting for the robber to make a break for freedom.

For six years Godfrey, 24, has been a member of the Hong Kong police force, ready to use the shooting skills developed as a boyhood hobby and refined during army and police training. But so far—"knock wood" —he says he hasn't had to shoot anyone.

"I've been in incidents where there has been shooting but I've never shot anybody," the rangy, 6-foot, 2-inch Godfrey said. "I'm just a normal police inspector."

As a "normal police inspector," when he's not called on as a sharpshooter, Godfrey is taking an advanced Chinese language course. Until that course began about three months ago, he was the leader of a vice squad unit in the colony's rough and tumble Kowloon district, across the harbor from Hong Kong island.

"I deal a lot with drugs, heroin and gambling," he said of the vice unit. "That's why I don't get a haircut and things like that."

Godfrey, originally from England, says it's the variety of jobs he is called on to perform, not just the sharpshooting, that keeps him in the Hong Kong police force.

Normally, vice squad work in Kowloon is 18 hours a day, Godfrey, a bachelor, said. "It really messes up your social life."

But, he's quick to add, "I don't want to do a 9-5 (job). I'm much happier doing 18 hours. At my age, I don't care what I do as long as I get some sleep."

Godfrey started out as a uniformed officer patroling the streets and arresting illegal roving merchandise sellers and other minor criminals.

From there, it was nine months in a riot control and commando training school, an assignment in court prosecution and then in the emergency unit that handles breaking cases reported on the special 999 emergency telephone number.

"That's a very interesting job," Godfrey said of the 999 unit. "You get to all the incidents first."

Callers using the 999 number can be reporting anything from gang fights to factory fires to hill slides during rainy weather.

When he does have time off, Godfrey's hobby is driving fast cars—a limited pastime in crowded Hong Kong. Fast cars are wasted here, Godfrey said, because the narrow streets and short distances frustrate speed lovers.

But with assignments that tie up 18 nours of his day, Godfrey normally has plenty to do.

"One of the advantages of this force is we don't specialize. I've done every aspect of police work," he said.

And part of that job is carrying the battery powered paging device so that he can be reached whenever a sharpshooter is needed.

The case of the robber in the Kowloon bank was the first incident of its type involving hostages in Hong Kong. A few months before that, sharpshooters were alerted when a man who was thought to be mentally unstable and in possession of a gun was being chased by law enforcement authorities.

For security reasons, Godfrey declined to discuss the number of sharpshooters employed by the police, the type of weapons they use or specifics of their training.

"On the night of the bank robbery," Godfrey said, "I was on the way to the beach when I got called"—hence the Snoopy T-shirt and bathing trunks.

He normally dresses casually, though, and has been eyeing a new T-shirt that says "pigs are beautiful."

Throughout the vigil at the bank there was little for the sharpshooters to do but listen to the clack of mah jong games in adjacent apartments and keep an eye on the bank door.

"I'd just about quit smoking," Godfrey said. "I was doyn to about five a day. I smoked 60 that night."

The 18-hour bank ordeal ended without loss of life when the robber was overpowered by his hostages and arrested by police.

Dormant volcano now solar research center

HALEAKALA, Hawaii (UPI) — A dormant volcano known in Hawaiian legend as the "House of the Sun" has become a world center for scientific solar and lunar research.

The highest peaks of Mount Haleakala, the 10,025 foot majestic mountain o nthe island of Maui, house observatories aimed at learning more about the sun's makeup, its influence on the earth's atmosphere and the physics of the moon.

Hawaiian lore says that from the peaks of Haleakala, a demigod lassoed the sun, slowing its pace so that ancient Hawaiians could have more daylight to plant their crops.

The Mees Solar Observatory and the Lunar Ranging Observatory, both part of the University of Hawaii's Institute for Astronomy, are part of an 18-acre complex on Haleakala commonly referred to as "Science City."

Situated on the crest near the world's largest crater floor, the observatories enjoy a vantage point that cannot be equalled.

Because of Hawaii's geographical location in the middle of the Pacific, its peaks provide ideal sighting conditions of pure air and cloud-free skies. With few industries on the tiny island, there is little dust or pollution.

The location enables the observatory to "fill in a time slot" in solar observations, said Dr. Donald Mickey, acting resident astronomer at Mees. "We can still make observations after the sun has set on the west coast and before it comes up in Asia."

Research in solar physics at the observatory principally involves the study of the corona, the layer of thin gases that makes up the outer atmosphere of the sun, and solar flares. The scientists are trying to understand the processes going on in the corona and its physical characteristics.

Although the corona, a million times less bright than the sun, is ordinarily only visible during eclipses, computer-controlled instruments in the laboratory enable the scientists to create artificial eclipses so they are able to see the light of the corona almost whenever they want.

A "coronal patrol" camera takes pictures daily for a permanent record of coronal action while another camera focuses on solar flares.

Much research at the observatory has gone into trying to understand and predict solar flares. These solar eruptions disrupt communications and are feared by some as having potentially harmful radiation effects on manned space missions.

While some astronomers are sky-watching at Mees, others are adding to man's knowledge of the moon at the nearby lunar ranging station, one of of only two such facilities in the United States.

WAR & DEATH CONTINUE IN VIETNAM

The peace treaty for Vietnam was signed in January, 1973 with the United States as a signer. Since that time the USA has been a party to the following violations:

Article 2: of the Paris Agreements states: "The United States will stop all of its military activities against North Vietnam by ground, air, and naval forces." The FACT is the United States continues to make military reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam.

Article 4: "The United States will not continue its military involvement in the internal affairs of South Vietnam." BUT this year the United States is sending to Saigon $813 million of military aid and it plans to send $1 billion to support and to improve South Vietnam's army.

Article 5: "The United States will totally withdraw all military and police advisers from South Vietnam." FACT: The United last year sent 8,000 "civilian" advisors for Saigon's military and police.

Article 9: "The United States will not impose any political tendency or personality on the South Vietnamese people." FACT: U.S. is keeping Thieu in power by paying over 80% of Thieu's national budget. U.S. officials concede that it is Saigon troops who have launched the bulk of the post-ceasefire fighting.

ESTIMATED COSTS FOR 1975 OF UNITED STATES' INVOLVEMENT IN VIETNAM is $3,227,750,000. OUR TAXES WILL PAY THIS HUGE AMOUNT!

Write NOW to your Senators and your Representative to stop using your taxes to violate the Paris Peace Agreements of January 1973.

Pittsburgh poison center: unique life-saving service

Quick action was imperative. The poison eventually can paralyze the respiratory muscles, and the child already was showing signs of ascending paralysis. But when physicians went to their supply closet, the only bottle of the only antidote —protopam chloride—was dried up.

They turned to the Pittsburgh Poison Center at Children's Hospital, national headquarters for a growing poison center network. In less than two hours Pittsburgh police, carrying the precious antidote, met an Air Force jet from Columbus at Greater Pittsburgh International Airport. The child was discharged from the hospital the next day.

The Pittsburgh center, directed by pediatrician and University of Pittsburgh medical school instructor Dr. Richard W. Moriarty, has nine nurses and two social workers manning the telephones 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Relying on vast files and numerous industrial and toxicological consultants, they provide information to parents, physicians and poison centers across the nation.

Long distance

Some calls, however, were long distance. Six months ago, the center and a consultant helped diagnose unusual second degree burns suffered by an Anchorage, Alaska, man when flaming industrial oil spilled on his arm.

If Moriarty's dreams come true, long distance aid will become common through the National Poison Center Network and the thousands of poison related deaths recorded each year will be reduced.

The fledgling federation, coordinated by Moriarty, presently includes only a few states. Eventually, however, Moriarty hopes about 50 to 60 regional poison centers across the nation will be connected with national headquarters by two-way telecopiers for exchange of information on case histories and little-known poisons.

Seattle's Children's Hospital connected with Pittsburgh in July, 1973, as the network's first regional center, serving the state of Washington and parts of Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Alaska. It was the go-between in the Anchorage burn case.

Mr. Yuk

The networj idea developed two years ago when Moriarty, 34, was turning the 19-year-old Pittsburgh center, previously operated in the Children's Hospital emergency room, into a 24-hour operation with local cooperating hospitals.

He received scores of inquiries about the center and its now well-known "Mr. Yuk" symbol—an ugly fluorescent green face which, when placed on poisons, warns young children of danger and provides adults with the poison center phone number.

The inquiries spurred Moriarty to conduct a national survey of similar facilities. It showed there were between 600 and 650 poison centers in the United States but, Moriarty said, "it was obvious there was chaos."

Some cities had no centers, others had small operations in coroner's offices, Moriarty said. Illinois had between 112 and 117 facilities; California had seven.

Cooperative program

Many centers, however, expressed interest in a cooperative program, so Moriarty developed and began pushing his network idea.

"That's the kind of system that makes some sense," he said.

Moriarty feels it offers many advantages: it eliminates costly and time consuming file duplication; permits hospitals to share new data on toxics and encourages an "early warning system" of new drug fads.

Additionally, screening poison calls, the number of patients going to emergency rooms is reduced, Moriarty said, because about 70 per cent of all common poisonings can be handled at home.

One of every 12 workers in Los Angeles County is involved in aircraft or aerospace production.

Slipping and Sliding

How many different ways are there to slide down a slide into a swimming pool? After a five minute wait, swimmers at Bonelli Regional Swim Park had their chance to show their own personal technique. Bottle collector keeps digging for fun

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

"Where people are or were, bottles are," said Art Torrey, an avid collector of antique bottles.

Torrey, a native of Pomona Valley, recently reflected on the hobby that has kept him, his wife Barbara Jean, and children, Beckie, Tim and Kevin busy for the past 10 years.

"In most cases, you try to find a map that indicates mining districts and where claims might have been. That way you can make an assumption that there were people there. And where people are or were, bottles are. Just about everything used to be bottled," he said.

Torrey was born in La Verne, raised in San Dimas and graduated from Bonita High School in 1948. He has resided in Montclair for 20 years and has been employed with General Telephone Co. for an equal period of time.

His explorations for hand-blown, unique bottles has led him throughout the valley, ghost towns in California and Nevada, the desert, Leadville, Colo. and Virginia City and Carson City, Nev.

"I'm interested in any bottle that is old, old," said the blond man with the bushy mustache. "You'd be surprised how popular bottle digging is in the West. Once you run across someone digging bottles, they'll usually have two or three friends who dig."

Jim Miller, Torrey's former neighbor, introduced the valley man to the hobby.

Torrey has scoured the valley for dig sites and cited an old dump site on Dudley Street, downtown Pomona, a former tent city in San Dimas and occasional excavations for street improvements as good digs.

His most frequent find is the bitters bottle.

"In years past, it wasn't fashionable to drink booze out of a bottle. But you could mix it with a drink called bitters and get smashed and not be considered a drunkard," Torrey laughed.

"You find lots of odds and ends of all sorts of things. We found a card one time with a 1929 50 cents piece in it. Where there's been Chinese, you find little opium flasks. We've found clothes, legs and arms off dolls, U.S. Army buttons and shoes," he continied.

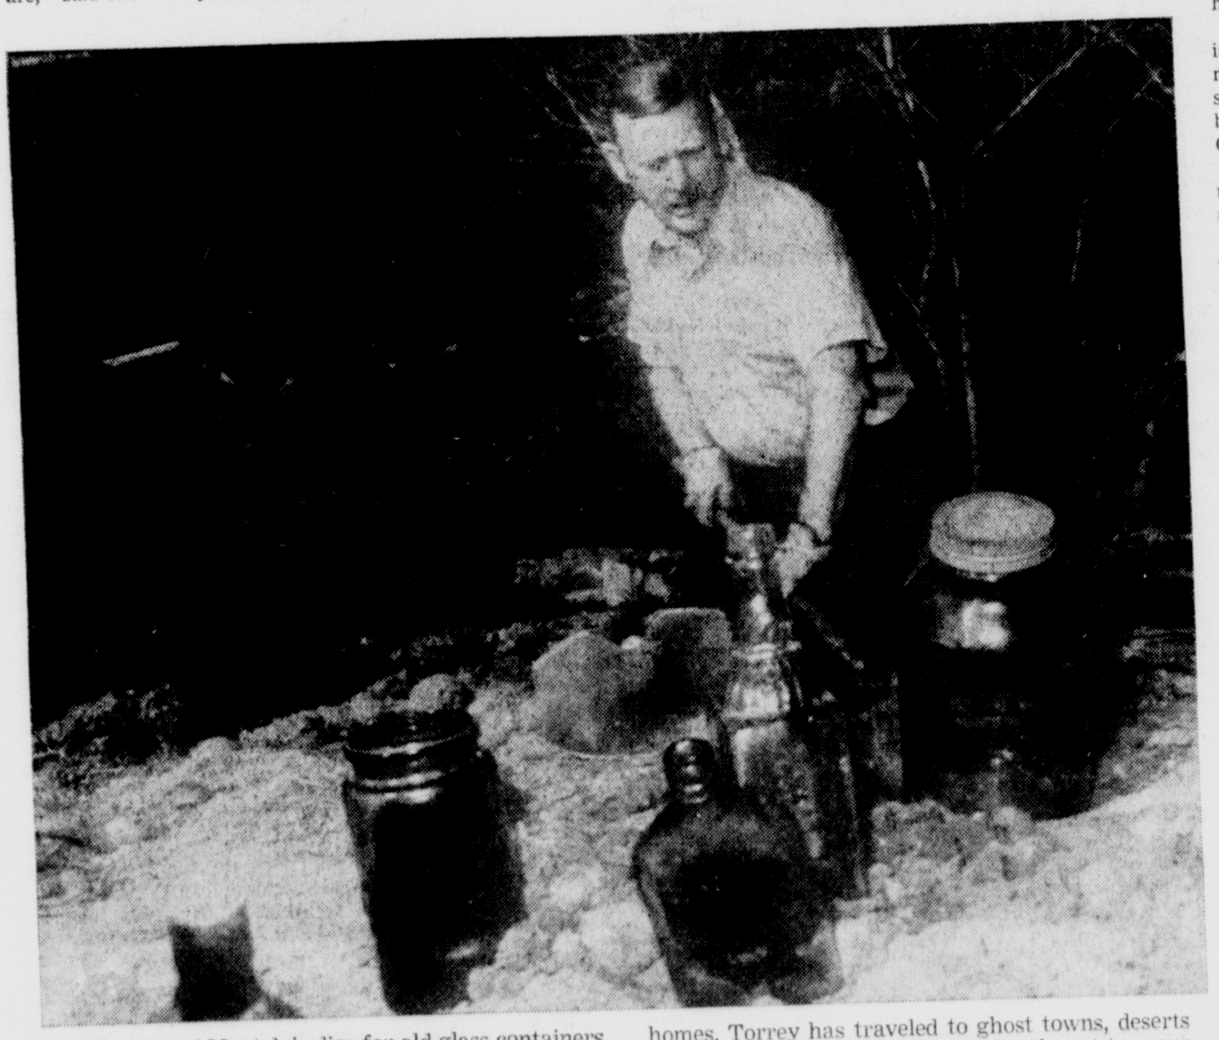
"Around mining towns, we find a lot of crucibles. That's what they melted the gold sample down in for evaluation of the gold in the ore.

"We've discovered old soda bottles with round bottoms that were corked in order to keep the effervescence inside. A lot of these were shipped from England, loaded on the bottoms of sailing vessels to maintain balance.

"You never know what you're going to dig up."

Torrey's unusual collection includes a Cathedral Pickle Bottle, a rectangular bottle of Dr. Pierce's Extract of Smart Weed, a Pomona Soda Works bottle of the late 1800s or early 1900s, an old San Dimas Drug Co. medicine bottle, a lady's leg countoured bitters bottle, a whisky bottle shaped like a safe and another resembling a corn cob.

He has between 1,000 and 1,500 bottles stored in his garage. His hobby has dwindled because the children are older and there is less leisure time for such things. But it has been a fun sport that has given Torrey the opportunity to gain knowledge of past communities and their drinking habits and meet friendly folk.



Art Torrey of Montclair digs for old glass containers at the San Dimas wash that has yielded classic bottles in foreground. The wash at one time was the site of a tent city where early valley settlers made their homes. Torrey has traveled to ghost towns, deserts and small cities in the country's Southwest to scour sites in search of antique bottles.

Liberty Grove sponsors seek council assistance

The Pomona City Council at its regular meeting Monday at 8 p.m. will consider a request from the Bicentennial Committee for help in moving ahead with plans for the planting of a Liberty Grove.

The grove would include an official state tree from each of the 50 states.

The committee is asking that the council authorize Mayor Ray J. Lepire to communicate with each governor and request a state tree for the grove.

"Several sites have been proposed, including adjacent to the Phillips Mansion, near the Cal Poly campus and the property owned by the City of Pomona on McKinley, across the street from the L.A. County Fairgrounds," wrote Clem Neibel, committee chairman.

"A portion of this property at present is being used by the Soroptomist Club to plant a group of Sequoia trees. Our preference at this time is the McKinley Avenue site which lies in Ganesha Park."

City Clerk Larry Thomas will administer the oath of office to two appointees, Mrs. Kathy Bowman of the Cultural Arts Commission, and George D. Sinclair of Vehicle Parking District No. 2.

Hearings will be held on the cost of demolition of substandard buildings at 435 W. 10th St. and 1296 S. Thomas St., and on the notice to owners to demolish substandard buildings at 960 W. 1st St., 160 W. 9th St., and at 1226 S. Rebecca St.

The council will receive city staff recommendations for the development of North San Antonio Park and for readvertising for bids for reroofing of the Ganesha Park bandshell and Westmont Community Building.

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions—fast. It costs you nothing. Call Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. or write Heartline, 8514 North Main St., Dayton, Ohio, 45415. Remember, Heartline pays for all calls on its toll-free number . . . 800-543-2393.

Heartline: What is this Medicare lifetime reserve? K.P.

Answer: After you have used up your 90-day benefit period in a hospital, you have an additional 60 days protection under Medicare. This can only be used once and it is up to you when you use it.

Heartline: It is no longer possible for us to keep mother. She is 84 years old. If she goes to a nursing home, will Medicare pay? M.T.

Answer: No Medicare will not pay for someone to live in a nursing home. This is called custodial care and is not covered under Medicare. They must go to a nursing home for medical reasons and meet the necessary qualifications under Medicare.

Heartline: I get a physical check-up each year and yet Medicare has never helped me with the cost. Why not? S.S.

Answer: Medicare does not pay for routine physical check-ups.

Heartline: Do you advise buying health insurance through the mail to help with my Medicare? — W.W.

Answer: We don't recommend any particular type of health insurance. However, you should have your children, your attorney, or a trusted insurance representative read any policy you might wish to purchase.

Heartline: I'll soon go on Medicare. I understand that Part A is free and Part B I will have to pay out of my Social Security. Can I just have Part A? I cannot afford part B. L.W.

Answer: Yes, but you can't afford not to have Part B. It's your doctor coverage. Please give it a lot of thought before you say no.

Fred Sharp to be honored

One of the oldest chief administrative officers in the United States in terms of service in a single city will be honored Aug. 15 in Pomona by hundreds of citizens, civic leaders and public officials, including Houston I. Flournoy, state controller and GOP nominee for governor.

The honoree is Frederick W. Sharp, presently executive director of the Pomona Community Redevelopment Agency, who is retiring at 61 on Sept. 1 after 35 yaars of public service.

He became Pomona's first city administrator in 1949 and served the city for a quarter of a century.

Before that, he served the City of San Mateo and in the U.S. Navy. He has won wide recognition over the years as an outspoken champion of local self-government and of citizen involvement in it.

The party in his honor, billed as a "Fracas for Fred," will be held at the Pomona Elks Lodge, 1471 W. Holt Ave., from 4 to 7 p.m.

The Pomona City Council will be the official host. Reservations may be made by calling 620-2067.

Sharp is a native of Los Angeles and a 1940 graduate of UC Berkeley with a BA degree in political science, followed by two years of post-graduate work there in public administration and employment in the University's Bureau of Public Administration.

He entered municipal government as an assistant city manager of San Mateo following World War II in which he served as a U.S. Navy lieutenant.

He expects to live in Pomona, continue his active interest in public affairs, including lectures on local self-government at colleges and universities.

Senate deletes flood control project from House proposal

A $1.2 million public works appropriation approved by the House of Represenatives in June for the Cucamonga Creek flood control channel has been deleted from the Senate version of the bill, according to Rep. Victory Veysey, R-43rd Dist.

Veysey, who was instrumental in obtaining House approval of the project, said that he will fight to have the project reinstated during joint committee hearings on the bill this month.

The project may have been deleted from the Senate bill, said Veysey, due to complaints by Orange County officials that the flood control channel would endanger Prado Dam near Corona.

Veysey said that the complaint was a mistake, however, since water from Cucamonga Creek already flows to Prado Dam and that construction of the flood control channel would not measurably alter the water flow, but would provide flood safety for the upstream areas.

Veysey indicated that he would present a report to the joint committee from the Army Corps of Engineers that states the effect on Prado Dam by the project would be negligible.

"The decision by the Senate to delete construction funds for the project is deplorable," Veysey charged. "The senators would leave exposed to flood damage thousands of homes as well as Ontario International Airport and all the transcontinental highways, railroads and communications."

31 new house permits given

The housing market continued strong in Ontario as city permits were issued last month for 31 new homes valued at $793,296.

This boosted the totals so far this year to 204 homes with a $5.1 million valuation.

The Presley Development Co. took all of July's housing permits, with the structures to be constructed in southwest Ontario.

For the month, the city issued 80 building permits which represents a valuation of $1,019,509. This pushed the seven-month totals to 653 permits and a $13 million valuation.

The largest single project last month was a single story office building valued at $67,000 to be constructed by the Bookkeeping Business Service Co. at 1550 N. Palmetto Ave.

There continued a strong trend for additions and alterations to existing residential structures. Officials issued 42 permits having a $72,755 valuation.

Other July permits include:

Commercial and industrial alterations, four, $12,000; miscellaneous buildings, 24, $74,158; and houses demolished, two, no valuation.

Opinion

Clamping a cap on the bottle battle

Everybody is in favor of a clean environment and the wise use of natural resources. But when it comes down to the crunch — and in at least one aspect of the situation, roadside litter, the word has a quite literal application — everything depends upon whose economic ox is being gored.

The drive by a number of states and communities around the nation to ban the use of throwaway, nonreturnable beverage containers is a subject that is guaranteed to get you into trouble no matter which side you favor.

If it were a case of the good guys versus the bad guys, the problem would be relatively simple. But like almost everything else having to do with the environment and pollution, it's a matter of one group of good guys — the public — with a certain set of priorities coming into conflict with another group of good guys — in this instance, the manufacturers of cans and bottles and those who fill them — with a different set of priorities.

The controversy began two years ago when the state of Oregon passed pioneer legislation requiring deposits of up to five cents on all beer and soft drink bottles and cans, against strong opposition from the container and beverage industries.

The latter warned that their businesses would be severely injured. Glass workers would lose their jobs because fewer bottles would need to be manufactured. Cans would be driven out of the beverage market because there was no way to make them reusable. The consumer would suffer because prices would go up. The distribution system would be disrupted.

And anyway, they argued, beverage containers were only a small fraction of the solid waste disposal problem. The best solution lay in setting up collection centers for recycling.

According to Oregon Gov. Tom McCall, however, since enactment of the bottle return law, roadside litter from bottles and cans has been reduced 90 per cent. A survey by Oregon State University claims that the law has resulted in a net increase of $4 million to the beverage industry. Since they need to buy fewer bottles, brewers and soft drink manufacturers have reported rising incomes and increased employment for processing the reusable bottles.

Last year, Vermont, against the same kind of opposition, adopted a bottle deposit law. Studies show that litter alongside that state's highways has been sharply reduced and that law has won favorable support from the public, despite price increases by beer wholesalers of 40 to 50 cents a six-pack.

However, lobbyists in the Vermont legislature were able to defeat efforts by the administration of Gov. Thomas P. Salmon to adopt a modified version of the Oregon law requiring reusable containers. In New York City, a similar proposal, backed by a majority of the city's councilmen, is given little chance of passage because of pressure from a coalition of opponents, including the steel and aluminum industries, can and bottle makers and their unions.

These groups, of course, have the right to attempt to win friends and influence legislators. There is no denying that the headaches they would face in any massive switch away from one-use beverage containers would be monumental. But certain other facts are also monumental.

Between 1959 and 1972, coinciding with the introduction of nonreturnable bottles, per capita consumption of beer and soft drinks rose by 33 per cent in the United States. In the same period, according to John P. Quarles Jr., deputy administrator of the Federal Environmental Protection Agency, the number of discarded bottles went up 262 per cent, from 15.4 billion in 1959 to 55.7 billion in 1972. While containers make up only 8 per cent of the total solid waste load, they are also the fastest growing segment of that load.

Quarles is one of a growing number of environmentalists urging passage of a nationwide bottle bill. At least one such measure, sponsored by Oregon Republican Mark Hatfield, has been introduced in the Senate.

The controversy is just beginning.

Still a good buy

According to an article in Oil and Gas Journal, crude oil and natural gas are still good buys in today's marketplace. To prove it, a geologist in Texas roamed the aisles of local stores and computed the per-gallon cost of a number of common items. For instance:

100-proof "Old Confidence" — $30 a gallon; baby lotion — $7.92; orange juice — $1.85; milk — $1.65; honey — $1; laundry bleach — $.58; distilled water — $.49.

By comparison, crude oil is officially price-controlled at 12½ cents a gallon and natural gas (with its heating value converted to crude oil equivalent) is 3 cents a gallon.

It sure is lucky that we don't have to heat the house with baby lotion or run the family jalopy on orange juice.

White House altered evidence

WASHINGTON — There no longer can be any doubt that the White House has tampered with Watergate evidence. Not only tapes but documents have been altered by someone inside the White House.

Furthermore, our White House sources tell us that the additional 64 conversations, which the Supreme Court unanimously ordered President Nixon to turn over to Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, contain gaps, distortions and unintelligible passages.

Many of the distortions are caused by extraneous sounds, such as clanking cups, thumping feet and even martial music filtering into the oval office from the White House grounds. But our sources say that some of the unexplained gaps appear to have been caused by deliberate tampering.

The suppressed tapes had been in the President's personal custody until the Supreme Court order. Then they were entrusted to the Secret Service to transcribe.

Our sources have also furnished us with the astonishing details about a memo that clearly was doctored by the White House. This was written on Jan. 8, 1970, by former presidential aide Alexander Butterfield.

It dealt with the tapped telephone conversation of Morton Halperin, a former national security aide, who spoke on the phone about helping ex-Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford prepare a series of articles for Life magazines against the Vietnam War.

The tapped conversation was reported to the White House by the late FBI chief, J. Edgar Hoover, on Dec. 29, 1969. H.R. Haldeman, then the White House staff chief, passed Hoover's wiretap report to Jeb Magruder, with instructions to prepare a "game plan" to counter the Clifford articles.

Magruder sought suggestions from Butterfield, who gave his views in the Jan. 8, 1970, memo. He stressed that "Al Haig can get you squared away on at least a preliminary scheme. We can build from there." Haig was then Henry Kissinger's deputy but is now Haldeman's successor as staff chief.

This memo is significant, because it proves that the wiretaps were used for political purposes. All along, the White House has been claiming that the wiretaps were ordered strictly to protect the national security.

The Butterfield memo was mysteriously altered, however, to make it appear that he had directed Magruder's operations against Clifford. The compromising reference to Haig was also deleted from the doctored memo.

Butterfield was hauled before the Watergate prosecutors early last January for questioning about the memo. He quickly spotted indications that it had been altered. He obtained access to his White House files and found several of his January 1970 memos missing, say our sources, including the doctored memo.

But unknown to the White House, Butterfield had kept copies of some of his papers and among them he found the January 8 memo as he had originally written it. This proved the tampering beyond any doubt.

But the big mystery is still unsolved: who altered the memo? Haig might be a suspect, because the memo was changed to shift blame from him to Butterfield. But our sources doubt this, because the two men are close personal friends.

The strange gaps in the latest 64 tapes, meanwhile, will add to the frustration of the Watergate prosecutors who still haven't been able to identify who caused the famous 18½-minute gap in an earlier tape. This obliterated Haldeman's crucial first report to the President on the Watergate break-in on June 20, 1972.

One key source believes it was significant that the President himself listened to this tape on Sept. 29, 1973, at Camp David. His secretary, Rose Mary Woods, testified before the grand jury that the President donned earphones and pushed buttons, listening to parts of the June 20 tape, while she was transcribing it. She did not suggest, however, that the President had altered the tape.

Another source pointed out that Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen, while he was in charge of the Watergate prosecution, reported to the President on Apirl 15, 1973, that H. R. Haldeman was under investigation.

Ten days later, the President turned over several of the most crucial tapes not to Petersen who was conducting the investigation but to Haldeman who was under investigation.

The Watergate prosecutors still cannot pinpoint, however, who in the White House has been tampering with the tapes and documents.

Just in jest

All my life I've heard that it's an ill wind that doesn't blow somebody some good—and finally I'm beginning to believe it. Take that ill wind called Watergate as the perfect example. So far as the American people are concerned, it has been responsible for giving bugging devices a bad name. So much so, in fact, that manufacturers of such electronic instruments have been hard put lately to find buyers for their products. But now this sales disaster may prove to be a blessing in disguise. It seems that the government, anxious to get rid of anything that even faintly resembles bugging, is about to give these manufacturers permission to sell their products to a vast new and eager market that doesn't worry about such trivialities as Watergate—Russia!

Project Upstream: 1st year success

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

Sensitivity and communication represent the success story of the first year of Project Upstream, a delinquency prevention project of Boys Republic in cooperation with Pomona Unified School District.

Pete and Jo-Ann Burns, coordinators of the project, claim success in the target program at Marshall and Palomares junior high schools. The project's primary goal was, and is, to divert young people from the juvenile justice system by limiting absences, tardiness, suspensions and expulsions.

"It accomplished the goal in terms of kids learning to deal with an environment which they don't understand, whether that environment be school, community or the family. They're communicating better whether they like the surroundings or not. They're learning to deal with it," said Burns.

A major part of that "dealing" comes from realizing society's attitude toward deviant behavior.

"If they can't communicate, understand and accpet, they're labeled," said Mrs. Burns. "The establishment is not going to learn a new language to deal with these kids. You got to make that adjustment because there will be no shifting around to accommodate you."

The program coordinators share the belief that in order to curtail "acting out," one must feel a part of the community and positive about oneself. The two have accomplished this to a large extent through the group process, general rap sessions that are an open, informal interaction at the delinquency center at 553 N. Gibbs St.

"In the group situation, you've got to learn to verbalize and get others to be sensitive about your feelings so you can be sensitive to theirs," Mrs. Burns commented. "It heightens their sensitivity and awareness level."

Burns explained that the group process allows the kids the opportunity to not only deal successfully with their peers, but also with adults. Condescending attitudes based on age or other strictures are absolute taboo in the group gatherings.

"You have to build a trust level with people before they will communicate with you openly and honestly," Mrs. Burns said.

The couple often take their charges on outings with them during their free time. They have trekked to Japanese Deer Park, the Mt. Baldy slopes and beaches in levis and tee shirts with a crowd of laughing youngsters who have left worries behind.

There are currently 22 young people participating in the program through the summer months. As the program moves into its second year, it will be opened up to referrals from the Pomona Police Department and the Juvenile Diversion Program, reported Bruns.

"We'll be funded by Boys Republic to do the same things in this next academic year. We're hoping the city, Parks and Recreation Department and schools will assume some of the financial responsibility of the program and incorporate the project into some level of their operations," said Burns.

A new aspect of the project will also include family referrals of younger children whose older siblings participated in the program during this past year. The center's doors are open on a 12-month basis and summertime is spent counseling children entering junior high school and lending emotional support to ones about to encounter the high school experienc.

"The program means more than just diversion. It means tyring to help young people in general adjust to the community and fel that they belong," Burns concluded.

Career education class

A staff development workshop in career education will be presented by eight members of the State Department of Education to the Ontario-Montclair School District on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The workshop will be held at Mariposa School, Ontario, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

District staff members attending the workshop will be members of the summer writing team for Project MATCH, a career education program being used in the Ontario-Montclair District.

Also participating will be members of the San Bernardino County Schools education staff, various area representatives in career education and local school administrators.

The event will be a pilot workshop newly developed by the state. The Ontario-Montclair School District is the second group in the state to participate in such a workshop.

Airline ticket problems

By ROBERT F. BUCKHORN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With only minutes to spare before his flight departs, the airline passenger dashes to the departure gate.

"Smith is my name," he says, "I made a reservation yesterday."

"Sorry," replies the smiling airline ticket agent, "the plane is overbooked and there is no seat for you."

What follows is usually a brief period of "sputtering" by the passenger, and more soothing words from the agent.

But the decision is final: The passenger cannot board the flight despite the fact that he has a ticket and made his reservation the day before.

In this not uncommon situation, the airline passenger is entitled to certain benefits under the Civil Aeronautics Board regulations.

For one thing, if the airline "oversold" the flight, it is required to find the passenger a seat on another flight which will get the traveler to his destination within two hours of his original scheduled arrival.

If there is no flight available, the airline must pay the traveler the price of his ticket while continuing to honor his original ticket.

This is just one of the benefits available to the inconvenienced airline passenger, but it pays to be aware of the rules. The CAB has, in the past, been forced to fine airlines for failing to provide passengers with denied boarding compensation.

What happens to the airline passenger whose flight is canceled late at night leaving him far from home? Under CAB rules, the airline is not responsible in any way if a flight is canceled because of mechanical problems, weather or safety factors.

But most major airlines will provide stranded passengers with certain "amenities." Normally, the passenger can get a free meal, a telephone call, and a night's lodging. The CAB's only role in this situation is to make sure that if such amenities are provided, they go to both first class and coach passengers.

The airlines argue they give excellent passenger service, considering the fact that they will carry around 200 million persons in 1974. But Jack Yohe, director of the CAB's Office of Consumer Affairs, claims they could do a lot more.

"The airline ticket regulations are filled with jargon, doubletalk, strange phraseology and catch phrases" designed to thwart the public, he says.

As an example, he cited airline rules pertaining to baggage —a major source of complaints. "Rules pertaining to baggage contain trick phrases and consumer pitfalls," he said, that result in the airline traveler being charged large amounts "to subsidize the airlines deficiencies in handling baggage."

Because of his tough stand, Yohe's office, only two years old, is being sought out by more and more disgruntled airline passengers.

Last year, 14,760 complaints were filed with the office —a 40 per cent increase over 1972. "If a consumer fails to get satisfaction from the airline, we are ready to help," says Yohe.

Reason told for inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ineffective business competition along with violations of antimonopoly laws cost Americans billions of dollars each year and are a major factor in inflation, according to Thomas E. Kauper, head of the Justice Department's antitrust division.

Saying industrial wastefulness and inefficiency could run as high as $80 billion a year, Kauper urged Congress to increase the maximum fine for federal violations from $50,000 to $500,000.

Harmful bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — CIA Director William E. Colby has told a congressional subcommittee that a new Freedom of Information Act would harm the CIA's ability to protect its foreign agents.

The bill would require automatic declassification of most "confidential" documents after one year, of "secret" documents after two years, and of "top secret" papers after three years. Colby testified Thursday that this "surely would impair my ability to protect intelligence sources and methods."

For Sunday, Aug. 4

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Good fortune is coming your way through a channel that's not presently visible. It's from a family-related source.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A situation that you're involved in, but don't have complete control over, is about to contribute to your prestige considerably.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone is going to handle a situation for you far more profitably than you could yourself. Don't get in the way.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There will be a marked improvement in over-all conditions. This should give you ample reason for smiling.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll come out favorably in any bargains or agreements you make today. Applies especially if they're made with a Cancer or Pisces.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're going to receive far greater compensation than you think for helping a friend, even though you're not doing it for that reason.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Social contacts are extremely advantageous for you at present. Someone will prove especially helpful in advancing your career.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This would be a perfect time for you to have your choicest friends in for an evening's entertainment at your house.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) An idea you now have can be very profitable if you present it to the right person quickly enough.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Others are luckier for you today than you are for yourself. Don't put up any roadblock if someone wishes to do you a favor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Before the day is over you will be rewarded in some manner. It could be a gift or some type of service that another performs for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll be very fortunate if you follow through on your own hunches, particularly in the romance department.

For Monday, Aug. 5

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Someone older you're fond of will be coming to you apparently seeking a favor. It will turn out, instead, to be more of a favor for you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're very lucky dealing with ideas that are practical, but large in scope, especially if a big company is involved.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today and tomorrow there's a profit to be made from your career or business interests. Be on your toes.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be glad you waited to reserve judgment on an important issue until you had all the facts in hand.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You wouldn't be one bit out of line to call another's attention to how you once helped her out of the same spot you're now in.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is a good time to iron out the kinks in an important relationship you share with one who is dear to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you give worthy goals the attention they deserve, you'll find they're easier to attain over the next few days.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Two people from a distant place that you'll be mixing with will contribute to your good fortune in some manner.

SAGGITARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're going to come out much better than you think in a situation that has appeared rather bleak and futile lately.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't concern yourself about doing more in a partnership than your counterpart. It will eventually even out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Although they may not be handed to you on a silver platter, there are some opportunities about you that make for a heavier purse.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mach 20) Charm and congeniality are assets from which you can reap dividends today and tomorrow through social contacts.

your birthday Aug. 4

A very fortunate and powerful alliance will be made this year. It will be of benefit to both parties. Luck will accompany those things that you attempt together.

YOUR BIRTHDAY aug. 5

You will profit this year in a large way through a confidential arrangement. Don't spoil your luck by letting too many outsiders know of it. Mum's the word.

Gym shoes at a funeral?

By ERMA BOMBECK

My husband and I were attending the funeral of his mother. As we sat on the folding chairs in the funeral home, I could not help but review with some comfort the grandchildren occupying the first row.

I looked at them one by one, so respectful and proper in their dresses and handbags, long trousers and sport coats, patent shoes and red and white gym shoes with blue stars on them.

RED AND WHITE GYM SHOES WITH BLUE STARS ON THEM! I froze. "Your son," I whispered to my husband. "Check the feet on your son."

As he saw the gym shoes, a chill ran through his body. He got the child's attention and gestured for him to bend his feet and stuff them under the chair as far as they could go. His instructions were misread and his son crossed his legs, looking for the world like he was relaxing at halftime at a Lakers-Knicks game.

I wanted to take my eyes off the gym shoes, but they were magnetic—the knots in the shoestrings stood out like boulders and the rubber separated from the sole right before my eyes.

Bitterly, I thought of the money I had put into shoes for that kid. The sacrifices I had made for his lousy feet. Forget the home permanent I didn't get. I didn't mind rolling my hair over orange juice cans and sleeping upright in a chair. Forget the operation I needed. It only hurt when I walked, stood, laughed, or breathed. Forget the new slipcovers I never got. In a few more years, the entire living room would be decorated in mono-stain.

But it had all been worth it. My son had a pair of shoes in his closet for every occasion—which I dusted every week with the furniture.

I looked back at the shoes. They looked different somehow. Then I knew why. The sun had come out, filtered through the stained glass windows and would you believe cast a rainbow over the gym shoes!

I closed my eyes and prayed, "I know why you are punishing me, God. It was because I made that vicious remark about Marylou Stack's bathing suit. So, I'll apologize." I opened my eyes and looked out of the corner of one. My son was picking a star off the shoe. Closing my eyes again, I offered, "I am selfish, Lord. Never again will I hide brownies under the dish towel because I know the children will never find them there." I checked again. The rainbow was brighter than ever.

I closed my eyes tightly this time. "Lord, this is my best offer. I'll clean the oven the moment I get home."

A well-wisher touched my arm, "It's nice to see young people so patriotic," she said, nodding toward the gym shoes.

God drives a hard bargain.

Black Muslims—where they stand on violence

By DAVID SMOTHERS
UPI Senior Editor

CHICAGO (UPI) — To most of the white community, the name Black Muslim carries an aura of menace.

Headlines have associated Muslims with violence. Headlines to the contrary, the majority of people calling themselves Muslims probably are getting a bad rap.

Some of the headlines may be true, but quite a few can be misleading.

There is evidence backing the Muslim contention that most of their number are law abiding folk following an abstemious, self-reliant, even puritan ethic.

It is true persons identified as Muslims have been associated with violence—murder, to be precise.

It is true some of the violence cited has been directed against white persons. A good deal, perhaps most, has been directed against other Muslims. In some cases, Muslims make a fair to good case in claiming police violence directed against them.

The FBI and other law enforcement organizations regard Muslims as extremists, possibly dangerous, and keep a close eye upon them. Muslim spokesmen insist extremism and violence are, almost by definition, foreign to their beliefs.

A New York policeman, working on the killing of another officer in which Muslims have been named, said, "My gut feeling is that these people are terrorizing each other. I think the problem is that they make a big thing of jail recruitments.

"These people come out of jail and if their criminal tendencies return they're a pretty tough group to control. The (Muslim) leadership is unable to control them."

This policeman preferred to remain anonymous, as did many of those questioned in a UPI survey on Muslim activities. One person who had no objection to being named was Charles Mooreland, the editor of Muhammad Speaks, a newspaper of a claimed 740,000 circulation which speaks for and to the Muslims who follow the Chicago-based "Messenger of Allah," Elijah Muhammad.

"We can't associate all crime that is committed by Christians with the Pope," he said. "All crimes that are committed by Jews we don't go looking for a rabbi. Neither should we associate crimes that are committed by black people or black people who call themselves Muslims with Mr. Muhammad."

Mooreland contends that to debate whether followers of Muhammad have been involved in crimes is largely irrelevant because "as soon as any wrongdoing is discovered among any of his followers, they're expelled. That's absolute, across the board. When they are wrong then we have nothing to do with them. They're on their own."

However, the four men indicted in the San Francisco Zebra killings, in which 12 white persons were the victims, are identified as Muslims. John Mohammad, San Francisco Muslim minister, has retained an attorney for them, stressing the sect's support would continue only as long as it is convinced the men are innocent.

Also called Muslims were the men in Cleveland who buried Donald DeFreeze, the "Marshal Cinque" of the Symbionese Liberation Army, after he killed himself in the shootout in Los Angeles (although these were a different kind of Muslim and there is no evidence DeFreeze was any kind of Muslim).

The massacre in Washington at the home of basketball's Kareem Abdul Jabbar, a Muslim convert, in which seven persons died has been represented as a case of Muslim against Muslim. So was the assassination of Malcolm X, once the most publicized of Black Muslim leaders, in 1965.

The list could be extended and would make for alarming reading. One reason it would be alarming is that few white persons know who the Muslims are, or what they believe. It is a truism that people tend to fear what or who they do not understand.

The most common conception of a Black Muslim is someone who is black, follows some form of the Mohammedan religion and pledges unquestioning obedience to a 76-year-old Chicagoan who teaches them to hate white people and act accordingly. The conception is wrong on at least one count and probably more.

The fact is that only a percentage of those black persons who call themselves Muslims—it may be quite a bit less than 50 per cent—are followers of Elijah Muhammad. A good many of the rest of them want no part of him. Some fear him.

There are indications that the distinction between the Nation of Islam (NOI), as the followers of Elijah Muhammad prefer to be called, and the orthodox or Sunni Muslims motivates most of the violence associated with them.

Thus, those who died in Jabbar's house Jan. 18, 1973, were Hanafi Muslims, the largest of four orthodox sects in the United States. The four men accused of killing them were from the NOI Mosque No. 12 in Philadelphia who, it was charged, decided to wipe out the family of Hammas Abdul Khallis, a leader of the Hanafis, because of letters he had written attacking Muhammad.

Similarly, four Sunni Muslims who took over a sporting goods store in Brooklyn, N.Y., last year said they were seeking guns to protect themselves against Black Muslims. They are on trial charged with the murder of a police officer, kidnapping and armed robbery. The prosecution has contested their argument, saying their sole aim was "to maim and kill."

For all the talk about Muslims, nobody, Muslims included, seems very sure how many of them there are in the United States.

Muhammad Speaks claims a readership of nearly 3 million, but editor Mooreland makes no bones that "most are not Muslims; they are thinking black and opening to what Mr. Muhammad says."

IBN Shariess, A Chicago orthodox Muslim, said the NOI membership had been estimated at between 500,000 and 750,000, "but it's been slipping since Malcolm X was killed."

The defectors, he said, tend to join the orthodox ranks. And he quoted a publication, Black World, as saying they now number 2 million in the United States—the majority, but by no means all black. If so, they tend to be less visible than Elijah Muhammad' followers.

To an outsider, there appear to be but two basic, major differences between them, the Black Muslims and the orthodox Muslims.

—Orthodox Muslims profess to follow the same rituals and keep the same faith as the other some 400 millio Mohammedans throughout the world. With the overwhelming majority of Mohammedans, they believe the last messenger, or prophet, of Allah was Mohammed, who died more than 13 centuries ago. People commonly known as Black Muslims keep much the same faith and follow many of the same rituals. But they believe the last messenger of Allah is alive and well at 4847 S. Woodlawn Avenue on the South Side of Chicago.

—Historically and by doctrine, orthodox, worldwide Mohammedism is color blind. Its appeal to many black persons in this country and elsewhere notwithstanding, the religion has striven to enlist all the world, all races to its creed. Black Muslims follow no such tradition.

The Black Muslim movement came into being around 1930. Its first apostle was Wallace D. Fard, or Wallace Fard Muhammad, a salesman of silks, incense and perfumes in the Detroit ghetto who is remembered variously as a light-skinned black man, a light-skinned Arab, and a white man.

Few can tell at this point, since Fard has not been seen since 1933, when he took off in an airplane from the Detroit airport. The man who saw him off, by his own testimony, was Elijah Muhammad (born Elijah Poole, the son of a Georgia Baptist minster), who assumed Fard's mantle and mission. Muhammad is not color blind, either in fact or teaching.

Mooreland said, "Mr. Muhammad through 43 years has never taught hate. Mr. Muhammad has taught us the truth about ourselves and the truth about others. He has taught us to love ourselves and to practice love for ourselves ... (You) can't unconsciously love everything other than what you are and practice your love outside the community.

" ... Mr. Muhammad teaches us we are never to be the aggressor, but we're to fight with those who fight against us. We don't turn the other cheek."

It is perhaps because they are determined not to turn the other cheek that law enforcement agents are wary of Muslims.

The FBI in Los Angeles said it lists Muslims as "black extremists" who are watched partially because it is believed they solicit money from outside the country.

This source said two Moslem nations have provided $225,000 to the NOI. Muhammad Speaks tends to get indignant over such allegations, although it quotes an NOI minister, Louis Darrakhan, as saying Libya loaned the sect $3 million a year and a half ago.

A law enforcement source in San Francisco who trys to keeps track of the Muslims said, "My own personal opinion is that they believe what they preach. We have never found reason to believe that the ministers do not act in accord with their teachings and nobody could find too much fault with their teachings. I do not believe that the hierachy would condone or allow violence."

He added that any religion must contend with a great gap between its teachings and the ghetto culture. "The overwhelming factor is the individual and his culture," he said. "It is very hard for him to get away from the way he has lived in the past."

In Cleveland, where Sunni Muslims got into a shootout with police the week after their coreligionists served as palibearers at the DeFreeze funeral, an FBI man said, "We are interested in any group that could become involved in extremist activities."

To such talk of extremism, Mooreland scoffs.

"When you get to the question of justice and fairness, then black people are the last that should be accused of being extremists.

Deteriorating railroad safety conditions cited

CHICAGO (UPI) — The appropriate response to a locomotive's whistle these days, a federal railroad administration official says, is, "I hope he gets through town without blowing up."

Frank W. Ingram, speaking in suburban St. Charles recently to the Illinois Association of Chiefs of Police, said the nation is depending on a system of railroads which appears traveling the same route as the bankrupt, accident-ridden Penn Central.

So long as the railroads lack money to replace rotten ties, wornout ties and rusty bridges, Ingram said, safety will continue to be compromised.

"When you hear that locomotive horn blowing on the outskirts of your town," he said, "it is understandable if you think to yourselves, 'Here comes a freight train ... I hope he gets through town without blowing up, without hitting a school bus at the crossing, without derailing into the side of a grain elevator.'"

"If today's conditions prevail for the next 10 years," he said, "almost all the railroads of the country will be in the same shape as the Penn Central —a railroad that's superbankrupt, that averages 20 derailments a day, that is literally falling apart."

Ingram says if this happens, then the nation can expect its auto industry to start to shut down a week later and if that happens, then the steel industry will not be far behind.

How subpoena was originated

Time was when any witness in a courtroom could be sued later for "meddling in litigation." Usually sued, of course, by the party against whom said witness testified. Such proceedings wouldn't hold, however, if the testimony were given under compulsion. That's how that legal writ called the subpoena came to be. It commanded the witness to appear in court under penalty. So protected that witness from subsequent lawsuit.

Q. "WHO's boss in the gorilla family, the male or the female?"

A. An old male, always. Gorillas live in a tribe. Leader is a silverback, a gorilla whose back hair has whitened with age. The younger males, called blackbacks, stand guard.

THE HARD FACTS

Only one out of every five murder victims is killed by a stranger . . . MORE THAN a third of this world's inventions have been created in the United States . . . HEAVIEST elephant tusk to come along so far remains intact in the British Museum at 226½ pounds . . . SURVEYS show more than 35 per cent of the farmer's wives in Iowa work in the fields . . . ALMOST but not quite one out of every three households has a family dog.

LEFT-HANDEDNESS shows up about twice as frequently among twins as among those born singly. So report the scholars. Thought I had that figured out until those scholars reported further that left-handedness occurs with about the same frequency in fraternal as in identical twins. Most mysterious.

ABE'S LETTERS

A study of the letters written by Abraham Lincoln in his own hand show almost no corrections, deletions or erasures. He was said to be the sort of poet who thought his lines through before he put them to paper. Some exceptions exist among his manuscripts, true enough. But scholars believe he could have talked the final drafts of almost all his speeches if he'd lived in the days of the dictation machine.

AM ACQUAINTED with a farmer's wife who for years tossed all her dirty clothes into an old milk can about twice a week, added some soap and hot water, and let her husband heave the container onto the back of his pickup truck. His daily rounds took him over some pretty rough roads, she said. By sundown, the clothes were clean.

Unique apartment complex for single parents has problems

By CHARLES J. CANNON

DENVER (UPI) — Jay Jagger and his wife, Sandy, wear many hats.

As resident managers of Warren Village, Inc., the couple oversees a unique apartment complex for single parents which at present is home for 84 adults and 110 children.

They frequently are called on to serve as arbitrators, administrators, janitors, counselors, repairmen or confessors. And they love every minute of it.

"It's hectic and there aren't many days off," said Jagger. "But you certainly can't say there are many dull moments. And there is a certain sense of satisfaction involved."

The village opened in February as an experimental project designed to provide temporary housing for single parents to allow them and their children to adapt more readily to the one-parent life style.

Included in the $3 million proposal were a 96-unit apartment complex, including a learning center for children two and one half to six years of age, and a community center offering medical, dental and mental health services to residents and elderly persons.

Although the project was conceived to house men and women alike, Jagger said only one of the current residents was male.

"Single men are quite welcome to stay here with their children," he said. "But the Federal Housing Administration, which provides rent subsidies, stipulates that a resident with three children can earn only $7,155 yearly and still be eligible. Most men earn more than that."

Under the original concept, seven of the apartments were to be set aside for older couples who would provide some babysitting services and also give the children a "grandparent" image. So far, there have been no takers.

"Most elderly persons have raised their own families and have organized their lives into established routines," Jagger said. "Getting them to adapt to a life style which includes 110 children is extremely tough."

He said the objections of some neighborhood residents, who felt the village was nothing more than a home for unwed mothers, had been overcome once the operation of the village began.

"We have a strict set of rules which residents must follow," Jagger said. "And we think each resident's personal goals while he is here are more important than whether he or she has ever been married."

He said 20 per cent of the residents were attending college and most of the rest were taking vocational training while working part-time.

Jagger said resident turnover had been "fairly high" at the village in spite of an estimate that residents would stay an average of three years.

"Two of the women went back to their husbands and several others became upset with the 'no-roommate' rule," he said.

"We are very tolerant and don't try to establish any pattern of habit for the residents. But when two adults, male or female, begin sharing the same apartment they become, in effect, a two-parent family and are no longer eligible to live here."

Some residents also are upset that the learning center, scheduled to open last April, still isn't in operation because the Internal Revenue Service has not yet issued a charitable organization tax certificate.

"The learning center was my main reason for moving in," said Ellen Pond, 23. "If they knew there were going to be problems in opening the center, they should have told us before we moved in."

Other residents moved into the apartment because they thought it would solve their babysitting problems. But Miss Pond said that has not been the case.

Peggy Heit, mother of a year-old son, was more explicit about her reasons for moving into the complex.

"My baby's father used to bother me a lot and I like my privacy," she said. "I know there's no way he can get in here so I plan to stay."

However, most residents, whose average age is in the mid-20's, indicated they would stay on despite the problems.

"I'm sure these things will be ironed out and I don't intend to move until I have to," said Kelly Reynolds, 27, an airline ticket agent and the only male resident.

"I moved here so my daughter would have other children to play with," he said. "She's adjusting well and that's all that counts."

Episcopal woman leader speaks for change

NEW YORK (UPI) — Times change, traditions with them, and one day the Episcopal Church will accept women as priests, even as bishops, says a daughter of an Episcopal priest who herself might have followed her father into the clergy had her church allowed.

Dorothy J. Scovil continued the family's principle of service, however, and today is director of the Human Development Center, a pastoral counseling clinic at famed Trinity Church at the head of Wall Street.

As such, she is on the staff of the oldest Episcopal church in America, one of the few women to be so recognized in a denomination that does not yet admit women to the priesthood and the right to perform sacramental services.

We were talking of the shock waves sent through the 3.1 million member denomination from the action last week at the Church of the Advocate in North Philadelphia. Four bishops, in a controversial ceremony that defied church law and tradition, ordained 11 women as priests.

"A woman has as complete right as a man to serve as a priest, yes even to be a bishop if she wants," said Miss Scovil. "Tradition will break down. It will take time but I feel it will happen. But there will be a lot of griping. The church is trying to find its own way."

I mentioned the comment of one of the Philadelphia women, Suzanne Hiatt, who said after the bruhaha over ordination, "If the church believes that women are inferior, then I have no use for the church."

"Rather than that," said Miss Scovil, "I feel sorry for the church. I suggest that those who think women are inferior and have no right to ordination should be looking at their own deep seated needs for sexuality."

The attitude of her father, the Rev. Dr. David Scovil, probably would be along the lines of present church laws, that women should not perform priestly duties, she said.

Episcopal women are permitted to become deacons, ranking below bishops and priests, enabling them to perform pastoral services only. Miss Scovil herself is a candidate for a deaconate.

Her father, former dean of the Episcopal Cathedral in Los Angeles, now is priest in charge of St. Thomas of Canterbury, in Long Beach, Calif.

"He never said he wanted his daughters in the ministry," she said. Miss Scovil is an identical twin. Her sister, Mary, is a therapist working in a children's shelder on the West Coast.

"I gather he would be proud were I to be ordained a deacon, but he wouldn't want me to be a priest. He would fear that women in the priesthood would create a schism...that unity with the Catholic Church would be impeded.

"I'm not sure a schism would be all bad. Destructive and painful, yes, but it could lead to the process of redemption. In a way, it'd be like the racial schism."

Dorothy Scovil, born in Oxnard, Calif., has a bachelor's degree in psychology from Kansas State College and a master's from Union Theological Seminary in New York.

She also is a graduate in counseling from the Blanton-Peale Graduate Institute, the Institutes of Religion and Health, New York, and a fellow of the American Association of Pastoral Counseling.

She worked as counselor and assistant chaplain at youth and child centers before she set up the outpatient counseling service for Trinity, located in the heart of New York's financial and corporate headquarters community.

Where can a woman best service her religion, I asked her.

"Wherever she can fulfill her own wants, whether as a mother, a career woman, a clergy person," she said. "Fulfilling self is tremendously important. If that is selfish in a sense, it is to be free to love other people more freely. Remember Christ said, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself.'"

PLANNING OUTING

Mrs. Jack Berens, Mrs. James Grossman and Mrs. Neil Miller, from left, gather articles they will use for the country social to be held Saturday evening by Hadassah unit.

TODAY'S Women

Outside counseling

Suggested for youth

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Memo to teenagers: if your parent is an alcoholic, you are not alone. About 20 million children including teen-agers in the United States live with an alcoholic parent or parents.

Of the estimated 9 million alcoholics in this country, most are adults in their middle years with families whose lives are filled with problems, fears, and despair.

What alcoholism and related problems cost the nation is in the billions —$35.3 billion in 1971, the last year for which complete figures were available, the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism reported recently.

What it costs for the young alone cannot be measured. The alcoholic parent means scars of abuse, neglect, mistreatment, confusion, embarrassment, problems at school, with jobs, uncertainty with their peers.

How can the teen-agers cope? One guideline is to seek outside guidance for "your difficulties will become less overwhelming if you can discuss your worries with a knowledgeable person outside your family," writes Edith Lynn Horwick, who specializes in material for and about teen-agers.

"You could talk to your family doctor, your clergyman, an Alcoholics Anonymous (AA member, to someone from Al-Anon or Alateen. They have the experience to help you learn how to deal with an alcoholic parent and how to sort out those worries you can solve and those you should leave to your parents."

Al-Anon and Alateen are outgrowths of the AA program and are designed to help those living with an alcoholic.

Miss Horwick, who's done extensive volunteer work in youth oriented agencies, discusses the alcoholic in the family problem in "You and Your Alcoholic Parent," a new publication of the Public Affairs Committee, a non-profit educational organization with headquarters in New York. It is condensed from the author's book of the same title.

The author questions, for instance, whether the teen should miss school or cancel a date to take care of an incapacitated parent, who "may then feel free to drink because he or she is not really needed."

In fact, she said, many a mother "has pulled herself together because her family needed her."

She stresses that alcoholism is an illness and that a teen-ager's reaction of throwing out the liquor in the house, for instance, is "a futile gesture. The problem is within the person, not in the glass."

In the form of questions and answers, Miss Hornick makes these other points:

—"When an alcoholic criticizes his children unfairly or even insults them "inside he is suffering from self-hate and guilt ... some parents know they are hurting their children, but they don't know how to stop themselves."

—Sometimes the best thing to do "when a parent is drinking excessively is to get out of the house. Go for a walk. Do your homework in the library. Visit a good friend; go to a teen-age walk-in center, a community center, or become active in after school activities."

—A teen-ager should not feel guilty if a parent drinks. "Every family experiences some conflict or disagreement. What weakens the drinking parent's ability to handle day-to-day family stress is the alcoholism itself."

—When an alcoholic parent is convalescing, "try to keep family stress and arguments out of the parent's way. You cannot avoid disagreements but you can minimize tensions brought on by arguments."

(Editor's note: A copy of "You and Your Alcoholic Parent" is available for 35 cents from the Public Affairs Committee, 381 Park Ave. South, New York, N.Y. 10010.

Country social

Summer event slated

An old-fashioned country social is planned by Sharon Chapter of Hadassah when members and their friends gather Saturday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Abraham Wodinsky in Claremont.

The annual "Country Affair" will include dinner, folk dancing, singing and entertainment by Randy Kovitz of Claremont, an aspiring young minstrel who has been appearing in one-man shows throughout the valley. He is a drama student at Carnegie-Mellon University, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The social hour, with a no-host bar, will begin at 7 p.m. and dinner will be served at 8 p.m. Proceeds will go into the Hadassah Israel Education Services.

Reservations are being taken by Mrs. Neil Miller, 983-6080, and Mrs. James Grossman, 626-6654.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lucille Spiro-Smith sees with her hands.

"They're my tools," said the sculptress whose loss of sight began in her teens. The handicap didn't stop the artist, however. Her sculptures are in private collections, she's had museum and gallery shows, and now has branched into another medium, the designing and moulding of jewelry.

Lucille Spiro-Smith (The Spiro is pronounced spy-roh) was 13 when for reasons her doctors never determined, she developed uveitis, an inflammation of the eyes' uvea.

By the time she was 16, sight in the right eye was gone, by 21 the left was lost. "There's no way of knowing why," she said in an interview. "Some doctors thought it could have come from tuberculosis but I proved not to have had a trace. Or it's possible that it started from the mastoiditis I had when I was 8."

Before her sight went completely, Mrs. Spiro-Smith had painted and designed children's clothes. But with the handicap, "I just turned to things I could feel," she said. "I learned to knit...I must have done thousands of sweaters."

About 1962, she also began to "play around" with Plasticine, commercially produced substitute for clay, to model figures. She didn't take sculpting lessons, she recalled. "I chickened out on my teacher."

Neither did she do much about learning Braille because "I found reading that way outrageously boring". Now she "reads" by records and tapes.

Her sculptures, which are delicately detailed works eventually cast in bronze, usually feature children and activities of the child's world.

At one of her exhibits I saw her playground sculpture detailed right down to slides, sandbox and swings, children seinging on a maypole, a girl jumping rope.

"I'm a child freak," said the slim brunette. "I like their radiance and freedom. I love the fact that they've not been spoiled yet."

Recently, branching into jewelry, she began modeling acrobatic figures translated into letter shapes—an acrobat shaped into every letter of the alphabet including Z.

The letters were designed to become personalized pendants in an era of pendant fads. Wear the letter of your first or last name. "I don't know whether there are many names starting with 'Z'," she laughed, "but it was such a pretty shape I made it anyway."

She chose the acrobat motif because "I love motion, rhythm. I abhor anything that's static."

The letters are made in either silver or gold and her first orders came from the fashionable Bergdorf Goodman store on Fifth Avenue.

The sculptress, daughter of Amster Spiro, once city editor of the now defunct New York Journal-American, was married in 1931 to a plastics signs manufacturer who had met her during "one of my many hospital visits. I was getting fever therapy (enforced high body temperatures). Doctors thought it might kill off the infection.

Her husband, who was sighted, died when their only child, Jonathon, now 22, was 4. He also is an artist and with the New York University film school.

Romantic, classic

Fall hairstyles planned

Hairstyling for fall and winter will complement the fashionable American woman's moods of romance, drama, nostalgia and classicism, according to the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Associatica.

"Beautiful hair moves," says Louise Cotier of Detroit, Mich., styles director for the 64,000 member association, who directed the creation of four new hairstyles titled, "Image Makers Encores," to be studied and interpreted by hairdressers throughout the country for the coming season.

The classic encore has the distinctive touch and mood of a luxurious period in history, reflecting the refined taste of today's woman who cares about fashion. It has a balance of waves and curls without sacrificing the natural look. This is a mid-length hairstyle that lends itself to personality adaptations by adding or subtracting from the overall length. Bouncy waves and curls frame the face.

The dramatic encore is an artistic expression of drama drawn from the desire of the American woman to return to a look and feel of beauty. This is created from a perfectly designed fashion haircut and is finished in soft waves by placement of pin curls or through the use of the blow comb, air dryer or by placement of wave combs.

The nostalgic encore has the provocative tumble of breeze-kissed curls and waves and is the stamp of the feminine woman. It may be worn parted in the middle with soft waves framing the face, ending at mid-ear or for total recall of the flapper feeling add a decorative headband. It is most effective with ringlet curls in front with semi-shingled back.

Length is just above shoulders to very short. Curls and waves will be popular. Coloring is natural featuring blonde, brown, hennas and reds. Softness and freeness are important this season.

Hand care

Hand care begins with cleanliness. At least once daily, scrub your fingernails with a firm bristled nail brush, soap and lukewarm water. Avoid hot or cold water which redden the skin.

Wear gloves

For good hand care when gardening, either wear gloves or dig your nails into a cake of soap before you start so dirt won't get imbedded under them.

Women operate bookstore

Nine valley women, all widely known for their community activities, have pooled their talents and become businesswomen.

The women opened their venture, "The Bookworm" bookstore this week in Upland. Located at 229 N. 2nd Ave., the store will be open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The shop is being operated by Mmes. Jo Ann Chalfant, Mary Gattas, Mura Glenn, Marge Melillo, Mary Ann Robinson, Barbara Rusche, Marilee Wake, Georgia Westphal and Robbe Wilcox. Each of the women has at least 15 years of service to the community.

All are members of the San Antonio Community Hospital Auxiliary. Four are past presidents.

The owners have a total of 30 children and 14 grandchildren between them and have relied on their children and husbands to help prepare the shop for its opening.

The bookstore will carry both hardback and paperback books of all types, including many for children. In addition, cards, tallies and novelty items are stocked.

Finland's model city has no slums, pollution, police

TAPIOLA, Finland (UPI) — The city of Tapiola has no policemen, and no slums. It does have more than 20,000 persons from all walks of life living in a pollution free town considered by planners throughout the world as a model city of the future.

Tapiola (The Realm of the Kingdom of the Woods) stands on 667 acres of lush green fields and forests on an inlet of the Gulf of Finland six miles from Helsinki.

Twenty years ago Heikki von Hertzen set out to convince men with money that a completely new attitude in town planning was needed.

The banks would not listen, but six large social organizations did, and today Tapiola stands as a monument to privately financed town planning and building.

"Man was both the subject and object of all our activities. We built the town for man and industry and business were subordinate," Von Hertzen, 60, said in a recent interview.

Diverse Planners

He believed that if all of man's needs were to be served, then a cross section of society should plan the city. So besides the architects and engineers, he formed a committee of housewives, sociologists, landscape gardeners and child and youth welfare officers to approve each planning step.

Their success can be measured in the long waiting list of people wanting to move into the town and the frequent visits by foreign city planners.

More than half the town's area is common green, parks and forest and since the town belongs also to the children not one "keep off the grass" sign appears. The gardeners took care to plant especially thick grass that children could not trample into oblivion.

Only 25 per cent of the town is given to housing and that is the key to population control.

"We wanted to build a city where one citizen can still be heard. If we can keep a city's density under control then the citizen remains a human being and can be heard," Von Hertzen said.

He said Tapiola is an example of how to solve urban blight by building new cities, not expanding existing ones.

"Urban renewal offers the old cities time to plan new cities, but urban renewal is just a delaying tactic; the solution is to build an entirely self-sufficient new town," he said.

Besides the basic municipal needs, Tapiola offers a full social and cultural program, meeting places, and has its own free weekly newspaper.

The town claims that no household is more than 250 yards from a shoppping area. About half the residents work within the town limits although Helsinki, the capital city, is just 20 minutes away by bus. The city has attracted light industry and has a large printing works factory.

The town once had one policeman—to teach traffic safety in schools and organize recreatonal activities—but he quit and so for the occasional police work needed the county police are called.

The first question that strikes a visitor is where does everybody live. A look at the city, even from its 13-story adminstrative tower, shows just a few apartment buildings but thousand of tall thin pines.

The Finns, however, are masters at blending and hiding building into nature, behind and between trees.

The only place concrete reigns supreme is the main shopping center and adminstrative tower. From the restaurant at the top of the tower one sees the archipelago and the forest and and it ranks as one of the most beautiful sites in the country.

The planners did run into problems. Although foreseeing the bicycle craze (all the wide pathways have yellow lines down the middle giving half to pedestrians and half to bicycles) the planners didn't figure on the volume of automobile traffic.

"Even if we had taken the most far reaching estimates offered 20 years ago we never could have planned for the traffic influx we now face," Von Hertzen said.

He said Tapiola is an example of one lesson city planners must learn. "Everywhere where there are better human settlements there has always been a special organization to do the planning. It must be a group project between the municipal body and the consumer. To build a town is teamwork and experts from all walks of life are needed."

Spanish premier's assassination inspires two best-selling books

MADRID (UPI) — Spaniards are snapping up two books on the four-month-old bomb slaying of Prime Minister Luis Carrero Blanco by a group of assassins whom the government has identified as Basque separatists.

The first out was "The Crisis," by Carrero's former press officer, Joaquin Bardavio. It went on sale the first week of April. The second account, titled "The Day They Killed Carrero Blanco," is by writer Rafael Borras Betriu and two Barcelona University professors.

Other books cashing in on the Carrero boom will follow soon, publishing sources report.

One is being written by Carrero's education minister, Julio Rodriguez. Bardavio's book says Rodriquez caused one of several post-assassination incidents by insulting Madrid's Cardinal Archbishop Vicente Enrique y Tarancon at a memorial mass attended by Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Strong sales of the books reflect the fascination of Spaniards with the slaying, the only major political assassination in the 35 years of Franco's regime. Many of the circumstances still are shrouded in mystery.

According to the government, Carrero —Franco's second-in-command — was killed by a group of Basques disguised as workmen, electricians and sculptors. From a rented basement flat opposite the church where Carrero usually attended morning mass, they tunneled under the street and placed three anti-tank mines. They blew the premier's limousine over the 60-foot-high church roof as he was being driven away from the church.

Clandestine Basque organizations said the assassination was revenge for the death of nine "freedom fighters" in clashes with Spanish police.

Neither the two books adds substantial detail to known facts of the Dec. 20 bombing. None reflects Madrid whispers that the 10 Basque fugitives named by the government may not be the true killers.And none expands on the role of the armed forces. According to reports published outside Spain, they virtually took over the country for one or two tense days until it became clear that the assassination was an isolated incident and that Spain remained quiet.

Bardavio's book reported that the cabinet, after informing Franco of the prime minister's death, met for 45 minutes in Carrero's office. Halfway through the meeting, acting Premier Torquato Fernandez Miranda took a telephone call from Franco.

According to Bardavio, Fernandez turned to the ministers and said: "The Caudillo (Franco). It's the Caudillo. He thinks that the information received so far is not conclusive. We must wait until we have proof."

The book also tells how Carrero's widow, seeing her dead husband in a Madrid hospital, made her children swear that they should never seek vengeance —only justice. She was handed the contents of Carrero's pockets —a half-smoked pack of cigarets, a gold lighter and an indentity card. Carrero was carrying no money.

Bardavio describes how rightwing extremists hurled insults at the politically moderate Cardinal Tarancon during the funeral procession through Madrid, and how officials including the president of the council of the state and the Papal nuncio intervened to protect Tarancmn against physical assault.

During a memorial service two days later, Tarancon, in a gesture of reconciliation between the state and the Spanish church, embraced Franco and shook hands with the members of the government. According to Bardavio, Education Minister Rodriguez ignored the Cardinal's outstretched hand and abruptly turned his back on him.

The book reports acting Premier Fernandez called Rodriguez on the carpet and ordered him to apologize. But the cardinal had already left Madrid, so Rodriguez went to police headquarters instead and offered his help in tracking down the assassins.

The Education Minister, the book says, "wanted to put himself at the disposal of police in case there was a plan of forming a commando to go abroad and avenge the death of Carrero."

In the meantime, Basque separatists, appearing masked at a news conference in a hideout in France, had assumed responsibility for the slaying and described it in detail. Much to the distress of Spanish authorities, the French government made no move to hand them over.

Joshua becomes new Dodger hero after HR

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Von Joshua got a chance to play Saturday night and he made the most of his opportunity.

Joshua, who has gone on record in his desire to be traded after the season because of a lack of playing time, got his chance to open in centerfield when manager Walt Alston decided Jimmy Wynn needed a rest.

As it turned out, Joshua is the latest Dodger hero. He ripped a three-run homer to climax a big first inning to help lead the Dodgers to a 5-1 victory over the Houston Astros.

Willie Crawford opened the fireworks against Houston starter Larry Dierker with a two-run homer earlier in the first inning.

The two homers, which raised the Dodgers' season total to 95 was all Andy Messersmith needed as he pitched a stong four-hitter to earn his 13th victory in 15 decisions.

Los Angeles improved its National League West lead to six games over idle Cincinnati before 47,931 Hollywood Stars Night fans.

Steve Garvey kept it going with a single. Ron Cey drew a walk and Joshua connected on a 2-0 pitch on a drive which went over the fence in left-center for his first homer of the campaign.

"It sure felt good," Joshua said. "I didn't think it was going out at first. I usually don't hit with that much power to left-center."

Crawford opened the third inning with a double off the pavilion fence but was thrown out trying for a triple on Cesar Cedeno's great throw. Houston Manager Preston Gomez felt Dierker had seen enough when Garvey followed with a sharp single.

That finished the Dodger attack for the night as three Astro relief pitchers held L.A. to three singles the rest of the way.

Messersmith was in control the entire distance in tying teammate Tommy John and several others for the most wins in the National League.

Houston's only run came in the eighth inning when pitch hitter Cliff Johnson singled to score Milt May.

Messersmith was helped from the seventh by a spectacular double play, started when third baseman Cey made a backhanded grab of a hard grounder hit by Lee May behind the bag. Cey's throw beat Cedeno at second and the relay from Davey Lopes was in time to retire May.

In recording his seventh consecutive victory, Messersmith struck out eight and allowed only two walks. He threw 76 strikes among his 117 pitches.

Catcher Steve Yeager, who is behind the palte when Messersmith pitches, was asked how Messersmith could be better than "super", as he said after the last victory.

"He's supreme," Yeager answered.

"He's just going out and doing the things he knew he could do all the time. Andy is such a competitor. He feels the batters are not going to walk around with a piece of lumber and clutter up his base paths."

Crawford raised his batting average to .300 with his two-for-four performance.

Asked if he could hit .300 for the season, Crawford replied, "I've been around .290 or .300 all year and I haven't had a real good hot streak yet."

DODGER DATA: Geoff Zahn (1-1) will make his third start of the season in this afternoon's 1:15 p.m. finale of the brief two-game series. Lefthander Dave Roberts (6-8) will hurl for Houston.

Cincinnati arrives for the big three-game series Monday evening in a 5:15 p.m. start because of national television.

David Wcrohkiewicz of Walnut is one of the finalists taking part in the Dodger-Pepsi skills contest before the game today at 12:45 . . . a couple of Dodgers are on current hitting streaks. Garvey has hit safely in seven games in a row while Buckner is on a five-game string . . .

It's impossible to report who won Saturday's preliminary game as the Hollywood Stars played each other. Peter Falk of Colombo fame received the biggest hand in his dirty Dodger sweatshirt.

ON THE PICKET LINE

Veteran quarterback Charley Johnson would like to begin his 14th season in pro football. But he and the rest of the Denver Bronco veterans have vowed to remain on strike until the dispute in the NFL has been settled.

Bronco vets vow to stick together

DENVER (UPI) — Charley Johnson has 13 years of pro football behind him. He wishes the 14th would get started.

"I don't have too many seasons left and I would like to get in as much of each as I can," said the seven-time victim of surgery. But Johnson and the rest of the Bronco veterans vowed to remain on strike until the NFL players strike ends.

Saturday night, the 40 vets were joined by several New York Jets and former Bronco Fred Forsberg, recently traded from Buffalo to San Diego, in picketing the preseason opener between Denver and the Jets.

"We are a unique unit of guys," said Johnson, a quarterback from New Mexico State, "We really believe in each other and once we are obligated to something, we follow through with it."

The Broncos claim an obligation to more than just the strike. They swear to plans of playing in the Super Bowl this year and to make sure they are in shape when the walkout ends, the veterans hold daily workouts at a Denver high school.

"We take great pride in staying together," said Pro Bowl running back Floyd Little. "We are working out together and working out hard. Don't worry, we'll be ready when the season starts."

Little said the free agents and 1973 Bronco taxi squad members who are working with the team did so with the urging of the striking players.

"We told them to go in and work out," Little said. "We want them to have a chance to make a living. After all, they are not members of the Players' Association.

"The people who are in there are the marginal ball players, especially the veterans on other teams who crossed the picket lines," he said. "That's what's unique about our team. We have some marginal veterans but because we have the unity we have developed, they won't go in and break this thing."

Stanton, Bochte lift Angels to 4-3 victory over Royals

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Lee Stanton hammered a two-out, two-run double in the third inning and rookie Bruce Bochte scored twice and drove in a run Saturday, lifting the California Angels to a 4-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals behind the seven-hit pitching of Nolan Ryan.

Ryan, 14-11, struck out nine and recorded his ninth victory in 11 career decisions against the Royals.

Bochte, who had three hits, opened the third with a single and held at third on Mickey River's ground-rule double. Stanton then cracked his two-run double to left-center against loser Paul Splittorff, 10-12.

The Angels added a run in the fourth when Bochte doubled and scored on Rivers' two-out single.

Bobby Valentine opened the Angels' eighth with a single, was sacrificed to second and scored on Bochte's single.

The Royals broke through against Ryan in the fourth when Amos Otis doubled, advanced to third on an error and scored on Frank White's infield single.

Fred Patek walked in the fifth, stole second, and scored on a single by John Mayberry while Otis led off the eighth with a solo homer, his 10th of the season, to close out the scoring.

Seagren begins Superstar bid

ROTONDA, Fla. (UPI) — Pole vaulter Bob Seagren, the winner of the first Superstars competition in 1973, will be one of the participants in the first of the preliminary qualifying rounds Aug. 12-13 that will help determine the 1975 champion.

The top four scoring athletes from each qualifying round will advance to the finals to be held next February and be shown on national television (ABC).

Among those competing in the first preliminary qualifying round against Seagren will be indoor pole vaulting record holder Steve Smith along with basketball stars John Havlicek of the Boston Celtics, Jim McMillian of the Buffalo Braves, Pete Maravich of the New Orleans Jazz, Lou Hudson of the Atlanta Hawks and Bill Bradley of the New York Knicks.

Also competing for the top purse of $122,000 will be hockey standouts Yvan Cournoyer of the Montreal Canadiens, Bernie Parent and Dave Schultz of the Philadelphia Flyers along with speed skater Ard Schenk and race driver James Hunt.

UNDER PRESSURE

Denver Bronco quarterback John Hufnagel gets a pass away despite pressure from New York Jet tackle Perry Jones in an exhibition opener in Denver Saturday night.

Football fans place owners in tough spot

NEW YORK (UPI) — The eventual victim of the National Football League players' strike, the one who will end up footing the bill, had his turn to speak out this weekend and what he had to say may speed a settlement.

In short, the NFL fan told the owners those countless Sunday hours before the television had not sufficiently dulled his senses that he would pay to see the free agent-studded teams being fielded for this weekend's exhibtion games.

A trio of exhibition contests Friday night brought out only 75,000 football addicts and Saturday's crowds were not expected to come close to the accustomed NFL sellout.

Houston Oilers' officials announced Friday that only 13,000 tickets had been sold for Saturday's contest with the New York Giants. Oakland was expecting a crowd of 45,000, larger than any of the Friday night audiences but still the end of the Raiders' 46-game string of sellouts, for its Saturday contest with the Dallas Cowboys.

Other Saturday contests had Chicago meeting St. Louis in Champaign, Ill., where officials were concerned about attracting a break-even crowd, the New York Jets were at Denver and San Francisco at San Diego.

In arguing for the necessity of tying-in preseason games with season ticket plans in past years, NFL owners have said the receipts from exhibition games were crucial to the financial welfare of the franchise and a financially-profitable season would be impossible without them.

If that's the case, the owners should return to the bargaining table Tuesday in a more amenable mood after this weekend's message from the fans, who will pay for the eventual contract settlement in increased ticket prices.

The talks had recessed Friday with the two sides, according to John Thompson, the executive director of the owners' Management Council, "a punt return, a commissioner and $36 million apart."

Despite the huge gap currently separating the two sides, the owners are under the gun, with the strike now beginning to cost them money as well as aggravation, and the Players Association's strength is rapidly eroding as veterans trickle into camp each day.

Ali, Foreman set at Swing

SAN BERNARDINO — The world heavyweight championship fight between George Foreman and Muhammad Ali on Sept. 24 wil be seen on closed circuit television in Swing Auditorium on the National Orange Show grounds.

The battle will be screened live and in color from ringside at Zaire, Africa. There will be no radio or home TV.

Reserved seats at $20 and $17.50 and general admission tickets at $15 are available now by mail at the Orange Show Ticket Agency, 693 S. E St., San Bernardino, 92408. Money orders must be sent, along with a self-addressed, stamped, envelope.

Denver blasted by Jets, 41-19

DENVER (UPI) — John Jones, overlooked in the pro draft because of his size but given a chance because of the NFL player strike, threw two touchdown passes to David Knight and Bob Burns ran for three touchdowns Saturday night as the New York Jets plastered the mistake-prone Denver Broncos in a 41-19 preseason win.

The biggest excitement for the 27,559 fans, nearly 16,000 below capacity, came with just three minutes left in the first half, when Bronco offensive tackle Claudie Minor of Pomona and Jet linebacker Godwin Turk were ejected for fighting. Nearly 50 veterans, including the entire Bronco team from a year ago, picketed before the game started.

The Jets also got field goals of 38 yards from Ron Svarc in the first quarter and 32 yards from Richard Ciemmy in the closing minutes of the second quarter.

Denver held a short-lived 6-3 lead on a one-yard touchdown run by Jon Keyworth, a Chaffey High product, in the second quarter after Svarc fumbled a punt snap on his own 13.

John Hufnagel hit Art Miller on scoring passes of 8 and 55 yards in the second half, after the Jets had taken a 34-6 lead.

Cincy boots Miami

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Horst Muhlmann kicked four field goals and Wayne Clark fired a 12-yard touchdown pass to rookie Richard Williams to pace the Cincinnati Bengals to a 19-13 victory over the Miami Dolphins in the pre-season opener for both teams here Saturday night.

There were no pickets on hand from the striking NFL Players Association and the game was played before 32,839 fans in 52,000-seat Riverfront Stadium.

Muhlmann booted field goals of 45, 30, and two from 23 yards to help offset two long scoring bombs that Miami rookies Ken Polke and Nat Moore teamed up on.

Polke, a first-year quarterback from the nearby University of Dayton, connected on touchdown tosses of 73 and 67 yards to Moore, a speedster from Florida.

Steelers romp

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Rookie Bobby Huell scored on bursts of one and eight yards to lead the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 26-7 preseason NFL victory over the New Orleans Saints before a crowd of 45,339 Saturday night, the smallest in Saints history.

Rookie quarterback Larry Cipa posted the Saints' only score on a one-yard sweep in the second period. New Orleans missed later scoring opportunities on short goal attempts of 41 and 42 yards by free agent John Murphy.

The Saints reported 9,000 ticket refunds.

Oilers trip Giants

HOUSTON (UPI) — Castoff NFL punter James Foote dove one yard for a touchdown and fired a 37-yard pass for another in a 44-second span late in the second quarter Saturday night, leading the Houston Oilers to a 16-7 exhibition win over the New York Giants.

A meager Astrodome crowd of 12,831, attending the opener despite a continuing strike by most NFL veterans, enthusiastically supported the Oilers —a rare winner the past two years.

The crowd saw a winning performance from Foote and his wide receivers, Billy Johnson and Willie Jackson, who brought Houston back from a 7-0 deficit.

Chargers triumph

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Rookie defensive end Ray Baylor lumbered 93 yards with an intercepted pass and Glen Bonner and Bo Matthews later scored on short plunges as the San Diego Chargers downed the San Francisco 49ers 20-6 Saturday night in an NFL exhibition opener for both teams.

Only 18,087 showed up for the game as about 40 veterans picketed outside the various parking lot entrances.

With the 49ers threatening at San Diego's four-yard line late in the first quarter, linebacker Mike Lee blindsided San Francisco quarterback Tom Owen causing the pass attempt to pop into the air.

Baylor, a 263-pound rookie free agent from Texas Southern, grabbed the ball and went all the way untouched. Owen had marched the 49ers from their 20 before the interception.

Raiders roll

OAKLAND (UPI) — Rookie Harold Hart from Texas Southern scored two touchdowns to lead the Oakland Raiders to a 27-7 victory over the Dallas Cowboys in the opening preseason game for each team Saturday night.

Hart, a 206-pound running back, scored on a seven-yard run in the first quarter.

Hart's second touchdown was set up by a spectacular 78-yard interreption return by Mike Dennery.

Staubach will ignore strike

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI) — Quarterback Roger Staubach promised to report to training camp and defensive co-captain Cornell Green reported Saturday to the Dallas Cowboys' camp.

Thus, both players abandoned the players' strike. Green has never missed a game with the Cowboys in 13 seasons. Staubach said the decision to go to camp was a hard one.

"This has been a very tough decision but after weighing at length all aspects of the strike —such as teammates, player demands, fan reaction, player and owner negotiating strategy, crossing the picket line, etc. —I have decided to report to training camp Sunday.

"This is an individual decision on my part, with no intent to influence others. Therefore, I have no further comment."

LOOK OUT! — This isn't catcher Pete Rose sliding head-first into home plate during the Cincinnati Reds' recent series with the San Francisco Giants. The catcher's legs belong to Giant catcher Dave Rader. Rose and the rest of the Reds were idle Saturday, but will face the Dodgers in a three-game series starting Monday.

Despite poor putting

Hill holds PVC lead

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — Dave Hill, putting "like an absolute dog," pawed out an even-par 71 Saturday to retain a two-stroke lead after 54 holes of the $200,000 Pleasant Valley Golf Classic.

Tom Weiskopf, struggling off the tee, also managed a 71, while Jim Wiechers had the day's best round, a 68, as both finished at 207. Hill was at 205.

Victor Regalado, the two-time Mexican Masters and reigning Mexican PGA champ, shot a 69 to hold fourth position, four strokes back at 209.

Hill, who along with Weiskopf had a course record-tying 65 Friday, had birdie chances from inside 15 feet on nine different holes, but converted just one, from 12 feet on the second hole. His only other bird came on a 25-footer on the seventh hole.

"All I can do today is just guide the ball better," said Hill, winner of this year's Houston Open. "I've been hitting my irons real well. I've had a million chances from inside 15 feet and missed.

"I putted like an absolute dog today."

Weiskopf hit only six fairways off the tee but saved himself time and again with irons right on the pin and putts ranging from 10 to 30 feet for pars.

"I putted much better today, but my drives mostly went to the left," said Weiskopf, who could surpass $1 million in career earnings by taking the $40,000 top prize here.

Only seven of the 78 starters broke par and four more shot even par on a clammy day with swirling winds.

Wiechers had by far the best round of the day under the tough conditions, making four birdies against one bogey.

"But my best shot of the whole tournament came on the 17th," Wiechers said of his par four. "I had a 60-foot pitch from the woods at the right and had to come over a 10-foot bank. I pitched 10 feet by, pin high, and made the putt coming back."

Wiechers was tied for the lead 16 holes into the final round last year, when the tournament was called the USI classic, but he double-bogeyed the double water-holed 17th and finished three strokes back of winner Lanny Wadkins.

Wiechers acknowledged he had won a measure of satisfaction by rescuing a par Saturday on the vicious 17th, but added, "I've got a long way to go to make up for last year."

First round co-leader Jerry Heard, who started the round four strokes back, was two under par for the round and had closed to within two strokes of Hill after 16 holes. But the 17th got to him too.

Heard drove into the left woods on 17 and had to pitch out; then he hit a poplar tree off to the right of the green and finished withh a double-bogey six. Still shaken, he bogeyed 18 to finish with a 72 and three round-total of 210—five strokes back.

Lee Elder had an even par 71 Saturday to accompany two 70s and finish with a two-under 211. Dale Douglass was alone at 212.

J.C. Snead, who began the round three under par, also double-bogeyed 18 to drop to even par 213. He was tied at that mark with Larry Hinson, Bobby Cole and Ken Still.

Napoles retains title in Mexico

When the end came at 2:34 of the ninth round, the 34-year-old Napoles was ahead on points— 80 to 74—as scored by two judges and the referee.

Throughout most of the battle the wily ring veteran, making his 12th title defense, took the initiative against the 28-year-old American—much to the surprise of many ring forecasts.

With the start of the ninth, Napoles—who had been criticized for allegedly "sloppy" training—clearly took command of the fight and began slamming punishing blows to the challenger from Los Angeles.

Lewis began to whobble and lose his balance and coordination and Napoles backed him into the ropes with smashing lefts and rights.

As the American—who lost in a close decision at Los Angeles in December of 1971 in his first bid to wrest the title from Napoles—was obviously becoming almost defenseless, the referee stopped the fight, awarding a technical knockout to the champion.

Lewis inflicted a cut over Napoles' left brow but, thanks to the deft cornerwork of trainer Agnelo Dundee, of Miami, Fla., it did not bleed. Dundee said after the TKO was announced that "Napoles won on pure intelligence."

In the seventh round Lewis suddenly slipped, went to the canvas but immediately bounced up, surprised but seemingly unhurt.

At that point, however, he had failed to display any of his expected advantage of speed and razzle-dazzle over the old ring veteran. World Boxing Council president Ramon Velazquez, who watched from ringside, said "Lewis was very disappointing. He seemed to lack courage. And Napoles' condition was surprisingly good."

The excited and very pro-Napoles fans booed and shouted epithets at Lewis as he was escorted from the ring.

But back in his dressing room the stunned and still-confused Lewis told newsmen: "I want another fight with Napoles as soon as possible." But there seemed little chance of a third bout.

Napoles—who first won the welterweight title from Curtis Cokes in 1969, lost it to Billy Backus in 1970, and then won it back from Backus in 1971—said "I'm ready to take on any other challenger any time."

City boxer invited to world bouts

Albert Sandoval of Pomona and 10 other young Americans will represent the U.S. Aug. 12-31 at the first World Amateur Boxing Championships in Havana, Cuba.

The championship, the first global event to be held since the Olympics, has attracted entries from over 50 ccountries and probably will be dominated by the host nation and the East European fighters.

At the Munich Olympics, where light welterweight Ray Seales won the U.S. gold medal, Cuba won three titles and the Soviet Union took two. Four of the other five titles went to East Europeans.

The U.S. team will be in the hands of Army coach Pat Nappi of Syracuse, N.Y. The squad will assemble Aug. 5 at Camp Lejeune, N.C. for preliminary training before leaving for Havana.

Sandoval, 18, a light flyweight at 106 pounds, took third place in his division at the national AAU championships at Knoxville, Tenn in June. He was the defending 106-pound titlist. He was unseated by Claudelle Akins of Missouri, who went on to win the title, in the semifinals.

Walnut nips Charter Oak

COVINA — Paul Kline and Bob Veselic pitched and hit Walnut's Thorobred baseball team to a 4-3 victory over Charter Oak Saturday night at Orangewood Park in Section 3 tournament action.

Kline, the winning pitcher, doubled in the first run of the game in the second inning, pitched for six innings and allowed only two hits while striking out five.

Veselic, who relieved Kline on the mound in the seventh inning, slammed a two-run-home run following Jeff Corkill's single in the fifth inning to account for the winning run.

Walnut, now 2-0 in the tourney, will battle the winner of tonight's Charter Oak-Bassett contest Monday night at 8 p.m. for the Sectional championship.

Haynie takes lead in Ladies Classic

HORSHAM, Pa. (UPI) — Veteran Sandra Haynie shot a four-under-par 69 in the second round Saturday for a 36-hole score of 140 and a one-stroke lead in the 54-hole, $40,000 George Washington Ladies Golf Classic at the Hidden Springs Country Club.

Miss Haynie, 15-year tour veteran and winner of this year's women's U. S. Open and LPGA championships, took over the lead by virtue of an eagle three on the 16th hole where she hit a two-wood on her second shot four feet from the cup and sank the putt.

Sandra Spuzich, on the tour 12 years, shot a 70 for 141 and second place. Karolyn Kertzman, a pro since 1971, shot a 70 for 143 and third place.

"I was very glad to get that eagle, for the way I played the 17th," Miss Haynie said.

Miss Haynie hit a trap on the 17th and bogeyed the hole, her only bogey of the round. She birdied the third hole from 6 feet, the 11th from 5 feet and hit an eight-iron 6 inches from the cup on the 15th for a bird.

"The course played long because of the wind and wet conditions," Miss Haynie said. "I've not yet three-putted, and I have been keeping the ball fairly close to the hole."

Miss Haynie is second in money winnings this year among the lady pros.

Miss Spuzich, who had her best year on the tour last season, said she hit the ball "as well as I possibly could." She had three birdies.

The three players who were tied for the lead at 68 after Friday's opening round found the wind conditions and lack of roll on the course, wet from heavy rains during the night, difficult, and their scores soared.

Joyce Kazmierski had a 77 for 145, Louise Bruce a 79 for 147 and Jerilyn Britz a 80 for 148.

Forzano now a permanent head coach

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Lions Saturday changed Rick Forzano's coaching status from temporary to permanent.

The 45-year-old Forzano succeeds the late Don McCafferty as coach of the National Football League team.

"Rick was our choice as Mac's successor all along," said General Manager Russ Thomas. "The term 'acting head coach' was used in respect to Don."

McCafferty died of a heart attack last Sunday at the age of 53. Forzano was named acting coach the next day.

Forzano, who coached at Navy and the University of Connecticut in the college ranks was one of McCafferty's six assistants with the Lions.

He is a head pro coach for the first time and says his goal is to get the team, which had a 6-7-1 record last year, to the Super Bowl.

Players, assistants and Forzano himself were not notified until Saturday of his change in status from acting to head coach, Thomas said.

"I'm proud to be Mac's successor. I pledge myself to his memory and to the success of the Detroit Lions for the coming season," Forzano said.

Turrall clips own record

MISSION VIEJO, Calif. (UPI) — Australian teen-ager Jenny Turrall clipped 8.92 seconds off her own world's record in the 1,500-meter freestyle Saturday with a winning time of 16:39:28 in the Los Angeles Invitational swim meet.

Defeating her American rival Shirley Babashoff for the second time in the meet, the 14-year-old Miss Turrall beat her own 1973 mark of 16:48.2 She had predicted she would break her record "by at least 10 seconds."

Smith, Ashe stunned in National Classic

LOUISVILLE, Ky. UPI — Top-ranked Stan Smith and second-seeded Arthur Ashe were defeated Saturday in a wave of upsets that engulfed the quarterfinal round of the $100,000 First National Tennis Classic.

Smith lost to seventh-seeded Eddie Dibbs of North Miami, Fla., 6-2, 6-4, while Ashe was stunned by eighth-seeded Jaime Fillol of Chile, 6-4, 1-6, 7-6.

Fourth-seeded Tom Gorman also was an upset victim as he bowed to 12th-seeded Harold Solomon, winner of the Washington Star-News International Tournament earlier this week, 7-6, 6-3 in a third-round match.

In another reversal of expected form, ninth-seeded John Alexander eliminated sixth-seeded Raul Ramirez in their rain-interrupted third-round match, 6-7, 6-3, 6-2.

In later quarter-final matches, Guillermo Vilas of Argentina avenged his loss to Solomon in the Washington Star-News International Finals Tuesday with a 6-3, 6-1 victory and defending champion Manuel Orantes polished off Alexander, 6-4, 6-1. Vilas will play Dibbs and Orantes meets Fillol in Sunday's semi-finals.

With his booming service not nearly so effective on the rain-dampened clay court, Smith fell victim of the two-handed backhand shots of his speedy opponent. Dibbs broke the top-seeded star's service three times in the first set.

In the second set, Smith jumped into a 3-0 lead, but the 5-foot-6 Dibbs scrambled back to break the big blond's service three more times and earn a berth in today's semi-finals.

A special guest will be Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson, who will discuss his club's chances for a repeat National League West Division championship.

Sam Balter, former Southland sportscaster of "One for the Book" fame, will emcee the program.

Reservations may be made by calling the Anaheim Stadium switchboard (714) 633-2000 or (213) 625-1123. Price of lunch is $3.50, including tax and tip.

Aztecs can clinch berth in playoffs

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Aztecs will clinch at least a wild-card berth in the upcoming North American Soccer League playoffs with a victory over the Washington D.C. Diplomats at 6 o'clock tonight at East Los Angeles College Stadium.

The Aztecs currently hold a slim two-point lead over second-place San Jose and 14 points ahead of Seattle. But Los Angeles has three games remaining while San Jose must gain ground in only two games. Los Angeles sports an 11-6 record while San Jose has an 11-7 mark and Seattle boasts a 10-7 record.

Los Angeles finishes its regular season by meeting Denver August 7 and San Jose August 10 on the road. The Western Division championship could be decided August 10 when Los Angeles and San Jose meet before a sellout crowd at Spartan Stadium.

The Washington offense is sparked by Mori Diane. The Diplomats have won two out of their last three games, blanking Denver, 1-0, and ripping Baltimore, 6-0. Posting the shutouts was goalkeeper Kelvin Barclay who was released earlier in the year by the Aztecs.

Aztec coach Alex Perolli released Barclay after he allowed three goals in a 4-3 win to St. Louis May 19. Barclay was signed by Washington and placed in goal after starter Kurt Kuykendall broke his leg.

Douglas McMillan regained the lead in the NASL scoring race with a goal against Vancouver. He now leads Baltimore's Peter Silvester by one point with 30 points—10 goals, 10 assists. Silvester has only two games remaining to catch McMillan. San Jose's Paul Child is in third with 28 points.

Los Angeles has lost only once in nine games at home while losing five of eight away games, including five in a row.

The Aztecs have dropped four of those games on Astroturf surfaces.

"The games ahead of us are very crucial," says Atec Coach Alex Perolli. "We don't want to go into the playoffs on the road. We still have a good chance of hosting our first playoff game in Los Angeles and that's what we're looking for.

"It seems the rest of the league has gotten tougher and tougher in the last week. It is literally a league right now where anybody can beat anybody else.

"And I'm sure that Barclay will try to play one of his best games ever against us. Washington beat one of the best teams in the league badly (Baltimore, 6-0) and that is the kind of thing we have to protect against. We can't let them get the early lead. That's what has been killing us on the road."

Today's game marks the first twilight game of the season for the Aztecs. It will be preceded by two preliminary games.

At 2:30 p.m., the West Valley All Stars vs. the Golden State Soccer League All Stars. At 4 p.m., the semi-final match of the Miller Cup Championship between Rio Grande and Santa Ana will be featured.

Portugal, Brazil teams play in L.A.

LOS ANGELES — Eusebio, "The Black Panther of the Mozambique," will stalk a Brazilian prey at the Los Angeles Coliseum, Wednesday night, in the first of a four match international soccer tournament.

The fabled Eusebio and his Benfica of Portugal teammates will tangle with Cruzeiro of Brazil, a team sporting two members of the Brazilian World Cup squad, in the first contest of the tourney Wednesday night.

Two teams from Mexico, Cruz Azul and Club America, will clash at the Coliseum Friday night, Aug. 9, with the two winners meeting Sunday at 6 p.m. and the loser's bracket starting at 4 p.m.

"Pata Bendita" Castro and Reynoso of the Club America team played for Chile's 1974 World Cup team in Munich, as did Quintano of the Cruz Azul squad.

The International soccer tourney is a production of Guillermo Federico, Los Angeles businessman, who has staged a number of matches at the Coliseum featuring teams from Europe, South America and Mexico.

Smooth-striding Eusebio, now 32, last played in Los Angeles in 1967 when his Benfica team edged the English champion Manchester United 3-1, before 20,380 spectators. Eusebio scored the first two goals.

Benfica returned in August of that year to play the Boca Juniors of Argentina, but had to settle for a 1-1 deadlock before 20,390 spectators.

Cruzeiro is not without its own stars. Wilson Piazza and Nelinho starred for the Brazilians in the World Cup matches with forward Dirceu Lopes and defenseman Roberto Perfumo paced the Argentina team at Munich.

Ontario sets special events

Two baseball events have been scheduled by the Ontario Recreation Division for boys and girls.

The 10th annual Baseball Minor League Jamboree will be held for boys nine and under at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Ontario Ball Park. Boys will use three pitch rules with each team pitching to itself.

The 5th annual Girls' Softball Jamboree will be held Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Ontario Ball Park.

Participating in the two events will be children from the 15 recreation areas of the city. The youngsters from each area will be divided into the American and National Leagues

LOUISVILLE TROOPS ARRIVE — "Now we really can get rolling," commented Pres Jenuine, Vice-President-Racing for Western Harness, as he glanced out his window and saw Gary Buxton, Robin Burn and Dick Williams driving through the Hollywood Park parking lot.

All three men were associated with Louisville Downs race track earlier this summer and will be key members of the Western Harness racing department during the 1974 Hollypark sulky meeting that begins Thursday night, Aug. 22.

Buxton, a 31-year-old native of Urbana, Ohio and the brother of prominent trainer-driver Dick Buxton, will be serving his first full season as the head of WHR racing office. He took over as Racing Secretary late in the 1973 meet after serving as chief assistant for several years. Buxton also is racing secretary at Louisville Downs.

Burn, 23, has ventured West for the first time to replace Roy Shudt as track announcer. He worked in that capacity at Louisville and also has served stints calling races at Buffalo Raceway and Pocono Downs.

The veteran Williams, at one time one of the nation's leading harness drivers, will begin his sixth season as the official starter for Western Harness.

ROBBINS WINS WATCH IN PHOTO — In the future, J.M. Robbins will have no excuse if his horses don't get to the receiving barn on time.

Robbins, son of veterinarian Jack Robbins, has earned a Syncon solid state digital watch for ranking as the top percentage trainer during the 1974 Hollywood Park thoroughbred season.

However, Robbins had to wait until the very last race of the meeting was run to gain his title. He finished the campaign with 10 winners from 38 starters, but could have lost the crown to Denny Sparks, had the latter's Prince Petrone captured the nightcap on closing day. Prince Petrone missed and Sparks, at 14-for-55, wound up a close second.

Official presentation of the watch to Robbins, now stabled at Del Mar, will be made later this month by Hollypark's Director of Racing, F.E. Kilroe.

REMARKABLE IS WORD FOR PINCAY — Laffit Pincay, Jr., en route to bagging his second Eclipse Award, became the first jockey in history to have his mounts earn more than $4 million in 1973.

The remarkable, 27-year-old Panamanian, who recently registered his sixth Hollywood Park riding championship by winning a record 148 races, is well ahead of his '73 pace in money won, through the first six months of this year.

Now in action at Saratoga, Pincay finished the month of July with 244 victories and his mounts have gleaned $2,983,519 through July. Last year, his totals were 228 and $2,634,996, respectively.

In addition to being far in front in the money derby, Pincay also is leading all North American jockeys in races won. While he has been "numero uno" in money won each of the past four years, only once, in 1971, has he topped the national races-won standings.

FRONG JUMPS BACK — For more than a decade, B.N. (Frog) Redden's black-and-red vans have been the first ones through the stable gate, in advance of the fall Western Harness meeting at Hollywood Park. But not this year.

Gene Vallandingham, the former Joe O'Brien aide whose long blond hair flies in the wind as he drives, has snatched early-arrival honors from Redden. Two of his vans, carrying 18 trotters and pacers, were parked outside Hollypark's gates waiting for the stable area to be opened to standardbreds last Thursday.

"And I've got another 20 head that will be on their way out here very soon," said Vallandingham, the 34-year-old horseman who finished third in the driver standings last year, his first at a Western Harness meet.

While Vallandingham is here and his horses are on the grounds, it may be opening night before they get together. Vallandingham suffered a broken arm in a recent Chicago spill and it is likely to be late August before he climbs back in the sulky.

WHITTINGHAM TAILING OFF — Despite enjoying the kind of season that any other trainer would love to have, the 1974 Hollywood Park meeting was a "down" affair for Charlie Whittingham in one category.

The man who has dominated grass racing at Hollypark since the track's turf course was opened in 1967, Whittingham managed "only" 18 wins on the sod in 1974, compared to 24 tallies in '73. And he started 13 more horses during the recently-concluded '74 campaign.

Five of his 18 winners came in stakes competition, but it wasn't until closing day, when Greco 2nd accounted for the Sunset Handicap, that Whittingham nailed a hundred-grander on the lawn.

Whittingham's winning percentage in grass events at Hollypark, covering 639 starters in eight years, nevertheless is quite high — 19.7. It is slightly better — 20.4 — for his stakes starters and more than 50 per cent of his entrants in added-money battles on the Hollypark turf have finished in the money.

AROUND THE OVALS — Considering Caliente is back in operation and that there were four-horse fields in the first two weekend features, Del Mar's 1974 first week must be labeled encouranging. . .Attendance for the first five days averaged 14,131, down slightly from the 14,494 a year ago, but mutuel play, at an average of $1,518,495, was up a little bit when compared to the $1,501,989 for the first five days in 1973. Owner Richard Craigo has shipped his handicap runner Plunk to Saratoga and reports the American Handicap winner will make his next start over the Spa greensward Aug. 9 in the Bernard Baruch Handicap.

Tee to Cup

Sportier courses coming

By PHIL ROCHE
P-B Staff Writer

Valley golfers are indeed fortunate to have several fine, medium-length courses to play. Johnny Miller, U.S. Open champ, said recently golf courses in the future will be shorter, sportier and more fun to play than they are today.

Miller believes that even championship courses will be cut down from 7,000 yard challenges that pros play now. Somehow, golfers seem to equate difficulty with length. A course can be interesting, challenging and above all fun to play.

As one pro said recently, designers who lay out a course of over 7,000 yards should be whipped into playing 36 holes on it every day . . . and no carts allowed.

Marshall Canyon and San Dimas are both fascinating courses, not especially long, but difficult enough. Best score by area pros at San Dimas recently was a 71. Pomona National too has enough curves, doglegs and trees to be enjoyable.

Most courses in the area, however, need more traps for championship status.

Pros and top amateurs in the area are sharpening their games these days in preparation for a lucrative partner's best ball tourney on Sept. 23 and 24 at Valencia Golf Course.

They're giving away $26,300 as the minimum purse at the challenging 7,000 yard course. Entry fee, however, is $200 per player.

The winning twosome will haul down a cash prize of $11,000. It's a two day event.

Valencia is located at 27330 N. Tourney Rd., Valencia, directly opposite Magic Mountain. Information can be obtained by calling (213) 365-9341.

Jack Hoxsey fired a 55 to win low net honors in the July tournament at Palm Lake last weekend. Bill Marsh and Tom Conway finished one shot behind at 56 in the 0-5 handicap division.

Harold Dotts, with a 56, won the second flights (6 and up) and Gene Pester posted a 57 to finish second.

The tournament for this month is scheduled Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 25-26.

A record field of 300 young golfers will tee off Monday at Los Coyotes Country Club in Buena Park on the first day of the two-day Lee Hammil Memorial Tournament.

The tournament is played annually in memory of Lee Hammil, a leukemia victim. Entry fees and donations during the past 15 years have raised $30,000 for Leukemia Research center at USC.

Last year's winner, Tony Campregher, is competing in the alumni division, so a new champ will be crowned.

The 36-hole tournament will be divided into the following groups: alumni boys (18-20), boys (16-17), girls (15-17), boys (14-15), girls (12-14), boys (12-13), and girls and boys (11 and under).

The women's golf clubs of Marshall Canyon and San Dimas recently challenged each other to home-and-home tournaments.

The winning best-ball foursome was Millie Gowans, Angie Morris, Martha Underwood and Freida Ringhoff with a low net of 261. In second place were Kay Carlson, Delayne Lazar, Betty Rex and Helen Hemphill with a low net 262.

In third place were Sandy Duff, Connie Garvey, Marion Johnston and Betty Wootton, net 266.

Closest-to-the-pin contest was won by Beverly Hernson at Marshall Canyon and by Helen Hemphill at San Dimas.

Covina's Chamber of Commerce will holds its sixth annual Covina Open on Wednesday at Los Serranos, North Course. Honored citizens will be Glenn Taylor and Bob McKennett.

Entry fees for golf and the banquet are $17.50. Golf alone is $12.50. Entry blanks are available at the Chamber in Covina.

SHORT SHOTS — The Pro-Am tournament moves Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to Pala Mesa . . . Diamond Bar golfers head for Sandpiper Golf Course today near Santa Barbara . . . Congratulations are in order to Jim Porter of Claremont for his superb victory in the Southern California Amateur last Sunday . . . The fourth annual Dick Whittinghill Celebrity-Amateur Charity tournament is secheduled for Los Alamitos Golf Course next Saturday . . . The 21st Riverside County Men's tournament is slated for Labor Day weekend. It's a 54-hole meet that annually brings together the top players in Riverside County. The Long Beach City is slated that same weekend so Labor Days are really tournament days for golfers.

No modest goals for UCLA coach

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dick Vermeil, the boyishlooking new head UCLA football coach, doesn't believe in setting modest goals for himself.

If you're going to do something, he says, you might as well be the best at it.

"I think we have a chance to win all 11 of our games," he offered. "If that means No. 1 in the nation, that would be great.

"If I had a choice, I'd rather be rated No. 1. I think it adds to the pressure on you but I'm convinced people react better under pressure. I firmly believe low goals mean low success."

At 37, the former Los Angeles Ram assistant is picking up where pepper rodgers left off. Rodgers quit UCLA to return to his alma mater, Georgia Tech, after coaching the Bruin wishbone to 17 wins in 22 games the past two seasons.

Now the Bruins are using a Veer T. Vermeil installed it in the fall.

"I understand one magazine has picked us No. 1 in the Pacific-8," the Bruin mentor said. "Well, that's fine with me. I just want our kids to believe they can win. If the ratings help, I'm all for them.

"Actually, I think ratings—in our conference or in the nation— are usually very accurate. USC (University of Southern California) has been ranked No. 1 in our conference by people time and again. Then they work their way down. How could you go wrong there?

"If a team is put in the top 10, then it usually belongs there. I'm not saying you can say which team is No. 3 or No. 7 but it's a pretty accurate assessment of the top 10."

As Vermeil says, USC has been No. 1 in Pac-8 football. In the past eight seasons, the Trojans have represented the conference six times at the Rose Bowl. UCLA hasn't been in Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's day since 1965. Vermeil must go head-to-head against USC's John McKay.

"John's just a great coach," he said. "Really, it's going to be a thrill competing against him."

Practice for the Bruins is only two weeks away. The players report Aug. 16, have a picture day Aug. 17 and begin workouts Aug. 19.

UCLA's opener against powerful Tennessee has been shifted from the Coliseum here to Knoxville Sept. 7.

"They made the game a little bit tougher by moving it back there but I don't mind and I like the choice of opponents," Vermeil stressed. "I like competing against the best and Tennessee is certainly up there in that category.

"Of course, the Tennessee game is just one of 11 for us but it is my first as a head coach in college and I'd give anything to win it."

Chris Evert, Connors head tourney field

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Wimbledon champions Jimmy Connors and Chris Evert, who plan to be married this fall, head the field for the $130,000 National Clay Courts Tennis tourney opening Monday.

Tourney promoter Stan Malless, newly-elected president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, announced the strongest field ever for the men's singles title, with $16,000 going to the winner.

Besides Connors, the top hopefuls include Romania's Ilie Nastase, two-time winner Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia, teenage sensation Bjorn Borg of Sweden and defending champion Manuel Orantes of Spain.

Miss Evert is the odds-on favorite for the women's title she won the last two years.

While the men will split a purse of $100,000, the women will have to settle for $30,000, with $6,000 going to the winner.

Borg won the Italian, French and Swedish titles earlier this year while Nastase's victories in the last two years included the Italian, French and U.S. titles.

The distaff side also features Gail Chanfreau of France, the winner five years ago; Patti Hogan and Julie Heldman, in addition to members of the British Wightman Cup team.

Still, many other international stars, among them Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals, are passing up the week-long tourney because of the financial advantages offered by team tennis competition.

For the first time since the national tourney was awarded to Indianapolis in the 1960s, it is being staged at the Racquet Club on the city's far northeast side, instead of at the old but plush Woodstock Club. Seven new courts were constructed for this tennis extravaganza, which will also feature night-time play.

Dennis Ralston not smiling about Jimmy Connors topic

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dennis Ralston wasn't shaking his head in dismay. He was only following the path of a tennis ball as it was whacked back and forth across a net.

But he may as well have been dismayed. The subject of his conversation was Jimmy Connors.

And as usual, when the talk gets around to that topic, the coach and captain of the U.S. Davis Cup squad rarely smiles.

"He's a fine player and I think he's entitled to do what he wants," said Ralston thoughtfully as he sat on the sidelines before a World Team Tennis match. "But I'd say he doesn't have any intention of playing.

"I don't feel any great loss."

Ralston, the playing coach of WTT's Hawaii Leis, was talking about his first devotion—Davis Cup.

U.S. Davis Cup fortunes have fallen upon hard times of late. But so far, Ralston has been unable to convince [illegible] to lend his help to the team.

And Ralston says he's through trying. Connors, the Wimbledon champion and America's co-ranked No.1 player, won't be hearing from Ralston this year.

"I want guys who want to play," Ralston declared. "He's certainly not a team-type. I don't feel any pressure to get him on the team. I'm sure he doesn't."

Ralston insists there are no bad feelings between himself and the maverick-minded Connors. But it's also no secret he is puzzled at the elusive stance Connors has taken.

The 21-year-old Connors has said off and on that his earliest ambition was to play Davis Cup. But since 1972 (when he went to Jamaica as an alternate but wasn't used), Connors has rebuffed all of Ralston's efforts to get him on the team.

"I don't know what's the matter with him," Ralston admitted.

The squad could have used Connors' talents in 1973 and 1974.

After five straight Davis Cups under Ralston's guidance, the team lost in the 1973 finals to Australia. A couple months later, the Americans were ousted by Colombia in their opening 1974 match.

It was the poorest U.S. showing in years.

Ralston, who has been unanimously re-appointed to head the team again, has promised an all-out effort to recapture the trophy in 1975 — even without Connors.

Stan Smith (the other half of the No. 1 co-ranking), Arthur Ashe and Tom Gorman have all offered their services. None played in the Colombian match.

"I never predict whether we'll win or lose," said Ralston. "I'm not in the business of predicting. But I feel we will be tough."

Ralston, a boyish looking 31, has been a part of every U.S. Davis Cup team since 1960, except for 1967.

He won't be making any assignments for next year just yet, but not because 1975 is too far away.

Next year's campaign could begin as early as this October. The American draw has already been made and the U.S. has been directed to finish its first three matches by Nov. 18. In order, the squad is schedule to meet the Commonwealth of the Caribbean, Mexico or Canada, Colombia and South Africa.

"We've got to try to change that," Ralston said. "I like the draw. It's good for us. But they don't have it scheduled correctly.

While most of America's top players missed the Colombian match, Ralston said it was unfair to knock them as being uninterested in Davis Cup.

"They were really concerned," said Ralston, who said Smith and Gorman made frequent phone calls to the team in Bogota when they were unable to make the match.

P.C. professor to talk at county Museum of Art

Gerald G. Ackerman, chairman of the Pomona College Art Department, will give an illustrated lecture on French artist Gustave Moreau in the Big Theater of the county Museum of Art, Los Angeles, at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Patrick Brady, professor of French and Italian at Rice University, Houston, Tex., will also lecture on the artist at the same time and place next Sunday.

The lectures are offered in conjunction with the first U.S. retrospective of works by Gustave Moreau, which may be seen in the Museum's Hammer Wing through Sept. 1.

Ackerman will talk on the theme "Where Does Moreau Fit in the History of Art?" He will discuss Moreau in relation to his 19th Century contemporaries, including Courbet, Gerome, and Puvis de Chavannes.

Ackerman received his education at UC Bereley, the University of Munich and Princeton University. His articles on the Renaissance theory of art and on 19th Century artists Jean-Leon Gerome and Thomas Eakins have appeared in such publications as Art News, Art Bulletin, Gazette des Beaux Arts and Archivo de Arte Espanol.

Brady will present an illustrated lecture titled "Salome and the Sphinx." A native of Australia, he studied at St. Columba's College, New South Wales; the University of Sydney, and the University of Paris. Stocks executive predicts vast changes

In 1973, NYSE members collectively lost more than $50 million because of commission shrinkage and rising costs.

So what is DJLJ's strategy— near and long term—to become one of the surviving "Big Six" firms?

"We took a big step on July 15 by re-evaluating our long term securities in present market terms even though the companies were experiencing record earnings," said Jenrette. "That came to about $6 million and caused us our first quarterly loss. But that puts the bad news behind us, clears the decks for realistic action. Now we can concentrate on the future."

The return last month of Dan W. Lufkin, one of the DLJ founders who left the firm three and a half years ago to become commissioner of Connecticut's Environmental Protection agency, is one reason Jenrette is confident of the future.

"Dan has come back as chairman of the board and co-chiefg executive with me," said Jenrette. "He is superb at long range planning, at ferreting out problems and correcting them, at attracting people. I like to think of us as a good tennis doubles team, each one having special skills.

"Dan is good at the backhand and service return, to pursue the tennis analogy. I am good in other areas of the game, like interfacing with the various divisions."

Lufkin, 42, said he went back to DLJ July 15 to "give Dick a hand" and bring new perspective to the operation. "After all, I've been away for more than three years," said Lufkin. "I have to have some new ideas, just being on the outside that long." Lufkin touched on DLJ's strategy for establishing future Street position by noting fundamental changes in Wall Street and saying "it never again will be the same.

"No longer is there an excess of capital. We must look for new and innovative ways to find and attract capital rather than ways to spend or invest it, especially now that the Arabs are sucking money out of our economy."

Aside from the challenge, Lufkin said he returned to the multi-million dollar firm he, Jenrette and William Donaldson created 15 years ago with $100,000 capital because "my name is still on the door."

As he put it, "a lot of the men I brought into the firm still are here. I owe something to them. Besides, I see it as a great chance for social service."

Lufkin explained that by noting that Wall Street often has been referred to as "the blood of the corporate body," the institution that generates and creates the capital business feeds on.

"I feel strongly that business and government must co-exist," Lufkin said. "If the corporate blood dries up, we are on a dangerous course, one that could propel us faster down the road to socialism. That storm, as I see it, is seeding now, and its eye is in the nation's financial sector. I want to help in any way I can."

Lufkin and Jenrette believe that after April, once fixed commissions are dead, a maximum of six or seven firms will evolve and dominate the Street, half of them tending to institutional needs, half to individuals as well as some institutions. They feel that about 100 or 200 smaller firms will survive as "boutique operations with specialized knowledge in very specific areas."

Jenrette noted that DLJ began planning its role in "the new Wall Street" four years ago when Lufkin, then a member of the NYSE board of governors, announced that the firm would go public even though exchange rules forbade such action.

The board, after some bitter debate, subsequently changed the rule to permit such action and DLJ did go public, a move followed by other capital hungry houses on the Street.

"We were the first to go public and that helped open the door to survival in a troublesome period," said Jenrette.

In 1973, DLJ stockpiled more capital by selling 25 per cent of itself to American Express.

But capital wasn't the total answer. It had to be used profitably and consistently. And confidence in the market was dwindling.

Five years ago DLJ had one product line, development of research and institutional sales in common stocks. Today, thanks to another action which was a Street "first," DLJ is a specialized department store of financial services.

Before getting into that position, the firm had to circumvent another NYSE regulation, one which said that more than 50 per cent of a member firm's revenue had to come from securities.

DLJ got around that in May, 1973 by turning itself into a holding company—DLJ, Inc.— and organizing its division under the holding company umbrella. The parent company is not a member of the Exchange. Its Securities Division is.

Today, the parent company has a bond department, the largest real estate department on the Street, a venture capital division, an opinion research organization (Louis Harris and Associates), an investment management arm handling several billions in pension funds, and it continues its traditional securities brokerage activities.

"Now we're trying to attract the talents best suited to the market we see coming up," said Lufkin and Jenrette. "We see a lot of challenges ahead: inflation, high interest rates, lack of confidence in national leadership and public apathy toward the market. And we must face up to each of them. Above all we must provide leadership that will inspire confidence."

Market continues slide downhill

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market spent the week in a position all too familiar to the business and financial-community —on a toboggan.

The prolonged slide sent the Dow Jones industrial average at one point to its lowest level in nearly four years, and dropped it 31.99 points on the week to close at 752.58. On Thursday it closed at 751.10, its lowest since Sept. 22, 1970, when it touched 747.47.

No end seemed to be in sight. Analysts generally were of the impression only some major new turning point—resolution of one or more of the problems plaguing Wall Street, as well as the rest of the country —could halt the slide and bring back a glow to the market.

A far cry from just a few years ago when the Dow cracked the 1,000-barrier and some of the more enthusiastic chart watchers were anticipating a move to the 1,500 level within the foreseeable future.

More than one analyst was of the opinion the market's recovery depended on a settlement of the impeachment proceedings against President Nixon, one way or another. Still, with the house yet to debate and vote on the issue and the possibility of a Senate trial—if there is one—the issue will be with us for months to come.

Aside from the issue as an intrinsic depressant, some suggested it is taking the Nixon Administration's attention away from the battle against inflation.

Eldon Grimm, analyst for Birr, Wilson and Co., said the proceedings before the House Judiciary Committee just ended served as a "psychological depressant" to the market and said the impeachment issue would be "distracting the administration from the fight against inflation for a long time."

Adding to inflationary pressure this week was the rise in commodity prices, which in turn was a reaction to the lack of rain in crop growing areas of the country. Traditionally, commodity prices signal changes in the money market.

Herbert Stein, outgoing chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, offered a view of the inflation issue, depressing to some. He said the administration's estimate of the inflation rate at the end of the year "is higher than it once was although we continue to believe it will be significantly lower than in the first half of the year."

Other developments with a negative impact on the stock market:

—The Commerce Department reported retail sales last week fell 1.€ per cent from the week before.

—The Federal Reserve Board reported business borrowing at 12 major New York city banks in the week ended Wednesday rose $25 million. The week before the loans dipped $239 million.

—The Commerce Department reported that factory orders in June eased 0.2 per cent following a rise of 3.9 per cent the month before.

—The Labor Department reported the unemployement rate in July rose 0.1 point to 5.3 per cent. It had been at 5.2 per cent in the two previous months.

Designed to threaten the financial community was a statement issued jointly by the two top Ford Motor Co. executives —Chairman Henry Ford 2nd and President Lee A. Iacocca.

They predicted U.S. car sales during the coming model year will be "at least 10 million" units—possibly 10.5 million— and that the economy would pick up again next year.

A stabilizing item was the move of First National City Bank of New York in retaining its prime interest rate at 12 per cent.

While the Dow industrial, an indicator of 30 blue chips stocks, fell 31.99 points, the broader-based Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 3.81 to 78.59. Of the 1,944 issues traded, there were 1,483 losers, 272 winners.

Sales totaled 55,549,010 shares, slightly under the 58,801,730 traded the week before.

Most active issue was ESB Corp., with 1,031,500 shares changing hands. The issue closed up 5 ¾ at 41 ¾. International Nickel of Canada announced it has acquired almost 80 per cent of ESB's authorized common shares in a tender offer and extended for another two weeks its $41 a share bid for shares. The offer was to have expired Friday.

Second most active was Sony Corp. off ⅜ to 6 ¼ on 975,800 shares, followed by Avon Products, down 2 x to 29 ¼ on 511,500 shares.

The biggest mover was Fischbach & Moore, down 10 ¼ to 10 ½. The company reported a gain in its nine months net earnings but said it might not have been "what the financial community expected."

Sears, Roebuck slipped 9 ½ to 64 ½, partly on its sales report for the latest four-week period. Sales were up 3.1 per cent but the gain was less than the typical gain in previous periods.

U.S. Steel gave up 2 ¾ to 45 in its mixed group. The company reported a rise in second quarter profits and boosted its quarterly dividend 10 cents to 60 cents a share.

Economist says world has plenty of raw materials

LONDON (UPI) — A study carried out in 1929 by a team of U.S. scientists concluded that the world would run out of tin within a decade.

But 40 years—and considerable tin consumption—later, a similar report indicated that even with vastly increased demand, there still was enough of the metal left to last another 15 years.

That may sound like the story of the loaves and the fishes, but in fact what has happened is that mining companies in the intervening years discovered more tin, while industry found alternates and methods to put the existing supply to better use.

Now University of London economist Wilfred Beckerman says a similar situation exists for virtually all the world's raw materials—which many experts maintain are running out at an alarming rate.

Beckerman argues that conservationists and others who forecast doom for growth economies which require increasing amounts of natural resources are wrong.

"From whatever angle one looks at the anti-growth argument, it appars to be riddled with glaring fallacies and oversimplifications," he said.

Beckerman makes his case in a book called "In Defense of Growth," published recently in London.

He said that throughout history shortages of raw materials have been predicted, but that better technology plus the discovery of new reserves always has permitted supply "more or less" to keep up with demand.

When supply falls behind, prices rise, "thereby stimulating further the search for new supplies or the development of substitutes or improved technologies."

Tin is one example. Copper is another.

At the end of World War II, Beckerman said, international copper reserves were estimated to be 100 million tons. Since then the annual rate of consumption has tripled and the world has used up a total of approximately 93 million tons.

"In fact, we now have about 300 million tons left," he said.

Most recently opponents of constant growth have raised the oil crisis following the 1973 Middle East war as an example of how raw materials are bound to run out sooner or later if growth is not curtailed.

"But the oil crisis proves nothing of the kind," Beckerman said.

According to the economist, the increase in oil prices was simply the result of Arab nations banding together to form a cartel.

"Furthermore, various reactions to the rise in the oil price —notably increased exploration and discovery of enormous new oil reserves in many parts of the world and increased attention to near substitutes— demonstrate the fallacy in this particular argument," he said.

The debate or whether to continue using raw materials to supply growth economies simply detracts from the real issue-which is allocation of resources, Beckerman said.

"Even if economic growth does not necessarily make mankind happier, it does increase his range of choice, and he can choose wisely or not," he said.

I'm glad school is out because you don't have to worry about getting up early and you could sleep late and watch T.V. But then I'm not glad because you miss all your friends. And when you stay home your Mom puts you to work.

Becky Rodriguez
Age 11
Pomona

Yes because now I can stay up as late as I want. Since school is out I can start building my under ground fort. My under ground fort is going to fit three people. I am going to start moving lawns to make my self some money. I could do stuff for my grandmother to get money from her if she give me the money. When my dog has her puppies I could play with them all day. Last time she had puppies I couldn't play with them all day because I had to go to school. Some day this summer I am going with my dad to see the horses he bought us and learn to ride them with my dad. And that would be a lot of fun and a busy summer. We will go on a lot of Vacations too. Next summer if we pass from school my grandmother is going to bring us to Knotts Berry Farm. I will try very hard to pass.

Gary Courville
Pomona

I'm glad school is out because now I can stay up late and watch our color television. I'll also be able to go camping in the mountains. I'll help my dad now with the lawn and trim the edges. I can help my mother wash the dishes and water the garden to get allowance and buy things. I can do some experiments with some things around the house. I can invite my friends over and we can play with my walkie-talkies and spy on people.

David Rhee
Pomona

Yes . . . I'm glad summer school, is out because I don't feel like doing anymore reading or math and the Laurle and Hardey movies aren't very funny to me. And the free lunch is OK but I eat it because it's free.

Tracy Kim Ricks
Age 10
Pomona

I am not really glad school is out because I miss some of my friends. But when I am in school I wish it was summer and sometimes I talk and laugh and I have fun with everyone.

Gilbert Ramos
Age 11
Pomona

No because I miss all the teachers and homework and there's nothing to do around the house.

Soap and brush:

Scrub house for that fresh look

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) — A good scrubbing can give your house a freshly painted look without the expense of a paint job.

The tools are basically the same ones you use to wash your car: a long-handled car scrub brush attached to your garden hose. With these and a detergent and water solution, you can remove airborne soot, dirt and all but the most stubborn spots, says the Soap and Detergent Association.

The other tools you will need are a ladder, a flat hand scrub brush, a bucket, and steel wool or sandpaper.

Work from the bottom up. Dirty water should run onto a wet clean surface, to prevent dirt streaks setting on a dry, unwashed area.

Using the hose, flush away as much of the loose dirt and grime as you can with a strong jet of water.

Attach the car brush, dip it into to the detergent solution and scrub the remaining dirt. If your house is finished with striated shingles, use the flat brush to remove grit from grooves between them. Rinse each section thoroughly before you start on the next.

Stubborn stains should be scrubbed directly with a solution of three tablespoons of trisodium phosphate per gallon of water. This cleaning solution is sold in hardware and paint stores. Scrub only until the stain loosens and then rinse.

If the stain is actually mildew, a stronger solution is necessary: three tablespoons of trisodium phosphate plus one and a half cups of household bleach per gallon of water. Again, scrub only until the stain loosens. Be sure to rinse immediately and thoroughly to prevent spotting.

If the wash job reveals worn spots, touch them up with paint and blend it in by rubbing lightly with sandpaper or steel wool.

To give the house a newly-painted look, repaint the doors, shutters, gutters and trim.

Even if you decide a full paint job is necessary, your time and effort have not been wasted. A clean surface is essential for new paint to be applied properly.

The association also has money-saving suggestions for the family that wants a second bathroom but cannot afford it in terms of either budget or space.

Compartmenting is ideal for a bathroom with heavy traffic patterns. More than one person can use the room at one time if you use either permanent walls or room dividers to separate the main fixtures or to partition off the toilet and tub or stall shower from the washbasin.

Pocket doors that slide into a wall are handy both for partitioning and for giving entrance to an adjoining bedroom.

Other space savers include tubs that are shorter than standard size or shape, circular shower stalls, cabinets and shelves built into hollow wall space, tiered and swing-arm towel rings and racks and washbasins in odd sizes. Some even are designed to fit into corners. If your family is a large one, consider a double

Ecology, simplicity stand out in prize-winning homes

By DOROTHEA BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI)— Most of us never will live in an awardwinning home, but it is interesting, nevertheless, to take a look at these special houses, to day dream, gather a few ideas, perhaps even to say: "You couldn't give it to me."

Architectural Records recently presented its 1974 "Record Houses" — the 19th year of awards for "the best in contemporary houses."

The winners range from a home built into a hill in Lyme, N.H. with wildflowers growing on the sod roof to camouflage the structure, to a turn of the century carriage house renovated at a cost of $85,000.

Cost was not a criterion in the selections, however. Architect Wendell Lovett built his award-winning vacation retreat on Crane Island in Puget Sound for about $15,000. The house, only 12 feet wide, contains just 370 square feet. One secret: "there is no wasted motion in the design and hardly a space or element that is not put to multiple use."

Hallmarks of the 1974 homes generally are unpretentious elegance, large, uncluttered space and a concern for ecology. Simplicity, of design and upkeep, are paramount, reflected in a predominance of natural materials, wide use of built-in furniture, including such traditional items as beds and couches.

Herbert Smith, managing editor of Architectural Record and a member of the awards jury, said design reflects the virtual disappearance of servants and the new concept of woman's role in the home. "More provision has been made for the wife to do things outside the kitchen, and maybe away from the children," he said.

The Engle residence in Boxboro, Mass., for example, was designed by Robert Whitton using simple wood painted white to achieve a sculptured effect, echoing a 1930's style, but in contemporary terms. Like the other homes, the house is built with its site in mind; windows give full view of the changing seasons.

The idea of bringing the outside in, reflected a few years ago in the "picture window," seems to have given way to designs which concentrate on inside space. The result is dramatic ceilings sweeping up more than a story; catwalks bridging the levels reached by circular staircases.

The designs also look toward combining the desirability for family togetherness with the need for individual privacy. The Rovida residence in Elizabeth Township, Pa., designed by architect Tasso G. Katselas, for example, provides a separate apartment, with outside entrance, for the owner's college age daughter. In the Horton house designed by architect Eliot Noyes in Greenwich, Conn., the family room is placed across a courtyard from the kitchen —precisely opposite the trend of a few years ago for the family room and kitchen to blend into one space.

"People no longer want to see the mess in the kitchen when they're eating," Smith said, reflecting what he sees as a new accent on elegance without the stiff formality that elegance implied a generation ago when it last was in vogue.

In most of the houses, there is a new emphasis on space and usefulness, with a corresponding decline of emphasis on form. Most of the houses appear from the outside as an amalgam of geometric shapes —triangles, squares, rectangles and cylinders."

Ecology was a theme reflected in the 1974 houses. The energy crisis is not reflected specifically in any of the homes — indeed, many of the vast window and interior spaces could add to costs of heating and cooling. However, there is obvious climatic concern in the design. In the Winston house in Lyme, N.H., designer Don Metz says winter solar gain is sufficient on sunny days to keep temperatures in the house up to 70 degrees while outside temperatures are as low as zero. In summer, when the thermal process is reversed, the insulating mantle of earth on the roof keeps the house pleasantly cool.

Each of the houses shows careful attention to placement. There are no wide lawns in front to show off the magnificence of the facade. The houses often have modest exteriors and are more likely to be hidden away.

The thing which draws the attention to each of the homes, whether or not it's a house to your taste, is its obvious individuality. Each is imaginative and clearly designed as a solution to the owner's needs and desires.

Planning a new home is a philosophical exercise

By HIAWATHA ESTES

Planning a new home involves more than merely designing a handsome residence. In some instances it becomes something of a philosophy, in that it combines a way of living for the people that will inhabit the house, with an esthetic accomplishment.

The planning stage of your home is the best time to provide for the comforts you will want in the years to come. It is also the economical time to make such provisions. This is why we have included very generous size rooms in this home. The additional square footage cost involved when enlarging room sizes prior to construction is very moderate.

From the wide entry, there is excellent traffic circulation throughout the house. There are no offsets in the thirty foot wide living-dining room so that one can utilize as much space as they desire for each area.

Although both rooms are larger than usual, the family room and kitchen visually appear even larger as only a partial wall separates the two. This well organized kitchen does not have one inefficient corner cabinet. It features an unusual amount of cabinets including a pantry. Cabinets have been arranged so that traffic does not have to be routed through the huge nook.

The stone and wood siding utilized in the design of the front elevation compliment each other to provide a striking contemporary exterior.

This same basic exterior plus a Rustic exterior are also available in a three bedroom plan, at a different price structure, and are illustrated in our book, Hallmark Homes.

Complete working drawings for plan 41088 can be purchased for only $12.67 for the first set and $6.36 for each additional set ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these special prices until Nov. 7. Please allow two to three weeks for delivery. A specification booklet is available for $1.06. A large reproduction rendering of the exterior is available for $1.06.

The following home plan books are also available: Distinctive Homes — 1.33; Prize Homes—$1.33; Hallmark Homes—$1.33; Town & Country Homes—$1.33; Homes by Hiawatha—$1.33; Ranch & Modern Homes—$2.12. All six books—an $8.77 value—for only $6.89. Orders for less than three bcooks, please add an extra 20c per book for postage and handling. Prices include sales tax. Send all orders to: Hiawatha Estes, P.O. Box 404-PC, Northridge, California 91324.

Country Club homes provide wide view of hills, fairways

Buyers of homes at the Country Club Hills development are offered sites that overlook the fairways of the Pomona National Golf Course, rolling hills of Walnut and the San Bernardino Mountains.

The three and four bedroom homes are priced from $50,000 to $75,000 with conventional financing available. The First Los Angeles Corp. is the builder and developer.

Buyers are offered five floor plans in one and two story elevations. The homes have up to 2,600 square feet of floor space.

Early buyers have the advantage of selecting the home sites, floor plans and interior color schemes during the pre-opening sale.

The homes feature kitchens with luminous ceilings and ceramic tile countertops and such built-in appliances as ranges with hoods, ovens, dishwashers, disposals, waste compactors and handcrafted cupboards.

The country estate homes, with air conditioning, have two and three bathrooms, raised tile entries, designer fireplaces in most plans, separate family rooms and spacious master suites. They also have step-up front porches, tile roofs, and wall-to-wall shag carpeting.

Two car garages are attached to the dwellings and lots are large enough for swimming pools.

New housing project has repeat "opening"

The grand opening of Lewis Homes' Upland Classic Series residential development will be repeated today.

"Last Sunday's turnout, which made it difficult for our sales staff to give individual attention to each visitor, seemed to call for an encore," said Edward J. Lynch, regional sales manager.

The homes are located on 14th Street, a block west of Mountain Avenue. These are priced from $34,550 with VA financing available at 7¾ths per cent interest rate. Also offered are Cal Vet loans with 4¾ths per cent rates plus conventional terms.

The houses, with up to 1,857 square feet of floor space, feature wood burning fireplaces constructed in stone motifs, garden kitchens and cedar shake roofs. Some homes have cathedral ceilings, eating bars and built-in homemaker desks.

The development's sales office is open daily and also evenings by appointment.

FINE HOMES BY KAUFMAN AND BROAD

Soviet wheat loss adds to world's food crisis

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Norman E. Borlaug, Nobel Prize-winning scientist who has spent 30 years helping improve world food supplies, said that he has unconfirmed reports of extensive winter kill to Russia's wheat crop.

"If these reports are true, it will add to the dilemma of the world food crisis," he said.

Borlaug spoke at a news conference before joining a panel on the world food crisis at the Midwestern Governors Conference.

A graduate of the University of Minnesota, Borlaug said he collected reports on Russia's wheat crop during the last five months while working in Asian countries.

"It is very hard to get accurate crop reports out of Russia and China because of their government-controlled economies," he said.

Borlaug painted a bleak picture of the world food situation, saying that grain reserves were now down to a 27-day supply.

"This means we are on pretty thin ice," he said.

He said there were discouraging reports on Canada's wheat crop, and drought has hurt crop prospects in parts of the United States.

Borlaug said there was a need for all nations in the world to join in building up grain reserves, adding that this responsibility should not fall alone to the main exporting nations — the United States, Canada and Australia.

Also he said there was an urgent need to increase the production of fertilizer.

"We need 27 million more tons a year just to keep up with the growing population," he said.

Nuclear vote requested

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has passed legislation making any transfer of nuclear materials or technology to a foreign nation subject to congressional approval.

The language substituted for a Joint Atomic Energy Committee provision which would have given Congress 60 days to veto any nuclear agreement with another country.

Crime hike blamed on population rise

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — The rising population has been blamed for the 17 per cent increase in felony crimes and the 22 per cent boost in misdemeanors in unincorporated areas of the county.

The figures were released recently by Sheriff Frank Bland for the nation's largest sized county.

Wooden sticks might hold key to reduce tooth decay

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — About 90 per cent of all Americans have some tooth decay. In some African areas the figure is as low as 15 per cent.

What could do a better job of shielding American children and adults from tooth decay than is being done by the best toothpastes modern science has to offer.

A team of researchers at Washington University here thinks the answer may be hidden in wooden chewing sticks, widely used in Africa for cleaning teeth.

The team, headed by Dr. Memory Elvin-Lewis, associate professor and chairman of the department of dental microbiology, has done preliminary research that indicates the antidecay substances, known as anticariogenics, are found in the wooden sticks.

The sticks are taken from more than 100 varieties of African plants but they most commonly come from plants in the citrus, ebony and coffee families.

Africans using the pencil-sized sticks bite them with the tips of the molars, twisting and turning them as they chew on them thoroughly. The end of the stick becomes frayed, and the brushlike area is then used to clean the teeth. The stick is vigorously moved over the surfaces of the teeth, and then is often sucked on for hours afterward.

Some companies in England and India are now using extracts from the sticks in commercial toothpaste, but Mrs. Elvin-Lewis said that the exact chemical substances being released to fight tooth decay have not yet been isolated.

To find out, she and her botanist husband, Dr. Walter H. Lewis, along with a team consisting of anthropologists and others, are seeking a grant to go to Ghana and study in more depth the chewing sticks. She hopes to find out how they work before more "modern" methods of preventing tooth decay are introduced and obscure the natural potency of the sticks.

"Our survey would be designed to establish the effect of the sticks on dental hygiene," she said. "We want to see if there is a direct relationship between low decay and the sticks or whether the soil and water in a particular area are also involved."

Because direct use of the sticks helps the teeth but harms the gums, Mrs. Elvin-Lewis said the anticariogenic substances could be extracted from the sticks and put to use in more conventional methods of dental hygiene.

"It's like doing flouride research backwards," she said. "Instead of taking a substance and seeing if it works to prevent decay, we want to see if whatever is in these chewing sticks that prevents decay can be extracted for use in the best possible form."

Whatever is working in the sticks is similar to flouride, she said, but probably is something more than flouride. She says flouride is effective, but there is a need for something else.

"There are vast parts of the world that absolutely refuse to use flouride," she said. "This offers a natural alternative."

Dr. Elvin-Lewis says she has to get to Africa soon to conduct her tests —before the introduction of refined foods and modern medicine destroy the effects of the ancient practice.

NATURAL BRIDGE

Some bridges are for tourists. Most bridges built by men are to bring people together and ease the flow of goods.

That's how the Progress-Bulletin fits in, too.

Our main role, of course, is to help bridge the public information gap. Facts, Analysis, Opinion. We take that part of our job as a public trust. It has to be the first task of any serious newspaper.

But another vital role of the Progress-Bulletin is to bring sellers and buyers together.

Each day, hundreds, often thousands, of local buyers find their way to local bargains by first checking through our columns of display and classified ads.

If you're a tourist, we suggest the natural bridges country of Utah, Virginia, Washington or Wyoming for an outing. But if you are a citizen in need of information, a buyer in search of a bargain, or a seller looking for an audience, we suggest the Progress-Bulletin as the natural bridge around the Pomona Valley Area for bringing people and information together and easing the flow of goods.

AND . . . OUR TOLL IS LOW, TOO

No matter which kind of traffic you may have in mind . . . whether you want to reach someone with a bargain, or someplace for the news . . . you'll find our "toll" is low. A dime will open the way at any newsstand. Or, better yet, $3.00 for the Progress-Bulletin by the month. Just fill in the subscription blank found below on this page, and send it in.

Advertisers of course, pay by the column inch according to the message load.

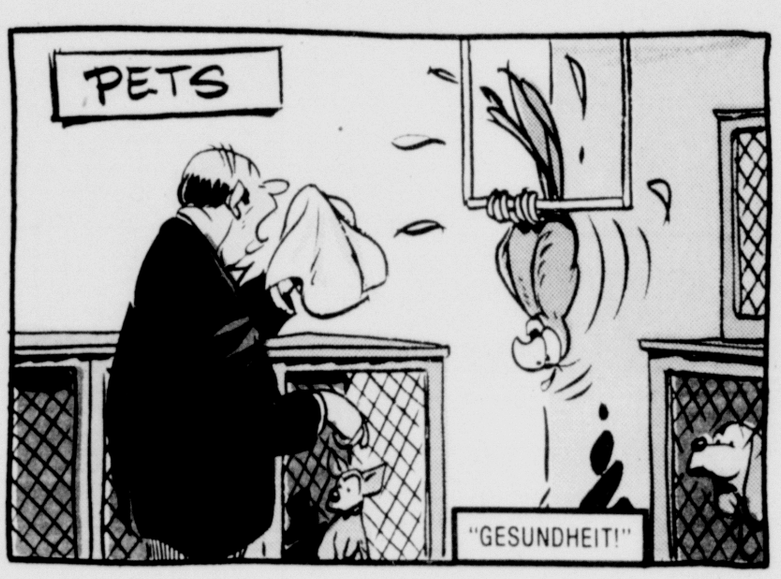
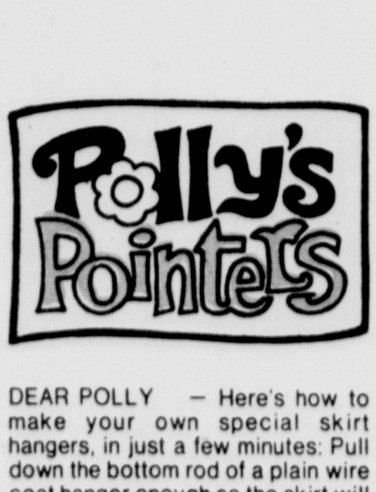
"I HAVEN'T TIME TO HELP YOU GET YOUR FOOT OUTA THERE... I GOTTA GET OVER TO FRED'S AND SEE IF THEY SCORED!"





DEAR POLLY — Here's how to make your own special skirt hangers, in just a few minutes: Pull down the bottom rod of a plain wire coat hanger enough so the skirt will not stretch out of shape, but not too much or it will slip off. Make sure buttons and zippers are fastened so the skirt stays on securely. — MARY D.

DEAR POLLY — I wipe my grater with salad oil before grating cheese. This keeps the cheese from sticking and makes the grater easier to wash. — RHONDA.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, % this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — I use a mist-type sprayer for spraying my house plants. The bird cage hangs above them, so one day the birds got a quick swish, too, and really seemed to enjoy it. Now I use the "mister" on my two canaries when I do not have time to use the plastic bird baths. They are not at all frightened. This is quick and easy. — MRS. J.C.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for African violet lovers. Leave your violets in the bathroom when taking a shower. The humidity gives the room a junglelike atmosphere and droopy plants often perk up in a few hours. — BS.

DEAR POLLY — To save wear and tear on my new electric blanket, I lined it with a sheet. I placed it so the top edge turned over the top of the blanket for about 10 inches. It's held in place with three large safety pins in the border. This keeps the edge of the blanket clean and relieves the stress on the wiring in the blanket as the sheet gets the "pull." — VIRGINIA.

DEAR POLLY — My new dining table is oval when the leaf is up. All my tablecloths are rectangular. I cut a long, white one into an oval shape that would look well on the table and hang down about six inches all around. My husband suggested that I use a skirt marker to mark the correct length. The rectangular cloth was put on the table and I went around marking it just as one does a hem, quick and easy. — MRS. W.S.

DEAR POLLY - Before cutting baby's fingernails put a bit of talcum powder on the palm of your hand and draw his fingers through it. Once the tips of the nails fill with powder it is easy to see where to cut the nails. — MARY JANE.

DEAR POLLY — Dust, lint and hairs on the sweeper brush can be partially removed by brushing it across the sweeper hose, but I find it quicker and easier to use a small hair comb. I keep one in the bag with my sweeper attachments. — CAROL.

How your Horoscope can bring you wealth, love, success and happiness.

Astrology Today
PRESENTED BY THE INTERNATIONAL ASTROLOGICAL ASSOCIATION
"The World's Largest Astrological Association"

by NORMAN P. KENNEDY

Did you know your horoscope could mean the difference between happiness or sorrow; between success or failure?

Picture a long room with doors at each end. In this room there is money, attractive persons of the opposite sex, books that tell you the secret of happiness and many other valuable articles. But, also in this room are bottomless pits, traps, hostile persons and dangerous beasts chained in various places around the room. You must walk through this room, but you may take out of it anything you can.

Now if you had a choice, would you choose to 1) go through the room blindfolded or 2) go through the room with your eyes open and with written instructions on which places an and people to visit or avoid.

Of course, all of us would pick the second choice in a case such as this. Isn't it ridiculous, then, that we would choose to go thru life, the same situation, blindfolded! Even when there is a means to go thru life with a map and our eyes wide open! The means provided is Astrology. The map is our astrological horoscope.

How does it work? Nature's cosmos imprints each of us at the time of birth - when the umbilical cord is cut. We then become ourselves. Until the cord is cut, we are part of our mother. Why or how we presently do not know. The movement of the large solar bodies then times potentials for events in our lives. Astrology does not cause events but is timing of events. But, it's not fortune telling. It's a prediction of potentials which free will can override.

Here is a common misconception about astrology. Some people say, "how can stars millions of light years away be related to our lives." The error here is the word stars. Astrology deals with the relationship of our lives with the sun, moon, and planets–not stars.

And, anyone who doesn't think that the sun, moon, and planets do not regulate earth and its inhabitants, had better think again. We all know how the moon controls the tides. We have all heard of the famous clam experiments where the clams open and close by the cycle of the moon, sun, and planets. Police departments and insurance companies show exact relations with crime and violence with cycles of the moon, sun and planets. Doctors are finding direct relationships with successful operations and the cycle of the solar bodies. Authenticated research is now proving that astrology can predict natural disasters, wars, diseases a person will suffer, personalities of people and much more.

What does a natal horoscope analysis by a qualified astrologer contain? A natal horoscope analysis contains the best psychological analysis of yourself that you can get today. Because, in a controlled experiment in 1960, astrologers beat psychologists in predicting case histories.

In addition, a natal horoscope analysis includes discussions on the following: financial outlook; taxes and inheritances; early home environment; relationships with family; relatives and parents; lovelife and marriage; children; career and occupation; hopes; wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. In a major analysis, a one year forecast is also included.

Many people think that astrology only appeals to "way out" unscientific people. Nothing could be farther from the truth. In fact, studies show that astrology appeals most to intelligent and logical people.

Consider these famous scientists: Galileo-astronomer, Carl Jung-psychologist, Johannes Kepler-astronomer, Roger Bacon-mathemetician, Tycho Bache-astronomer. Want to know what they all had in common? They all were astrologers themselves or used astrology in their work. Even Albert Einstein was impressed by the accuracy of astrology when he studied it in his late years.

Astrology appeals to people in every walk of life. A horoscope has meant the difference between success and disaster for famous people throughout history. Your horoscope can mean the same to you.

Your horoscope can help you be in the right place at the right time.

Did you know that the three wise men who found the Christ Child were astrologers? The "large star" which guided them to the Christ Child was really a cluster of cosmic bodies which were, as predicted by astrological charts, in line at that particular time. This was the reason it was so bright. This alignment of bodies allowed the wise men to know the time and place of the birth of Christ. Also, Christ chose His 12 apostles according to the 12 astrological signs.

Your horoscope can help you avoid disasters while guiding you to your beneficial opportunities.

Did you know that astrology helped the allies win W.W. II? The allies employed astrologers. The axis powers started out employing astrologers. But, this was ceased early when the famous astrologer, Karl Ernst Krafft, predicted the exact time and place of an attempt on Hitler's life in 1939. Hitler thought the astrologers were conspiring against him, so they were imprisoned.

This proved to be a tragic decision for Hitler. A decision that may have altered the course of the war. Because, if Hitler had studied his horoscope, he would have used different strategy. Why? Because two horoscopes, one of Adolf Hitler, drawn by two different astrologers, in two different countries, at two different times exactly predicted the course of W.W. II.

Hitler did get to see these horoscopes . . . . too late. He read them in the last hours of the war as Berlin burned around him. The following is an authentic account of the incident.

> "They sent for two horoscopes, which were kept in the files of one of Himmler's multitudinous "research" offices. One was the horoscope of the Fuehrer drawn up on January 30, 1933, the day he took office; the other was the horoscope of the Weimer Republic, composed by some unknown astrologer on November 9, 1918, the day of the Republic's birth. Goebbles communicated the results of the re-examination of these two remarkable documents to Krosigk.
> An amazing fact has become evident, both horoscopes predicted the outbreak of the war in 1939, the victories until 1941, and the subsequent series of reversals, with the hardest blows during the first months of 1945, particularly during the first half of April.* In the second half of April, we were to experience a temporary success. Then there would be stagnation until August and peace that same month. For the following three years, Germany would have a hard time, but starting in 1948, she would rise again."
> *Hitler committed suicide in April, 1945.

On the other hand, astrologers aided the allies in forecasting the axies moves. The most famous astrologer, Louis de Wohl, employed by British government, predicted the exact events leading to the downfall of Mussolini. He gained the faith of the American military when he predicted Pearl Harbor a year before it happened.

It is estimated that over 90% of rich and famous people use astrologers. This includes political leaders, film stars, businessmen and scientists. Natal horoscopes of Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier (pictured above) predicted their famous marriage. They both came to America recently to have their current horoscopes done by astrologer Keith Clayton.

More on avoiding disaster, came these stories from a recent article in the Miami Herald newspaper. The article tells the story of Mary Kelly, a Miami computer programmer, who heeded the advice of her horoscope which warned her of a wrong medical diagnosis. She avoided an unnecessary operation that would have left her a cripple.

Your horoscope can help you understand yourself.

Dr. Ralph Matzner, a psychologist attached to Stanford University's counseling and testing center frequently uses astrology as an adjunct to psychology and psychiatry, not because it's truer, but because "it is much more complex and sophisticated than many present psychological maps or systems."

Your horoscope can bring you wealth. Famous business tycoon J. P. Morgan, used astrology to acquire his fortune. Morgan did not make a financial move without checking his natal horoscope forecast.

From the article in the Miami Herald come these stories:

> –Stockbrokers on Wall Street are as likely to call an astrologer in this decade as Hollywood film stars would call a psychiatrist in the last. David Williams, a 75-year-old retired financial expert who lives in Clearwater, has made $150,000 from the stock market in 13 years by using astrology as an investment guide.

Your horoscope can show you the way to success and happiness in love and marriage. Horoscopes of Grace Kelly and Jackie Kennedy predicted their current successful marriages. Grace Kelly to Prince Rainier of Monaco and Jackie Kennedy to Aristotle Onassis, Greek multi-millionaire.

Is a natal horoscope analysis a good investment?

By knowing how to advance your career or making a correct financial decision, you would get back your investment thousands of times. Success in the areas of lovelife, marriage, children relationship and peer relationship is of infinite value. Knowing what future potentials to take advantage of and which ones to avoid can offer a priceless feeling of security.

Now and through the ages a good natal horoscope analysis has meant success for many people. In other cases many men have missed their opportunity; some with tragic consequences, such as Adolf Hitler.

Will you miss your success opportunities? Will you stumble into pitfalls you could have avoided?

Today, right this moment, you can have your natal horoscope cast and analyzed. You can get it for only the cost to make your duplicate copy. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process–FREE. The article below will tell you how. The means are available, but the choice is yours.

HOW TO GET YOUR PERSONAL NATAL HOROSCOPE, FOR WHICH ASTROLOGERS CHARGE $300.00, FOR ONLY A DUPLICATING COST TO MAKE YOUR COPY

by John F. Ford.

Send me your exact time and place of birth. I'll cast and analyze your natal horoscope for research purposes. You may have duplicate copies of your horoscope for only $3.00–the cost to make your copies plus postage and handling costs. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process–FREE, because of the fact that we must produce your horoscope for research anyhow.

Your natal horoscope will consist of nine pages and over 3,000 words. Your natal horoscope will contain your psychological analysis plus a discussion of the following: your lovelife; financial outlook; marriage, family and children relationships; career and occupations; hopes, wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. A horoscope of this type would cost up to $300 if done by an astrologer.

I will cast your horoscope with the help of our 360 - 65 I.B.M. computer, which contains over 24 million bits of information. Your horoscope will not be the general kind found in paperbacks. Your natal horoscope will be cast from your exact time and place of birth for you and you alone.

THERE'S ABSOLUTELY NO CATCH. I need this information for my astrological research. I am looking for certain planet configurations. If you are chosen as a research subject, I will mail to you a research questionnaire. If you fill out and return this questionnaire, you will be entitled to extra bonuses.

There is no need to worry about finding out about an unavoidable coming disaster thru your chart. As mentioned, astrology deals in potentials. Your free will can override potentials if you know about them. In any case, the policy of qualified astrologers is positive astrology. If there is something negative in your chart, you are told what you can do to make it positive.

To get your horoscope thru this special opportunity, simply fill out the research computer form to the right and mail to the address given on the form. Include the $3.00 copy cost for each horoscope or charge your credit card. There is a limit of two per family. If you don't know your exact time of birth, fill in 12:00 PM.

This research ad has run in just about every newspaper in the country. It has also run in the leading newspaper Sunday supplement magazines–PARADE, FAMILY WEEKLY, SUNDAY,–with total circulation of over 50 million. In addition it has also run in leading magazines such as LADIES HOME JOURNAL, McCALLS, etc. The response has been tremendous. Therefore, we have been able to acquire a great amount of new research knowledge that will someday help mankind.

If you have any questions, call me, John F. Ford, president, The International Astrological Association, at (216) 494-4282. Thank you!

NBC's Saturday Night Double Feature Movie (Aug. 10, 8PM) features two repeat pilot programs that will air as new series this fall on the Network. "Night Games," stars Barry Newman as "Petrocelli" (the new title of the fall series), a Harvard-educated lawyer who decides to escape urban living for a law practice in a southwestern cattle town. His first case in San Remo is to defend a socialite in a controversial homicide case. She's accused of killing her husband. "Movin' On," (title will stay the same for the fall series) stars Claude Akins as a middle-aged, free-lance trucking contractor who chooses a young, Harvard law school graduate as his partner (Frank Converse). They accept an assignment no one else will take—to deliver a farmer's orange crop to market. The farmer is the only land owner who refuses to sell to an amusement park developer who's offering bonuses to all the farmers in the valley if the entire valley sells out.

'TODAY'S WOMAN'

Barbara Walters, one of television's most popular personalities and reportedly its highest-paid woman, has been described variously by national publications in recent weeks as "Star of the Morning," "The Queen of TV News," "Television's Queen" and—more simply—as "Today's Woman." And this year a national magazine (Ladies Home Journal) named her broadcasting "Woman of the Year." For 13 years, Barbara Walters has been working her way up on the NBC "Today" program and now, as its permanent co-host, she is, undoubtedly, "Television's Queen."

She hosts not only "Today" but her syndicated five-times-weekly "Not for Women Only" television show, which features controversial panels on such topics as acupuncture, sexual dysfunction, women's liberation, dangerous cosmetics, political kidnappings. And she has sat in more than once for host Johnny Carson on the Tonight show.

Under her incisive interrogation, many a "Today" interview has made headlines. Among the most memorable of her exclusive interviews on that program were those with Britain's Prince Philip, President Nixon, Mrs. Nixon, Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower, Henry Kissinger, Dean Rusk, Robert Kennedy, and H. R. Haldeman (when he was Assistant to President Nixon). On "Today," she has proved that a woman on television can be a probing reporter, an outspoken interviewer, and a skillful writer without sacrificing her femininity.

Miss Walters has been with "Today" since 1961. At first she was on the program's staff of writers, making occasional on-camera appearances as she wrote and reported on special features. In 1963, she became a full-time on-the-air personality, the first behind-the-scenes writer on "Today" to make the transition. She has been rocketing around the world for "Today" since 1964. Important assignments have taken her to Persepolis, in Iran, to report on the country's 250th anniversary celebration and to film an exclusive interview with the Shah of Iran and the Empress Farah in 1971, and to Wales to report on the Investiture of Prince Charles of England as Prince of Wales. Perhaps Miss Walters's most challenging assignment came in February, 1972, when she was part of the NBC News team that traveled to the People's Republic of China to cover President Nixon's eight-day visit.

Besides doing interviews with prominent figures, Miss Walters has filmed many special reports ranging from a day in the life of a Playboy bunny to a sensitive account of the problems of the mentally retarded adult. She also has taken TV viewers, in filmed reports, into the cloistered quarters of Maryknoll nuns and the enclosed world of a female reform school. And she has found time to write a book which has been used in courses in several colleges and universities: "How to Talk with Practically Anybody about Practically Anything," published first in hardcover and later in paperback.

Barbara Walters was born in Boston. She is a graduate of Sarah Lawrence College, which she terms a "very small, Eastern, and, at the time I graduated, all-female college. . . . I can only describe it as the kind of school that, whenever I say that I went there, someone always mutters, 'It figures.' To this day, I haven't decided whether that's an insult or a compliment." Soon after graduation she began working in television. In April, 1961, she moved from CBS-TV's "Good Morning" to the NBC-TV Network. She was named permanent co-host of "Today" in April.

Miss Walters has worked almost continuously since graduation from college. She is also married, though now is separated from her husband, and she has a young daughter. She has been eminently successful in her career in a time when the whole role of women is under minute investigation.

"If I have one complaint about women's liberation," she says, "It is that it has given the women who want to stay at home an inferiority complex. . . . I know a lot of very dull, unrewarding jobs, and a lot of dull, unrewarded women who work."

CELEBRITIES TALK ABOUT DIVORCE:

Below, Bob Wagner and Natalie Wood, Who Divorced And Then Remarried, With Their New Baby, Courtney Brooke

Is Our Rootlessness Warping Our Society? –By Vance Packard

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SEN. ROMAN HRUSKA, (R-Neb.)

Why are you in favor of the death penalty?—M. R. P., Easton, Pa.

● I have heard all the arguments. I have heard witnesses testify about the permanence of the penalty and the degrading impact it has upon the consciences and feelings of the reading public. I have heard the witnesses testify right down the long list of horrible mental and moral feelings that are engendered. But the answer to these arguments in every instance is that the permanence of death is just as great for the victim or the many victims. The same debasement of the human spirit and of the human soul results from reading about the cold-blooded murder of one person or 27 people or 11 people or five people. This is also a degrading proposition. There is a way of avoiding the death penalty, and that is to obey the Commandment that says, "Thou shalt not kill."

FOR JACK LORD

How much longer do you think "Hawaii Five-O" will continue?—Amos Litweng, Miami, Fla.

● From a business point of view we have 144 shows ready for syndication. We're in our eighth year now and I think after we complete it, it would be a good time to rest. I work 12 hours a day, eight months a year. There is so little time to pause and reflect. I feel I want to regroup, think through what I really want to do with the rest of my life. I've met my challenge as an actor. There are other things to do.

FOR MARY TYLER MOORE

Were you on the radio or in movies before television?—Ed Johnson, Los Angeles, Calif.

● My first job in show business was as a dancer in television commercials; then I was a dancer on TV variety shows; then I went into acting in series and my first regular role was in "The Dick Van Dyke Show." I then did some movies that I didn't like, and now I'm doing just what I like: filmed television with a live audience.

FOR CAROL BURNETT

Can you please explain your method of dieting? —Desiree Dixon, Muncie, Ind.

● I eat sparingly during the week, when I'm rehearsing, because I think I feel better and can do the physical comedy necessary on our show without too much extra food in my stomach. On the weekends, when I'm away from the show and with my family, I relax a little. I love Mexican food.

FOR BARBARA WALTERS

Why did NBC start searching for a co-host for the "Today" show after Frank McGee died? Why didn't they just name you the sole host?—Mrs. L. L. Miller, Atlantic City, N.J.

● That would be too big a deal, too large a step for them to consider. I think they feel the show is better balanced with a male and female as co-hosts. I'm satisfied.

FOR ELLIOT RICHARDSON, former Attorney General

You seem to me to be one of the most respected politicians today. Would you be interested in being President? —Mildred Dill, Watkins Glen, N.Y.

● The short answer is, "Yes." The long answer would begin, "Yes, but . . . ," and then go on to detail all the intermediate questions that would have to be answered before I ever reached the main question.

FOR SHERIFF BUFORD PUSSER,
real-life hero of the movie "Walking Tall"

That scene in "Walking Tall" where your wife gets killed—how close was that to the real incident?—Jackie Motley, Chatham, Va.

● Pretty close. There was a change though. In real life my jaw was shot off, and this was considered too gory for movie audiences.

FOR KITTY CARLISLE, actress

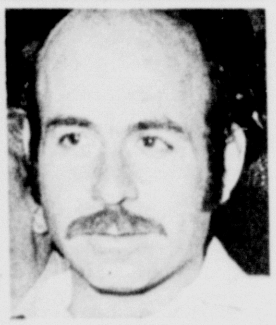
When you come out to greet Gary Moore on "To Tell the Truth," you always look as if you're dressed to go to the opera. What's the story behind your beautiful outfits?—Marguerite Reynolds, Pine Bluff, Ark.

● You're quite right! I am usually dressed to go to the opera in New York City. (The show, of course, is taped, so it's shown around the country at different times of day.)



FOR GARO YEPREMIAN,
Miami Dolphins field-goal kicker

Do the Miami players resent the defection of Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick to the World Football League? —Jack Wilson, Durham, N.C.

● Not many that I know of—especially the players who are signing new contracts with the Dolphins and are getting bigger raises than they would have received if Larry, Paul and Jim hadn't made their big decision.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

What kind of a man is Irving Wallace? His novels are full of sex, and I wondered if this reflects his personal life.—C. Baker, Aurora, Ill.

● Irving Wallace—whose latest novel is "The Fan Club"—has been happily married since June, 1941. He and his wife Sylvia have two children, David and Amy, who are also writers. Wallace feels that sex is a necessary ingredient in novels, if the plot calls for it. He concentrates on sex in his books because "that's what the public wants," and not because of personal hang-ups. He maintains that the basis of any book is readability, not the subject matter. He must be doing something right, because he is one of the five most widely read modern authors. He has written 16 novels, has sold over 92 million books, and written more than 500 magazine articles and short stories.

Is Our Rootlessness Making Us Less Human?

Frederic Lewis

While the footlooseness of Americans as pioneers was a source of vitality and charm, today's rootlessness is cause for alarm. Great numbers of Americans feel unconnected to either people or places and throughout much of the nation there is a breakdown in community living. In fact, we are confronted with a society that is coming apart at the seams.

"The loosely rooted life-style often creates immense strains that sour a love relationship. And if there are quarrels, there may not be anyone within a hundred miles who gives a damn whether or not the couple stays married, except perhaps small children."

To explore this major phenomenon of our times I made a number of trips to U.S. towns and cities that had attracted my curiosity. In my research I conducted samplings involving a few hundred people.

My exploration has led me to believe that at least 40 million Americans now lead feebly rooted lives. We are seeing so deep an upheaval of life patterns that we are becoming a nation of strangers. Not all Americans who find themselves uprooted or isolated are "nuts" or even convention-breakers. Many aren't fleeing conventions but just moving to or being transferred to a new area. But, for whatever reason, when a person finds himself caught up in an element of a society that is fragmenting with unusual rapidity, the experience has a predictable impact on his or her life-style.

Six kinds of impact seem particularly noteworthy:

First there is a tendency for people to do things "they wouldn't normally do back home." For some, this lessening concern for the consequences of one's actions can seem liberating. For others it can seem disquieting.

A 30-year-old salesman, now living in California, was one who seemed more uneasy than liberated. He recalled that in Canada as a boy he knew everyone in his neighborhood, but that in California he knew none of his neighbors. And he added as a general comment, "There's no morality here and I guess it is because nobody knows anybody, so that you can get away with stuff you couldn't in the old days."

● Personal bankruptcies tripled during a recent ten-year period. What is most noteworthy is the increasing casualness with which people take this move that once represented an ultimate in humiliation. Two possible explanations are that people who move a lot may be more prone to take chances on thin ice; and instant credit cards issued through anonymous companies tend to depersonalize one's indebtedness.

● There are many causes for the soaring U.S. crime rates, but certainly a major cause is the depersonalization of metropolitan life. People are far more willing to steal from strangers and institutions than from personal acquaintances witness the contrast between life in small towns, where doors frequently are left unlocked, and life in big cities, where residents often have three or four locks on a door.

● Even the confused state of the U.S. economy seems to reflect lessened concern for the social consequences of one's behavior. Edwin L. Dale, Jr., a leading economic analyst for The New York Times, tried to explain the puzzling fact that inflation is persisting despite high unemployment. This is contrary to conventional economic wisdom. He speculated that perhaps a dramatic change in attitudes of Americans in recent years toward being greedier and more out for oneself has disrupted the normal market mechanism.

● Perhaps, too, it is significant that the decline of the family doctor has in the past few years been accompanied by an epidemic of negligence suits against doctors. In many cities medical service has become so depersonalized – and so many rootless residents never come to have a personal relationship with a doctor—that citizens are suing the system. It is surely not a coincidence that the state that leads the nation in malpractice suits, California, is also the heartland of U.S. rootlessness. While for the nation in general about 15 percent of all doctors have faced malpractice claims, in California the figure is close to 70 percent!

● Finally there is the startling rise in premarital and extramarital sexual relationships. This casualness about sex is unquestionably related to the lessened concern for the social consequences of "misbehaving." The mobility of families, the upheaval of neighborhoods, the travels of husbands (leaving lonely wives behind), the anonymity of big-city living – all have undermined normal modes of social control.

● The lessened concern about social consequences and the lessened awareness of social disapproval are also reflected in the decline in the permanence of marriage. The loosely rooted life-style often creates immense strains that sour a love relationship. And if there are quarrels, there may not be anyone within a hundred miles who gives a damn whether or not the couple stays married, except perhaps small children caught in the middle of the quarreling.

It is undoubtedly more than a coincidence that the incidence of divorce by regions in America shows some rather striking similarities to the American Telephone & Telegraph Company's records revealing the incidence of mobility. AT&T finds that mobility in Western states is double that in the Northeast. And, regarding divorce, the U.S. Office of Vital Statistics finds that the divorce rate in the West is more than four times as high as that in the Northeast!

A second way that a loosely rooted pattern of life affects people's behavior is in their approach to socializing. They either resign themselves to relative aloneness or they tend to become adept at instant gregariousness.

A man can become a pal for two hours with a stranger he meets on the golf course with full knowledge that he probably will never see the person again. The trick is the knack for affability. The New Gregarions can be fairly indiscriminate in their selection of new friends, who become as interchangeable as cars. At least one investigation of so-called "high mobiles" in new real estate developments has shown that their "friends" are mostly within a hundred yards.

All this instant "palship" is producing a new widespread blandness in human relations. Keeping friendships bland and readily disconnectable seems harder on women than on men. They make more effort to keep in touch with friends in former locations. An oil company executive's wife in Connecticut confessed that in her family's first few moves, she made really close friends. "It was painful when I had to leave. Now I have a tendency not to get so close."

Along with this, a new coolness is, for many people, coming over traditionally warm, supportive relationships. There is a wariness of involvement. People in emotional distress are often shunned. When an acquaintance dies and it is announced that friends are invited to call at the funeral home, many wonder if they really knew the deceased well enough to get involved.

A couple of years ago an up-to-date mortician in Atlanta offered a modern solution to the "viewing" problem; he built a drive-in mortuary where the tilted body of the deceased could be viewed through a window. People could drive by, perhaps leave a card, and keep on going. They didn't have to get dressed up. And they didn't have to get involved in the uncomfortable business of personally sharing grief and offering compassion.

A third distinctive pattern in the life-style of loosely rooted people is their peculiar approach to establishing and furnishing a house and buying possessions.

James Mills, president of Home Fact, Inc., and a consultant to builders, was telling me about the nesting habits of corporate transferees. He explained: "The transferee doesn't want to get zapped. He looks at a house strictly as an investment. He's thinking about getting out even before he buys."

A long-time resident of Darien, Conn., explains the kind of house the transferee in Darien wants: "He wants nothing unusual about the house. It's either a ranch or a colonial—and it is typical. Nothing different. We don't have many contemporary houses here. The contemporary house is a big risk if you are going to move on because it is a house with individuality. The transferee knows that a house with individuality is harder to move in a quick sale."

The transferee's wife, decorating the family's new house, also tends to be careful. For example, a wife near Schenectady who had moved during almost every year of her 15 years of marriage told me: "In decorating a new home I stay clear of vivid or unusual colors that would only fit in a certain room. In other words, I settle for something that will move well, rather than what I really like."

"An up-to-date mortician in Atlanta offered a modern solution to the 'viewing' problem; he built a drive-in mortuary where the tilted body of the deceased could be viewed through a window. People could drive by, perhaps leave a card, and keep on going. They didn't have to get dressed up. And they didn't have to get involved in the uncomfortable business of personally sharing grief and offering compassion."

Among people who are loosely rooted because of neighborhood upheaval, there is a clear tendency not to take pride in keeping up their part of the street. Who cares? Competition for approval diminishes among strangers. This is a major cause of the continued spread of gray areas and desecration in large urban sections.

A fourth distinctive pattern characteristic of a loosely rooted people is a relative indifference to local happenings in the towns they inhabit and to the social life in the area. One of the accidental findings I began noticing in my search was that only one out of nine of the high-

Celebrities Talk About Divorce:

The Unchanging Ordeal and How Famous People Have Coped With It

"I learned then how extremely vulnerable and very fragile I am."—Dyan Cannon

"Nobody ever wins in a divorce," says JOANNE CARSON, the former wife of TV star Johnny Carson. "You both lose something. I think that's the strongest thing that comes through, the fact that you've both lost. There is the agony of picking up the pieces. First you have to find what the pieces are to put back together again. You have to find yourself and start all over. It's a very emotional, volatile thing. Your emotions are pulled and tied and knotted up.

"The agonies hit every point in your life. There is no way to go through divorce easily. I don't care who wants out, both people go through their own private hells. It touches every single part of your life from skin to gut level."

When people hear that movie stars are getting divorced, they tend to think, "My, isn't that easy! In Hollywood, they just keep marrying and divorcing and remarrying. Well, with all the money they've got, it's easy to pay alimony, hire divorce attorneys, special counsels or psychiatrists!" Yes, TV and movie people do have more money. But they can be just as traumatized as average people by the agonies of divorce.

Take ANTHONY QUINN, who is still emotionally involved with his former wife, Katherine de Mille. "I'm an unusual case because I still love my first wife madly," he says. "And the fact that we no longer share the same roof does not mean we do not share the same interests (apart from the children), nor does it mean I have been divorced emotionally! We grew apart for many reasons, but I must say it's difficult for my second wife to understand sometimes when I say that. I love Kate very much. She's one of the most intelligent human beings in the world. I mean I can't say enough about her."

NATALIE WOOD and ROBERT WAGNER married, split and came together again, accompanied by great notoriety every step of the way.

"We had each other in our youth," Natalie said. They married on her 18th birthday and instantly became one of Hollywood's most talked-about and envied couples. The match ended abruptly four years later. Wagner, who remarried Natalie in 1972, confided, "I find it much easier being married now because a lot of time has gone by and a lot of experience."

Why the divorce in the first place? What did they learn from the separation? And what makes them think the marriage will work this time?

Here's what Bob Wagner said: "First of all, we don't look back to explore what it was like before. We don't try to analyze what went wrong, we don't think about the past. Maybe that's why we have a better chance of making it work this time. Secondly, and I hope this doesn't sound too corny, but it's like a line in Sammy Cahn's song, 'Love Is Better the Second Time Around.' We are fortunate to have had a second chance—and to recognize it. We didn't have to convince each other, we didn't have to pressure each other into a decision, it just happened. But let me make one point clear. I strongly believe that everyone has a second chance, not just in marriage but in everything he does."

JOANNA CASSIDY, movie star on the rise (she stars opposite George C. Scott in "Bank Shot"), was separated from her psychiatrist husband last year, when she entered movies. She finds her problem compounded by her two small children. Joanna's difficult decision to separate came, she says, from her acute desire to survive. "In an unhappy marriage you weigh, 'Is it best to have Daddy and unhappiness? Or be without Daddy and have relative peace?' It is worse if it's dragged out, as most people do in trying to put the pieces together. Marriage shouldn't be an endurance test, especially when children are involved."

ELLEN BURSTYN (the mother in "The Exorcist"), who has a son, sees divorce as the last resort. "Carl Jung said an interesting thing: Religion is no longer the active force that it once was in the Western world, when people were working out their salvations through their religious experiences. Now, people are working out their salvations in the man-woman relationships. And if you can't work out your salvation in one relationship, you have to start all over again finding your salvation somewhere else."

Beautiful blonde movie actress ANGEL TOMPKINS is vocal about the child who's involved in a divorce. Not only did she have to live through the kidnapping of her own son (two years after she was granted custody by the judge), but her own childhood was marked by a succession of mothers.

"Using a child as a football, batting him back and forth between his parents, is horrible! Somehow I instinctively knew my various mothers weren't going to stay! That's a crime for a child. It's much better to have one parent than to have two parents who are totally unhappy. The mere fact that parents use their children means that they are not equipped to handle their own lives emotionally.

"The important thing is to keep your child as happy as possible, striving for a happy, normal way of life. Otherwise, the child is always trying to fantasize about something that is never going to be. Heaven knows, I always fantasized the normalcy of having a mother and coming home from school to sweet-smelling dinners instead of cooking my own, as I did as a child. I'd have loved to have had somebody say, 'Will you get up and get dressed! Go put on your clothes!' I needed so much to hear all that nonsense because it meant love and attention."

Actress DYAN CANNON, ex-wife of actor Cary Grant, is an example of how the bitter battle for child custody and alimony seems to cause an eternity of problems. Since Dyan receives no alimony and cannot take her daughter out of the country, she has accepted very little work abroad. She is determined to spend as much time as possible with seven-year-old Jennifer.

Dyan remembers her own childhood confusion when her mother told her about "another woman that Daddy had wanted to marry. It shook me!" The whole idea of previous marriages is tough for a child to handle. "I wonder how I'm going to tell Jennifer her daddy had other wives," Dyan said.

Caine

Dyan says therapy helped put her life back in order after her shattering divorce experience. "There are women all over this country who have two or three children and whose husbands have left them without alimony or child support. If they don't know how to work or don't have a trade, what do these women do? My work was everything to me right after my divorce. I found out that the only way my creativity was going to come out was to have the confidence to live alone.

"For the first time, I began to slow down and stop kidding myself. Until then, I didn't know I'd been kidding myself. I had convinced myself that material things were making me happy. I learned then how extremely vulnerable and very fragile I am. I had to develop strength to fend off the blows!"

MICHAEL CAINE married Shakira Baksh in July, 1973. He says: "I'm tremendously family-oriented. That's strange coming from someone who's been divorced. But I like a more settled life. You get tired. I mean I rousted about a lot for quite a long time. I would like to be a patriarch and have 105 grandchildren!

"It's very difficult to find the right girl. It's difficult to say what I admire most in a woman. It varies as you go along. When you're 20, you're looking for a woman who won't phone you the next day. When you're 25, you're looking for one who will!"

Above all, Caine values self-respect. "I mean, it's important for a woman to be respected by her particular man. That only comes about in the same ratio as she respects herself, so she always gets the sort of man she deserves."

GODFREY CAMBRIDGE says, "My agony is my monthly contribution to my ex! On a clear day, you can see her apartment from the 24th Precinct, which is where she ought to be! I don't even sign her alimony checks. I get my lawyers to sign them. I've been divorced for five years.

"I used to take her out and introduce her to people at parties just trying to get rid of that chick! I'd say, 'Hey, man, that's a groovy chick over there.' And then the guy'd say, 'But I hear she's yours. . . .' And I'd answer, 'But I was injured in the war!'

"I've been all through the business of trying to 'make up.' I've sat through expensive meals at Gallaghers' Steak House, ordering the Chateaubriand, and, because I'm often on a diet, drinking black coffee just to keep from eating the pumpernickel rolls because I've got a lot of anxieties! We really hated each other, but we sat there because we were going to try and make it, right? But what you do is swallow the coffee, burn your tongue and realize you're not even going to eat the steak when it comes. There is real agony in the futility of knowing it's not working and never will.

"Mine is a special situation. I was married for two and a half years and had no kids. I was an off-Broadway actor, driving a cab most of the time and making $75 a week. My wife collects money and will collect it until the day I die unless she remarries. She's a young woman, an actress, a writer, a trained schoolteacher, and runs a funded theater. But I'm still sending checks each month."

Cambridge

Mimieux

Swiss-born actress YVETTE MIMIEUX married briefly when she was very young, was very quietly divorced and remarried just last year. "I'm not a cynical person. In fact, I'm a romantic person. But I don't think any relationship is forever. When we only lived to be 40, marriage meant forever and that was terrific. But now you may live to be 80. Are you still going to relate in the same way or any way other than habit to the person you married at 18? No way. Of course, there's always that rare exception, when you feel you're in rhythm with another person. Everything seems right. It may even be a metabolic thing, because you seem to have the same energy levels!

"Then, I believe, long-time marriage is possible. And when you have that, the world is yours."

What more fitting time to recall the essential greatness of our presidents than now, as our nation nears the excitement of its 200th birthday celebration in 1976.

A MAGNIFICENT TREASURY OF FINE ART

A glorious example of the engravers' art, these thirty-six Presidents ingots are each flawless gleaming mirror-like ingots and will be issued two per month. And as a special bonus a 37th ingot of the Bicentennial President will be struck and sent to you Free soon after the next president is known. Each will contain 480 grains of the purest silver available anywhere. In 18 months, subscribers will have amassed 3 troy pounds of .999 Fine Silver - 17,000 grains in all — more silver than the average family accumulates in a lifetime.

STUNNINGLY DESIGNED, METICULOUSLY CRAFTED

It is unlikely that you have ever seen pure silver ingots such as these before. Designed by master sculpter Alfred Brunettin, the surfaces glow with a duality of finishes; exquisite satin bas relief sculpture dramatically highlighted by brilliant, mirror-perfect backgrounds. The illustrations above only suggest the superlative detail of these ingots. To hold them in your hand is to almost experience all the history of the Office of President.

PRESIDENTIAL REFERENCE VOLUME INCLUDED FREE

A beautiful full-color, richly illustrated and carefully researched reference book containing personal background and achievements of each of the 36 Presidents compliments this collection.

In addition, the Hamilton Mint Hallmark on each ingot will attest to the integrity of the series and to its full precious metal content.

The Doctor Lets You In

How to Pick a Vitamin Tablet

You read a lot about vitamin tablets. You know vitamins are necessary in nutrition. But how do you choose the right kind of tablet? First, pick one that is a vitamin-mineral combination. The reason: Minerals, especially trace minerals, such as zinc, copper, iodine, and other minerals, such as iron, are as important as the vitamins. Second, don't take super-duper claims literally. Read the small print on the sides of the label. Look at the names and quantities of the vitamins and minerals that a product contains. See if the amount stated for a given vitamin or mineral is per single tablet. That is important because sometimes the quantity is given per daily dose, and elsewhere you may read that the dose may be three tablets daily. That would make a tablet only one-third the strength. Next, compare different brands. Finally, if you need an extra amount of a given vitamin—say, 250 mgs. of vitamin C—and the multivitamin tablet of your choice contains only 90 mgs., don't take more multivitamins in order to make up 250 mgs. of vitamin C. Instead, buy a vitamin C tablet of the strength you need and take it in addition to your regular multivitamin-mineral tablet.... Are the cheap brands just as good as the well-advertised ones? Often, yes. But many people prefer to buy the nationally known brands on the theory that the quality control may be better.... Do not take extra vitamins A or D—except in the amounts in the regular multivitamin-mineral tablets. These are the only ones that can be toxic in larger amounts. . . . Last but not least, depend on food as your primary nutritional defense. Vitamins and minerals are supplements, not substitutes, for a varied and balanced diet.—By Erwin Di Cyan, Ph.D.

NOTE: Dr. Erwin Di Cyan has recently written a book on vitamins, "Vitamins in Your Life" (Simon and Schuster, $7.95).

mobile towns I examined most carefully had a daily newspaper of known circulation; whereas every single one of the 11 stable towns I visited had one. In high-mobile areas even the weeklies often have "controlled circulation," meaning that they are "free" and are sometimes referred to as advertising "throw-aways."

In high-mobile areas that do have newspapers, the announcements of marriages and engagements are skimmed at most, whereas in stable communities they are still read with considerable interest.

A fifth possible characteristic commonly found in loosely rooted people is an uncertain sense of self. That at least is the contention of historian Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., based on his study of recent Presidents of the United States. And as a case in point he cited Richard Nixon, soon after he became President. Since Professor Schlesinger is not only a historian but a Democrat, his view may be somewhat partisan. At any rate he stated:

"Nearly every other American President has had deep and sturdy roots geographically and socially. . . . In contrast, Mr. Nixon, born in California, trained in the law in North Carolina, elected to the Presidency from New York, seems sectionless and classless," and carried a particular appeal to others who are rootless, sectionless, classless, mobile. Schlesinger believes this rootlessness accounts for the fact that Mr. Nixon seems to many an "elusive" figure and has a wavering sense of self that he works hard to control. Rootless people, he added, are often quick to feel angry or threatened.

A sixth predictable impact on the life-style of loosely rooted people concerns their values. Nomadic individuals tend to develop nomadic values. Perhaps most conspicuous is a greater tendency to live for the moment. This perhaps accounts for what one observer calls "the new immediacy."

The wife of an oft-transferred manager in the Northeast said most transients feel that one learns to live each day as fully as one can and not to worry too much about the future. Much the same sense of immediacy has swept over the restless and high-mobile young. They have gloried in their impulsiveness, and sometimes called themselves the Now Generation. They have been wary of getting themselves committed to any long-term activities for the future.

As historian George Pierson has noted: "Flight can be an escape from the future as well as the past." This philosophy was neatly summed up in a comment by actor Jack Nicholson in the award-winning movie "Five Easy Pieces." He was a West Coast floater. Much of the time he seemed to be enjoying himself, but at the end, as he embarked on a new, seemingly irrational move, he explained: "I keep moving, not because I hope things will get better, but because I know they will get bad if I stay."

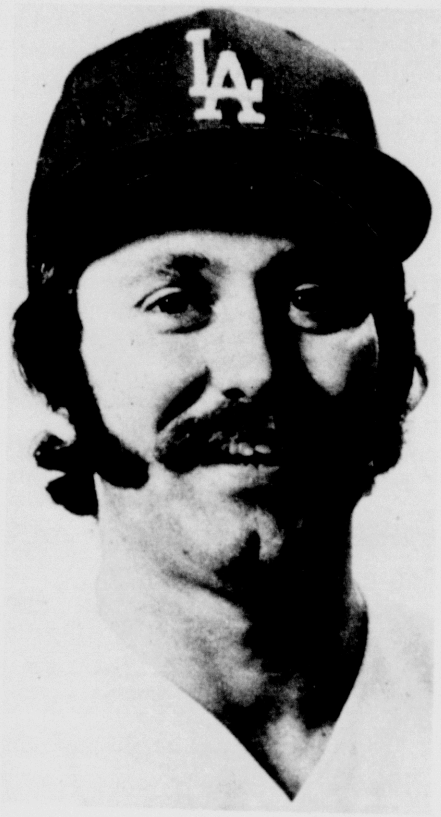
MIKE MARSHALL:

He Uses "Kinesiology" to Strike Out Batters



Mike Marshall, star relief pitcher for the Los Angeles Dodgers, attributes his success on the mound to his mastery of "kinesiology"—the study of the principles of mechanics and anatomy in relation to human movement. Marshall has applied the principles of kinesiology to develop a screwball that baffles opposition hitters and wins tight ball games for the Dodgers.

Last year, Marshall set a major-league record by appearing in 92 games for the Montreal Expos and recording 32 saves. Since being traded to Los Angeles, he has continued his workhorse habits, and manager Walt Alston describes him as "the best relief pitcher in our league.". . . Marshall not only practices the art of kinesiology but teaches it at Michigan State University, where he is pursuing a Ph.D in the off-season. His intellectual background has made him an individualist in his sport. He has criticized the overemphasis on sports in society and also criticized the Little Leagues for placing too much stress on winning. . . . Marshall is a native of Adrian, Mich., and began his baseball career as a shortstop. He switched to pitching in 1965 and found that the practice of throwing every day as an infielder had conditioned his arm so he could throw more often than other pitchers. His studies in psychology in college and post-graduate work have also helped him to make a scientific study of hitters and determine their deficiencies. . . . Marshall appeared in 223 games during the past three years for Montreal and earned the nickname "Iron Mike." "My arm never gets tired," he claims. He follows a daily training and exercise program to condition him against fatigue. He was second in the balloting for the Cy Young award last season and hopes to wind up No. 1 this year. "Iron Mike" is married and the father of three children.—By Barry Abramson

DELIVERY BY ACUPUNCTURE
The Holding family

Will acupuncture ever replace the Lamaze method of giving birth? It may, some doctors feel, if people continue to experiment with the pain-killing process. When Zereh Holding was born in Australia, her mother was given acupuncture instead of an anesthetic. A Chinese acupuncturist inserted needles into Carla Holding's right ear and between her forefinger and thumb two hours before she was admitted to the hospital. Three needles were later inserted in her back. "I had strong contractions, but I didn't feel much pain," the 20-year-old mother said after the event. The baby's father, Christopher Healy, 23, was present throughout the birth. He described it as "fabulous," although he didn't have any acupuncture himself.

A recent article in FAMILY WEEKLY about oral surgery – "New Faces From New Jawlines," by Ann O'Shea– that appeared in our May 19 issue brought in hundreds of letters from our readers. If you want to know more about oral-surgery training centers in your area, you can write to the American Society of Oral Surgeons, Dept. FW, 311 E. Chicago Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Diahann Carroll on Women's Lib: "There are some aspects that make sense and are long overdue, like when it comes to hiring or firing girls. But I also think a lot of ladies involved in Women's Lib have frustrations in other areas that I can't identify with. I've never operated under pressure in my personal life and I don't feel a female inferiority. I have no qualms about asking a man to do the dishes or change a baby's diaper. I did my share of bringing in part of the bacon when I was married. I believe it's a 50-50 world."

DONALD NIXON, SR.
Don't embarrass the President

"Edward was not the only Nixon involved with Robert Vesco," says a new book about corruption in U.S. business. "Donald Nixon's son, Donald Jr., was Vesco's personal business aide from the time be began his looting of IOS. When Donald Jr. first went to work for Vesco, his father admonished him not to say he was going to work for Investors Overseas Services. 'If that gets around, he's going to be in a lot of trouble. I told him to say he was going to work for International Controls. IOS and International Controls are allied companies, but he's not supposed to say he's working for IOS. . . . That dumb so and so,' Donald said of his son. 'John Erlichman talked to him for a couple of hours and told him to behave over there. You know he told him he was the President's nephew and couldn't do anything to embarrass the President.' When the scandal broke, Donald Jr., who had spent time in the mountains with hippies before joining IOS, observed that 'It's a heavy trip that we're all on now, I'm afraid.'" From "Dirty Business," by Ovid Demaris (Harper's Magazine Press, $10.95).

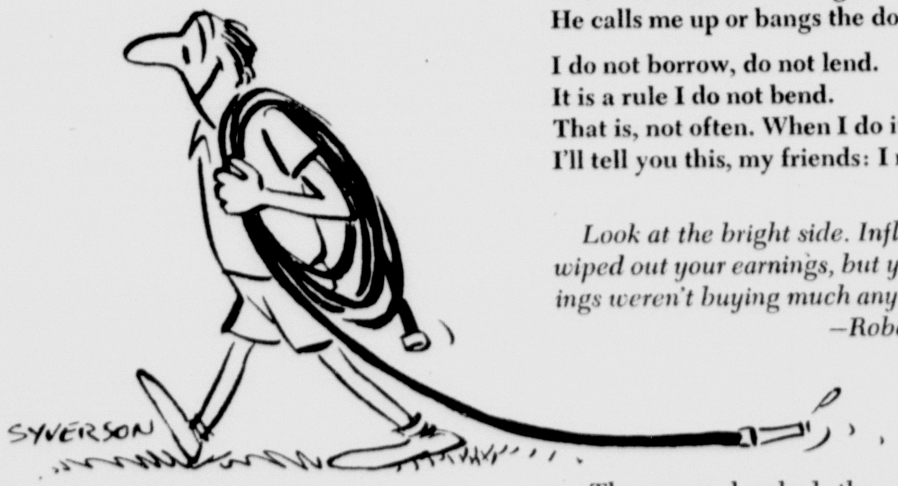
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour



LEND ME YOUR EARS

I do not lend, I do not borrow,
For I have learned, much to my sorrow,
That what I lend I don't get back
Or if I do it's with a crack,
A dent, or something loose or rusted,
If it's, indeed, not wholly busted.

And what I borrow I forget
And might, in fact, have even yet
But that the owner drops a hint
(His eyes reveal a steely glint),
And if the hint I should ignore
He calls me up or bangs the door.

I do not borrow, do not lend.
It is a rule I do not bend.
That is, not often. When I do it,
I'll tell you this, my friends: I rue it.

Look at the bright side. Inflation has wiped out your earnings, but your earnings weren't buying much anyway.
–Robert Brault

The general asked the computer, "Will there be war or peace?" The computer flashed, buzzed, blinked and said, "Yes." "Yes, what?" roared the general. The computer flashed, buzzed, blinked and then barked, "Yes, sir!"
–Conrad Fiorello

The average man's idea of a good sermon is one that goes over his head and hits a neighbor.

One day some of my son's playmates asked him if he was adopted. He said, "I don't know. I was born in a hospital." "Oh," the others said, "then you're not adopted." –Florence Ova

While we were driving along the main street of our town my young daughter saw a realtor's For Sale sign on a tree in front of a beautiful Spanish-style home. She turned and asked me, "Why would anyone want to sell such a big tree?" –Wally Bitters

Wanted: Someone to ride with Zane Grey

How would you like to ride hell-bent for leather into a world full of adventure and heroism — the world made vividly real by Zane Grey?

It's a world where the Plains Indians, the world's greatest horsemen, once more don their war paint to hunt scalps. And thin-lipped, soft-spoken men, squinting against the sun, carve out their destinies . . . on their own terms.

If this world is one you'd like to explore, we'll send you — for only $1 — three of the greatest books Zane Grey ever wrote.

Wild Horse Mesa, a Western "Moby Dick," that portrays a man's desperate search for the King of the Horses.

These handsome, hardbound books are clothed in sunset red, desert tan and cavalry blue, and stamped in genuine gold. They're the first of what could be a library of Western classics you'll be proud to own.

That's why we offer you three Zane Grey books (which are regularly $11.67) for only $1.

We think you'll be impressed. And that you'll want to own others in the series as they become available.

They will include: Wildfire, Wilderness Trek, The Vanishing American, Fighting Caravans, The Hash Knife Outfit, Maverick Queen, Thunder Mountain, and many more.

Because we print in large quantities, and because we sell directly to the public, we can offer our subscribers beautifully bound Zane Grey books for only a fraction of what you'd expect to pay — only $3.89 each plus a small shipping charge.

THE ZANE GREY LIBRARY, Roslyn, N.Y. 11576

Please enroll me as a subscriber and send me at once Riders of the Purple Sage, The Thundering Herd and Wild Horse Mesa. I enclose no money now. After a week's examination, I will either keep my books and pay $1 (plus postage and handling) or return them.

Also reserve for me additional volumes in the Zane Grey Library series. As a subscriber, I will get advance descriptions of future volumes. For each volume I choose, I will pay $3.89 (plus postage and handling). I may return any book at the Library's expense for full credit and I may cancel my reservation at any time.
